Big Steel on the Pacific.
Good News, Generally.
Senator Nye, in a Hurry.
Bigger Than Finance.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ONLY three hours of trading on the Stock Exchange yesterday. Opening at noon, closing at 3, no more buying or selling until Monday.

Many rushed to buy as though there never would be another chance.

There will be other chances.

Prices went up, then went down a little, not as far down as they had gone up.

BIG news was the announcement by the United States Steel Corporation that it had purchased the Columbia Steel Corporation, biggest organization on the Pacific Coast.

It is important news for the steel industry, and particularly important for California, and all the Pacific coast states, when the biggest steel concern in the world, hitherto confined to Chicago, Pittsburgh, Gary and Birmingham, Ala., reaches into the great West, moving from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

THE purchase of the Columbia Company, with its annual capacity of 340,000 gross tons of steel ingots, shows the wisdom of modern industry.

Under antiquated methods, big steel would have moved to the Pacific to fight Columbia Steel and "try to put it out of business." Instead, the power and intelligence of the big steel company, directed by Chairman Myron C. Taylor, and President Farrell, will be concentrated on making steel, not devoted to fighting somebody else or paying doubly for a double overhead.

MINES in Utah will supply ore for United States Steel Pacific Coast plants for the present.

Later, hydro-electric power from the Columbia River may take the place of coal, if the steel experts develop, as they hope to do, steel production by electricity, which would mean a saving of heat, and production of pure steel of a quality hitherto never made in quantities, of the "pure iron" of the Damascus blade.

NEWS yesterday was good news, generally speaking. Brokers' loans diminished $1,096,000,000, which means that speculators found that amount of money to reduce borrowings on margin.

THE Federal Reserve Bank, realizing suddenly that this is a nation and not a pawn shop, reduced the rediscount rate from 6 to 5 per cent.

Perhaps it will influence professional money lenders to suspend for a while the orgy of usury.

SENATOR NYE, of North Dakota, wants Wall Street and "all speculation sifted." What's more, he wants a remedy ready by February 1.

That's a short time for so big a job.

The proud red Indian piles up his shirt and blanket, bets them on a pony race, standing in dignified nudity.

TWO ways of getting something. One is to work, the other to gamble.

Ninety per cent of human beings prefer the gambling way.

That will be changed a good deal later than February 1, 1930.

YESTERDAY'S most important financial news, nothing to do with Wall Street, tells you that New Jersey, first among the states, has absolutely wiped out the gypsy moth.

Gov. Larsen and the State Agricultural Department are to be congratulated on a fine achievement.

MORE money than Wall Street could lose in a dozen panics would be saved if science could eliminate agricultural pests—the boll weevil, corn borer and the rest of the army.

EXCELLENT news comes from Florida as to the success of that state in dealing with the Mediterranean fruit fly. It has been a costly battle, but worth the money and trouble.

SAMUEL INSULL and other big employers, following the example of Julius Rosenwald, supply money to protect employes from losses in stock speculation.

Henry Ford wouldn't agree with that idea. Two years ago, when this writer mentioned certain stocks in which there were bound to be heavy losses, Ford said: "Of course. But that's the only way people can learn."

Whether it is wise not to let nature take its course in gambling as in other things is questionable.

LILLIAN FOSTER, American actress of character, didn't like what the British critic, Hannen Swaffer, said about her.

Seeing Mr. Swaffer at the Savoy Hotel, she slapped his face twice. Swaffer is "amazed at his own calmness under the circumstances."

MISS FOSTER used the oldest form of criticism, the sort that babies use on their nurses. Mr. Swaffer says: "I called the head waiter and said: 'Throw this woman out.' This was done." The critic had compared Miss Foster's voice with a ventriloquist's doll, criticising her American accent.

DUKES AND GENEVA SET FOR NIGHT GRID INAUGURAL

Night football will be inaugurated in Pittsburgh tonight, when Duquesne University ushers in the experiment at Forbes Field, with Geneva College serving as the opponent in a Tri-State Conference game. The kick-off is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

Despite the fact that clouds overhead threatened to toss a wet blanket on the contest, indications late today were that the Dukes would play to one of the largest crowds in their history. They have had an exceptionally good advance sale and all of the reserved seats will be under cover. The general admission seats are in the bleachers.

A special lighting system has been installed for the occasion, and, if the game is a success, night football will be retained for the remainder of the season by the Dukes.

COMEBACK FOR GENEVA

Geneva, which lost by the astonishing score of 34 to 0 to Grove City last Saturday, is expected to show a return to top form and give the Dukes a tough battle. The Dukes, refreshed by their rest over the last week-end, have their full fighting strength ready for the occasion.

Even Sammy Pratt, the star end, who hasn't been able to play since the West Virginia game, in which he caught a forward pass for the touchdown that tied the score at 7-7, is ready to be injected into the fray if needed. He likely will not start, however.

Odds on the contest today were 10 to 7, with the Dukes the favorites.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR FANS

The Dukes have arranged for entertainment for the spectators between halves and also before the game, when an American flag will be run up the flagpole, followed by Duquesne and Geneva pennants. A spotlight will be thrown on the flags as the band plays "The Star Spangled Banner."

BUCKEYES DRILL AT STADIUM

The Ohio State University football squad engaged in a brisk workout at the Stadium this afternoon behind closed gates to polish up for its battle with the University of Pittsburgh Panthers tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Buckeye gridders arrived at the Pennsylvania Station at 12:15 p. m., coming from Columbus in special cars. The squad was given a boisterous reception at the depot by a large delegation of local alumni of Ohio State and other Western Conference schools.

EX-CABINET OFFICER MAY NOT SERVE PRISON TERM

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Albert B. Fall, ex-secretary of the interior, was sentenced today to a year in prison and fined $100,000 for accepting from E. L. Doheny another $100,000 after he had leased the California oil baron the Elk Hills naval reserve. The jury that tried the ex-cabinet officer said it was a bribe.

The prison sentence, however, was somewhat of the synthetic variety, Justice William Hitz announcing from the bench that if Fall were compelled to go to prison at this time he would have suspended that part of it.

MAY NOT SERVE TERM

Inasmuch as Fall's attorneys are planning to appeal the sentence to the Supreme Court, which automatically acts as a stay, and in view of Fall's pitiable physical condition, the court decided to tack on the prison sentence, even though it probably never will be served.

It will stand in the record against him, however, for all time—the first prison sentence ever pronounced upon a cabinet officer for commission of a felony.

The fine was only one-third of the amount which the court could have imposed upon the aged defendant. The law specifies that the fine could have been three times the amount of the bribe, or $300,000, but the court only assessed the amount of the bribe, $100,000.

MAXIMUM PENALTY

Justice Hitz, in passing judgment, called attention to the fact that the maximum penalty provided three years in prison and a fine

BINGHAM REBUKE ASKED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—A resolution of scathing censure of Senator Hiram Bingham (Rep.), of necticut, for his action in em ing a paid lobbyist to help hi writing new tariff rates, was i duced in the Senate today by tor Norris (Rep.), of Nebrask surgent leader.

The resolution was the first attempt to censure a senator in 19 years. It declared Bingham's employment of Charles L. Eyanson, Connecticut manufacturers' agent, was "contrary to good morals and senatorial ethics" and tended to "bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute."

The resolution, if passed, would place the Senate on record as formally condemning Bingham's action. It said:

"That the action of the senator from Connecticut, Mr. Bingham, in placing Mr. Charles L. Eyanson upon the official rolls of the Senate at the time and in

Flying Heels Wins Futurity at Pimlico

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Flying heels won the 1929 futurity $50,000 stake event for 2-year-olds this afternoon by outlasting a fairly strong field over the mile and a sixteenth distance. Flying Heels won in a hot finish with Galahad second and Spinach third.

A field of 15 went to the post for a race that paid a purse well over $53,000, but the juvenile stars of the turf were not among them this time. Flying Heels, coming from nowhere in the stretch, proved the class of the event.

HUNTING ACCIDENTS MAR SEASON OPENING

Reports of hunting accidents in different parts of the state followed hard on the heels of the opening of the season for small game today.

W. P. Lohr, 48, of Eleanor street, Pitcairn, the first local casualty reported, was shot but not seriously wounded by an unidentified hunter near Mt. Pleasant, Westmoreland county.

Charles (Petey) Kerns, 74, veteran woodsman of the Connellsville district, and H. L. Buchanan, of Grove City, were superficially wounded by hunting companions who fired at rabbits.

From Harrisburg came the report that Charles Eckert, 37, of Mechanicsburg, was shot in the left eye and chest and likely will lose the sight of his eye.

In the Doylestown Hospital, Anthony Bilhardt, 38, of Philadelphia, is suffering from gunshot wounds of chest and abdomen as a result of his companions firing at a rabbit. William W. Robinson, 71, of Sharon, dropped dead from a heart attack while hunting near Sheakleyville, according to report.

Carl Wallace, a member of the New Castle police force, was shot twice in the left side, arm and back of the head as a companion fired at a rabbit.

Fire in Penitentiary Here Easily Checked

Firemen today battled and promptly subdued two unusual fires:

In 20 minutes they extinguished a fire in the boiler house of Western Penitentiary while police guarded against a possible outbreak of prisoners.

Two firemen were burned as they conquered a blaze following explosion of a still at 973 Industry street.

Fire broke out in the Western Penitentiary, in Woods Run, at 6:50 a. m. today.

Hundreds of prisoners, in their cells awaiting the call to breakfast, were orderly and unexcited as they heard fire engines arriving.

The fire, in the insulation on electric wires of a conduit under the boiler house, was extinguished in 20 minutes.

A few prisoners employed in the boiler house and the adjoining baking shop were the only ones out of

BOY KILLED ON WAY HOME FROM CHURCH

Sylvester Pisarski, 11, was on his way back home with his two brothers. They had been to church today, a holy day of obligation for Catholics.

Sylvester was crossing the railroad tracks above Second avenue and Bates street when a passenger train bore down on him.

His brother, Henry, 13, following him, cried to him to stop. He stepped into the path of the train. Walter, 9, also saw the accident.

The locomotive hit Sylvester, hurled his body 30 feet into Second avenue. He was dead when the morgue ambulance, which happened to be passing, reached him.

Sylvester lived at 4400 Chatsworth street, Hazelwood. He was a pupil at St. Agnes Parochial School and attended St. Hyacinth's Church.

LANDIS HOLDS UP BUCS' SERIES MONEY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Pirates have not yet received their second place world series money, and members of the team, it developed today, have come to the conclusion there is something wrong with their method of distribution of the cash. In fewer words, Judge Landis apparently is holding up the Pittsburgh shares, subject to a "new deal."

Just what player or players have been slighted, if any, cannot be learned at this time, but the fact that the money has not been given the players is an indication there is something wrong. The series has been over for three weeks.

This is not the first time the Pittsburgh end has been held up and revised by Landis. The players have some of the options in the matter, but there are certain rules that must be observed in the division.

Heat Today Breaks Record of 40 Years

The hottest November 1 in 40 years. That was the record made by the mercury here today. The mark was 74.

Back in 1876 the mercury mounted to 78, but since then the temperature never went above 74 on November 1. The only other time that temperature was recorded was in 1888.

LESLIE AND W. C. T. U. FOR VOTE MACHINE

State Senator M. G. Leslie today came out publicly in favor of the adoption of voting machines in Allegheny County as a substitute for paper ballots. He signed a statement to the effect he would use his influence to induce the citizens to vote for voting machines at the election next Tuesday.

The Allegheny County Women's Christian Temperance Union also indorsed voting machines today.

Many of the approximately 1,700 persons whose names were stricken from the ballot check list and voters' check list by the registration commissioners can be reinstated on the books if they can produce 1928 tax receipts, the commissioners announced today.

They have already re-instated several names. A form letter has been sent out advising the 1,700 that their names had been stricken from the list on complaint of the election committee of the Bar Association.

The action of the board today opens the way for any of these to be re-enfranchised for the general election next Tuesday and the spring primaries.

HOOVER TARIFF DEMAND BRINGS CHAOTIC SENATE SPLIT

FATE OF BILL MENACED BY ORDER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Not in many years of bloc-battling, alliance-making and factional-coalescing in Congress has Washington witnessed such a strange political mixup as existed in the Senate today over President Hoover's demand that the tariff bill be enacted within two weeks.

The regular Republicans are split, the Democrats are split, the Republican insurgents are split and the coalition of Democrats and insurgent Republicans, which has demonstrated its ability to control at every step in this tariff-making, has been rent asunder by Mr. Hoover's sudden intervention in the tariff war.

REED, SMOOT AT ODDS

Such Republican high-protection stalwarts as Senators Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, and Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, are at odds on whether the tariff bill should be abandoned as an incorrigible child, or an attempt made to nurse it to enactment under conditions wholly unacceptable to the industrial East.

Such consistent dissenters as Senators Borah (Rep.), of Idaho; Johnson (Rep.), of California, and Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, differ on Mr. Hoover's demand, the Idahoan insisting that it can be met, and the Californian professing to disbelieve that the President could have made such an "incredible" request.

The tariff Democrats like Walsh, of Massachusetts; Ransdell and Broussard, of Louisiana, and Fletcher, of Florida, are at variance with the majority of their Democratic colleagues.

JONES NEW LEADER

And as if to cap this amazing hodge-podge of conflicting interest and opinions, the Republican leader of the Senate today was Jones, of Washington, who in this tariff battle has sometimes voted with the regulars and sometimes with the Democratic-Insurgent coalition.

Most of the Senate elders threw up their hands today and admitted privately they had little idea of what is ultimately to emerge from this unprecedented situation.

"It would take a Houdini to get out of this mess," said one.

Tempers are frayed and feelings have been stepped on, and it was a snapping and snarling Senate that met today to carry on.

One thing, and seemingly one thing only, stood out clear and recognizable from the turmoil and ring.

[illegible] is that the cleavage be- the Republicans of the im- [illegible] industrial states of the [illegible] seaboard and the Repub- from the grain belt and Far has been immeasurably wid- [illegible], perhaps to such an extent that it may have severe political repercussions in next year's senatorial elections.

PROOF OF FRICTION

Striking proof of this was furnished by the remarkable letter written by Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, to Frederick E. Murphy, Minneapolis publisher, who had written Reed that the western Republicans were being embarrassed by eastern Republicans insisting upon the high industrial rates of the Hawley-Smoot bill.

Reed sent back a reply in which he virtually called some of the western Republicans who have opposed the industrial rates "more dangerous than Communists."

"How in the world," Reed's letter said, "can you expect to make agriculture prosperous by impoverishing the industrial districts? That is exactly what will happen if the Senate coalition goes through with its present program. You ask for a concrete suggestion. My best suggestion is that you send us a few senators who will look at this problem (agriculture vs. industry) as Americans and not as factionalists, sectionalists and populists.

SCORES SENATORS

"This is not an indictment of Senators Schall and Shipstead, of Minnesota, but rather of some of their colleagues whose attitude with respect to the present tariff bill is to my mind far more dangerous to our economic security than all the communists combined."

That is pretty strong language from one Republican, describing the activities of other Republicans.

Incidentally, Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, is the sole possessor of the Farmer-Labor party designation in the Senate, and although absent from most of the tariff battling because of illness, almost invariably votes with the Republican insurgents. And Senator Schall, of Minnesota, although a Republican, has voted fairly consistently with the coalition that Reed denounced.

Reed's letter sounded to the insurgent Republicans from the West today very much like a declaration of war for next year's senatorial engagements.

their cells. They made no attempt to escape.

Firemen with hand extinguishers were forced to crawl 100 feet into the conduit to reach the flames.

Two wagon loads of police from North Side and Woods Run police stations rushed to the penitentiary as the alarm sounded, to prevent any possible outbreaks by the prisoners.

STILL EXPLODES

Two firemen, battling flames in the basement of a garage at 973 Industry street, Beltzhoover, today, were burned when a still exploded, Battalion Chief W. H. Kuhlman reported.

Hosemen Frank Kuss and Harry Ackerman were taken to Mercy Hospital suffering from severe burns on face and hands.

Flames were extinguished in 15 minutes. Estimated damage to the garage was $300.

Firemen reported finding 40 five-gallon cans in the basement, some filled with moonshine.

James Magono, alleged owner of the premises, was arrested, charged with being a suspicious person. He was released under $1,000 bail pending a hearing tomorrow in South Side Police Court.

YEAR TERM FOR FALL

three times the amount of the bribe. He said:

"If this case had come into court under normal physical conditions, in my judgment it would require the maximum penalty. It did not, however. What I saw for myself, what the physicians reported and the fact the jury recommended mercy has convinced me of that. Therefore, I am going to sentence Mr. Fall to one year in prison and fine him $100,000."

The judge then explained that were the sentence applicable immediately he would suspend the imprisonment on his own motion, but that because the case was going to a lengthy appeal he would let his judgment stand with only that softening remark in the record.

FALL UNMOVED

Fall, who received the sentence sitting down, appeared in much better physical condition than he was during the progress of his trial. Although still accompanied by a doctor and a nurse, he sat erect and listened attentively to Hitz's remarks.

No show of emotion was discernible on his face when judgment was imposed.

The former cabinet officer's two daughters, Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. Jouett Elliott, were in the front row of spectators. Mrs. Elliott bowed her head and wept softly. Their mother, who had left them to take her place beside Fall, received the sentence as stoically as her husband.

Frank Hogan, chief of defense counsel, immediately noted an appeal and asked about bond. Hitz decided to continue Fall on his present surety.

Prior to handing down sentence, Justice Hitz had denied a motion for a new trial, which had attacked his charge to the jury as biased and unfair, and another motion for arrest of judgment based on the contention that Fall had been subjected to double jeopardy through being tried for bribery—this latter because he already had been acquitted of conspiracy in connection with the same transaction.

SENTENCE APPROVED

The sentence given Fall was generally approved on Capitol Hill where the oil cases originated.

Senators showed a reluctance to comment, but there appeared to be considerable satisfaction that Fall had been given a jail sentence rather than let off with a fine. The senatorial attitude was that the acceptance of a bribe by a cabinet officer was so serious a crime that a jail sentence was mandatory as a precedent for the future.

"I don't care to comment on the action of the court," said Senator Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, "but the comment of the country will be that he escaped without adequate punishment."

Carr, Ward Leader, Held in Stealing

Regis Carr, 24, of 509 West Lacock street, Twenty-second Ward politician, was at liberty on $1,000 bail today, pending a hearing on a suspicious person charge in Central Police Court.

He was arrested by city detectives and Baltimore and Ohio Railroad police last Monday, accused of stealing two radio sets from a car on the siding near the Ninth Street Bridge, police say.

Car reported recently to police that he was robbed of $700 and a diamond stud valued at $750 in his home.

One Ship Sinks Immediately, Second Barely Makes Port; Captain Among Casualties

International News Service.

PORT WASHINGTON, Wis., Nov. 1.—Search was begun at dawn today for missing bodies and possible survivors who are lost following a collision between two lake steamships which rolled the steamer Senator over on its side and plunged its captain and six others to their deaths in Lake Michigan's chill waters yesterday.

The ore freighter Marquette crawled into Milwaukee's harbor last night, a gaping hole smashed in its bow and weighted low by tons of water flooding its hold. The huge ship had barely been able to reach port after the crash sent it reeling away in the fog yesterday. A convoy of six smaller craft accompanied the steamer to port.

Surrounded by a dense blanket of fog, the Senator and Marquette collided 20 miles out in the lake. The Senator plunged to the bottom within 10 minutes, leaving 28 members of the crew struggling helplessly in the water.

TUG MAKES RESCUES

The radio of the Marquette, flashing out an SOS after the crash, gave the alarming report that it had lost track of the Senator's wreckage and feared that the entire crew was lost. Shipping tons of water through the gash torn in its prow, the Marquette lowered boats and picked up three men.

Sixteen men were picked out of the water by the tug Delos Smith. Others were snatched from the water by smaller craft that had heard the distress signals.

This was the fourth major disaster on Lake Muchigan in seven weeks and brought the total toll of lives to more than 100.

18 KNOWN RESCUED

Of the 28 members of the Senator's crew, 18 are known to have been rescued. Seven, including Capt. George Finch and John Nielson, first mate, perished, according to the survivors. Neither Finch nor Neilson was seen to jump as the ship lunged to the bottom.

Mrs. Minnie Gormley, cook and wife of Steward Mathew Gormley, is believed to have drowned. She was torn from the arms of her husband as they were plunged into the water when the ship rolled and sunk.

N.Y. AIR SERVICE STARTS HERE

The Pittsburgh Airways, Inc., today inaugurated passenger service between Pittsburgh and New York when two planes, bearing Pittsburgh business and professional people, left Bettis field to fly to Newark, N. J., leaving there by bus for New York. Grover Whalen, police commissioner of New York, was expected to be on hand to greet the passengers.

The ships, accompanied by three Curtis planes, flew over Pittsburgh. Eight passengers, four in each ship, made up the party. Ted Taney and Bob Dake were the pilots and Mrs. F. Lemoyne Page and Mrs. Louise Thaden were copilots. Mrs. Rosella Van Der Lugt, of Homestead, was the only other woman passenger on the flight.

the manner set forth in the report of the sub-committee of the Committee on Judiciary is contrary to good morals and senatorial ethics, and tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute and such conduct is hereby condemned."

Compromise negotiations started yesterday by Bingham's friends, fell by the wayside when the Connecticut Senator refused to make an apology in a form acceptable to Norris. The Nebraskan had insisted that Bingham apologize not only for employing Eyanson but for charging that the lobby investigating committee—which Norris appointed—had been deliberately "framed" against him.

Bingham was reported ready to retract the word "framed" but to have declined to apologize for Eyanson's employment.

CONSENTS TO DELAY

Norris, in sponsoring the resolution, announced he would not press for immediate action on it even though it was of the highest privilege. At the request of Senator Fess (Rep.), of Ohio, the majority "whip," Norris then agreed to postpone its consideration until tomorrow.

Fess assigned no reason for asking the delay but it was apparent he still hoped to have the controversy settled amicably through an apology by Bingham.

Norris, in proposing the censure resolution, referred to the lobby investigating committee's report, which set forth how Bingham had employed Eyanson and placed him on the Senate payroll, while he was drawing a $10,000 a year salary from the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association. He also mentioned Bingham's attack on the lobby investigators.

BINGHAM MOVE AWAITED

"In language which it seems to me was discourteous, the senator from Connecticut assailed the committee by name and the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, who named the investigating sub-committee. I will not make any extended remarks about his conduct at this time, but I shall have more to say later, depending on how the Senate acts upon this resolution."

Although Bingham so far has made no move, it has been indicated he will do so after the Senate acts on the resolution. His friends have told him it has a chance of being adopted.

Bingham informed his friends that after giving the matter considerable thought, he had concluded he had "nothing to apologize for."

Norris also gave notice that tomorrow he intended to call up the resolution, but would consent to delay until Monday if it were requested.

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, the president pro tempore of the Senate, ruled the resolution privileged. As a result it may be called up at any time.

WILKINSBUR MAN HELD IN VOTE FEUD

Suspect in Printed Attack On Candidate Accused o Beating Officer in Fligh

Wilkinsburg's turbulent political situation grew in intensity today with the distribution of an anonymous newspaper which attacked William M. Turner, Republican nominee for burgess; Police Chief Wallace Bishop and Constable A. F. Fornoff.

C. A. Boddie

Arrested today for its publication was C. A. Boddie, of Montier street, Wilkinsburg, who has been at odds with some borough officials. Boddie is a radio engineer employed by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

DISTRIBUTED AT NIGHT

The paper — "The Wilkinsburg Herald"—was distributed last midnight on doorsteps, stores and such places.

Today, Wilkinsburg police reported 2,000 copies of the paper were found on Boddie's car when he was arrested in East Pittsburgh.

Attorney Ralph H. Smith, counsel for Bishop and Fornoff, filed information charging Boddie with criminal libel before Alderman Thomas Flanigan today. The action was taken for Bishop.

The information also named as defendant H. A. Musick, of East Pittsburgh, but when Boddie and Musick were taken to Alderman Flanigan's office today it was discovered that Musick was not the person sought. Another printer with a corresponding surname is being sought.

Flanigan set bail at $2,500, which Boddie promptly posted for hearing.

Thereupon Boddie filed information before Flanigan charging Chief Bishop with a serious offense.

Included in the information is a copy of a purported affidavit published in the paper. This charges Bishop with misconduct.

Boddie was being detained at the East Pittsburgh Police Station on charges of violating a traffic law and assault and battery on Constable Fornoff.

CONSTABLE STRUCK

Fornoff said Boddie struck him today when the constable approached him.

He added that Boddie has sped through four red lights in East Pittsburgh.

The newspaper's charges against Turner and Fornoff are political.

Boddie has been arrested before. In April he was accused of firing several shots into a group of railways repairmen to halt noise that disturbed his sleep.

In August he was fined $25 for slurs cast upon the late Lieut. Belmont Pugh at the officer's funeral.

La Guinan Makes $200,000 In 'Sucker' Market

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Texas may holler "Hello, sucker!" at the boys when they stroll into the night clubs, but she isn't one herself, she announced proudly here.

"I cleaned up about 200 grand, dearie, in the last bear market while the rest of the yaps were holding on," Texas said gaily in the midst of planning whoopee sessions for Chicago's whoopee-ers. "I sold short and picked the right ones."

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. — (INS.) — Kathleen Mulqueen, Broadway star and former Philadelphia society girl, today was $300,000 richer from playing the stock market on a "dumb" hunch.

Miss Mulqueen is 25, with blue eyes and jet black hair. She is now playing stock with the Brown players in Louisville, Ky., and by telephone and telegraph directed her brokers to sell "short" just as the market turned.

The actress today revealed her financial success to International News Service over long distance telephone.

"I don't know how I did it," she said. "I just played a dumb hunch. I had run $15,000, my life savings, up to $65,000 in five months.

"About a week ago I got the feeling that the market would turn, so I took everything and sold short. Sure enough, stocks dropped. I [illegible] 'Slide, Kelly, slide' and I got out last Tuesday just before the market climbed back again."

NOVA SCOTIA VOTES FOR LIQUOR SALE BY GOVERNMENT

PROHIBITION BACKERS LOSE

Dry Since 1920, Province Ballots to End Reign of Anti-Liquor by 24,000

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Although not complete, a fairly detailed summary of the liquor plebiscite held in the province yesterday revealed today that upward of 85,000 electors voted in favor of the government control of intoxicants and that about 61,000 voted for the retention of the Nova Scotia temperance act, giving the government control adherents a majority of about 24,000.

J. H. Winfield and Dr. H. R. Grant, leaders of the Temperance Reform Association and the Nova Scotia temperance act forces, declared that prohibition in the province was overwhelmingly defeated.

50,000 VOTES

Premier E. N. Rhodes several days ago announced that in the case of victory for government control, liquor shops would be established only in towns and communities where the majority of the electors had expressed themselves in favor. This means practically every town in the province.

The total number of voters going to the polls yesterday was about 150,000, compared with 179,393 in the last provincial election and 117,000 when the plebiscite was taken in 1920.

ISLAND STILL DRY

A feature of the vote was that government control had big majorities in all centers where tourist traffic is heaviest.

Abandonment of prohibition by Nova Scotia would leave the small province of Prince Edward Island alone in the dry column of Canadian provinces. The Nova Scotia temperance act, which permitted sale of liquor by licensed venders only on physicians' prescriptions, was adopted in 1920 by a majority of 50,000. Under government control, consumption of intoxicants would be permitted in homes and hotel rooms.

Immigration authorities charged Brueckner, whose home was in Germany, shipped as a cook upon an ocean vessel and deserted at Philadelphia two years ago. His attorney said Brueckner believed his entry conformed with immigration regulations.

TARDIEU SURE OF CABINET

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—"I hope to announce my cabinet list tomorrow and convoke Parliament next Thursday." M. Tardieu, the latest French political leader to attempt to form a new government stated today after a conference with President Doumergue.

Thus he expressed his certainty that he would succeed where two others, M. Daladier and M. Clementel, had failed.

"M. Briand has accepted the post of foreign minister in the new cabinet and is collaborating with me," he added.

Political observers, while inclined to be non-commital in view of the happenings of the past 11 days, were hopeful Tardieu had found the key to a situation which has left France without a government during that time.

The Minnesotan has served several terms as attorney general of his state and before that was assistant attorney general. He has appeared before the Supreme Court of the United States as a representative of Minnesota several times.

Friends of the administration describe Mr. Youngquist as a firm believer in the dry cause. They also say that his record as enforcement officer of Minnesota is excellent.

PANTAGES WINS POSTPONEMENT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Sentence of Alexander Pantages for attacking Eunice Pringle, today was continued until Saturday, November 9, by Trial Judge Charles W. Fricke.

The continuance was granted on motion of the vaudeville magnate's attorneys.

Pantages appeared in court handcuffed.

His aged mother-in-law, Mrs. Elvira Mendenhall, wept as Pantages was led back to his cell in the county jail after a brief court session.

The delay in imposing the one-to-fifty-year prison sentence ordered by the jury's verdict, after a sensational four weeks' trial, was asked by the showman's counsel in order to give time for them to perfect their motion for a new trial.

Pantages was clad in the blue denim uniform of city jail prisoners when he appeared in court.

"We knew that Alexander Pantages had an airplane ready and waiting in San Diego to hop him across the border out of the United States and beyond our reach. That is why he was placed under guard from the moment the jury took his case last week," was the sensational charge made last night by District Attorney Buron Fitts.

An unexplained angle to the asserted discovery is why Pantages should have a plane in a town 150 miles south of here and then use it for a mere 17-mile hop into Mexico. The best escape technique would be for him to leave Los Angeles and fly the entire 167 miles to the nearest Mexican soil without chance of being detained.

One-Day Sentence For Dry Violator

Roy Page, 21, a Negro, who had been confined in Allegheny County Jail since June 18 last, was given his liberty after being sentenced to serve an additional day in jail when he pleaded guilty to charges of violating the national prohibition law before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today. The court observed that Page had been sufficiently penalized by serving nearly six months in prison while awaiting trial.

GRAHAM HAS FULL VOTE OF SENATE

New U. S. Attorney for This District Confirmed On Motion of Sen. Reed

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The way was cleared today for Louis E. Graham, of Beaver, to take the oath of office as United States district attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania, with headquarters at Pittsburgh.

Accepting without challenge the favorable report ordered earlier this week by the Judiciary Committee the Senate late yesterday confirmed Graham's nomination. Confirmation was effected in open executive session on motion of Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, who recommended the appointment to President Hoover.

PENNINGTON RUMOR

While it took the Senate only about two minutes to act on the nomination, Pennsylvania circles in the capital had been stirred by reports earlier in the day that a concerted last-minute move would be made against Graham involving Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, of the Western Pennsylvania-West Virginia district, under whom the Beaver man has worked during the past three years as legal advisor.

Reports had been circulated that a member of the Senate was prepared to openly oppose the nomination with an attack on Pennington's enforcement organization, extending the charges preferred by John S. Fyle, Pittsburgh attorney and former dry agent, who in his appearance before the Judiciary Sub-Committee last week protested that Graham, while serving under Pennington, had directed unconstitutional searches and seizures in connection with dry raids.

MOVE FAILS

Whatever basis there may have been for the reports at the time they failed to materialize as the Senate went into its first executive session in several days. Graham's nomination was called up by Senator Reed and the only flurry to mar the orderly procedure came when it was discovered that Senator Frederick H. Gillett, of Massachusetts, chairman of the Judiciary Sub-Committee, was not in the chamber to report the favorable recommendation. This caused Senator Kenneth McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, to suggest that the subcommittee chairman may have had "some good reason" for not being present, and therefore the nomination should be permitted to lay over until he could be heard.

NORRIS FILLS BREACH

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, the full committee chairman, however, arose to say that the committee had reported the nomination unanimously and he did not know of any opposition.

Vice President Curtis, occupying the chair, recalled that Senator Gillett, in leaving the chamber, had handed him the committee report with the request that it be presented if an executive session came in his absence. After this the nomination was confirmed without delay.

Two assistant federal prosecutors, Joseph A. Richardson and Ralph H. Smith, bade adieu to official duties today.

Both retired to private law practice as their resignations, tendered to United States Attorney John D. Meyer six weeks ago, became effective.

Meyer, himself, will retire early next week with the swearing in of his successor, Louis E. Graham, legal adviser to Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington.

Richardson had been in the government service since November, 1925, and Smith since September, 1926. Both had been active in prosecution of dry-law violators, including the rum ring conspiracy cases.

Married at 13, Girl Now 16, Is Seeking Divorce

Married at 13—ready for a divorce at 16!

This is winsome Jettie Silvis' claim to fame. She appeared before Judge James R. Macfarlane in divorce court yesterday and in a hesitant, embarrassed voice related a tale of her husband's frequent outbursts of jealousy which on two occasions culminated in the girl-wife's eyes being blackened.

"He was drunk five times during our married life,' she said, "and my mother had to buy the food we ate."

The young woman's mother appeared as a witness for her daughter.

"They lived at our home at 1918 A street," she said, "for eight months after they were married. During this time her husband was shiftless and refused to work and provide for her and many's the time I had to feed them."

Mrs. Silvis, since being separated from her husband who is 10 years her senior, has worked as a cashier for a downtown concern. She testified that she has been compelled to provide for herself and declared she earned the money to defray the expense of a divorce.

The girl said she and her husband, Curtis Silvus, eloped to Wellsburg three years ago. The husband's address in the libel was given as 1112 Arch street, North Side. Attorney Robert T. Reineman was counsel for the young wife.

Court Awards Mother Custody of Child

A wife won the custody of her child in Common Pleas Court today when Judge James R. Macfarlane dismissed the habeas corpus proceedings brought by Charles J. Kuros, a Braddock confectioner, against his wife, Mary Leona Kuros, a manicurist, of 225 South St. Clair street.

Kuros sought possession of his daughter, LaFaye, aged 12. The mother testified the child had been maintained in a boarding school in Lincoln avenue, and the court refused to interfere.

"Conditions in an institution where the child will be educated are better than she would have elsewhere," said Judge Macfarlane.

The testimony offered by Kuros attempted to establish that Mrs. Kuros was guilty of improper relations with a man for whom she had been keeping house since she had seperated from her husband.

BRIDGE RAMP IS ASSURED N. SIDE

Commissioners Announce Plans for Steel Structure Paralleling River Road

Alderman George A. Young, president of the Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade, today said he had received assurances from county authorities a ramp to the McKees Rocks-North Side bridge will be built in accordance with wishes of business interests of the district.

The plan is to build a steel ramp starting from the vicinity of Preble avenue and Eckert street. Alderman Young was informed, this to lead to a roadway to be carved in the hillside from Rankin street to the bridge.

The ramp will parallel the Ohio River boulevard, thus permitting traffic from Woods Run and Manchester districts to reach the bridge without coming in contact with the stream of automobiles on the boulevard.

Detail plans for the ramp will be the last to be formulated, 'Squire Young was told, in connection with the bridge project.

JUDGE PLEADS SELF DEFENSE

WEATHERFORD, Tex., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Two versions of the fatal shooting of Tom Walton, Jr., in the Amarillo office of his father-in-law today were before the jury hearing the murder trial of Judge R. H. Hamilton, wealthy former Supreme Court jurist and university professor.

Hamilton is accused of having shot Walton, 23-year-old University of Texas student, when the youth went to his office to tell the jurist of his marriage to his daughter, Theresa Hamilton, 17.

TWO VERSIONS

The two pictures of Walton's death were those of a youth murdered while pleading for mercy, and of a hand-to-hand combat in which the elder man shot in self-defense.

Tom and Theresa, students in the University of Texas, were married last winter, and the shooting occurred in the spring when the son-in-law went to Hamilton's office in Amarillo to break the news.

Hamilton's stenographer, Miss Florence Hendricks, and J. W. Burks, Amarillo real estate dealer, described the scuffle and shooting on the witness stand yesterday.

Burks insisted that after Walton fell to the floor no more shots were fired. Hamilton, he declared, walked back into his office with a pistol in his hand, put it into a desk drawer and said:

"Mr. Burks, I hated to have to do that, but I had to, to save my own life."

Judge Hamilton wept during the session when his former teacher, Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor University, stated on the witness stand that the defendant's reputation was good while he was a student and later a professor at the university.

2 SHOT FLEEING AFTER FIGHT

Two policemen early today shot two Negroes following an alleged fight over a woman at Station street and Larimer avenue.

The wounded were Arthur Childs, 17, of 727 Nimick place, shot through the right ankle, and Arthur Culbertson, 35, of 125 Larimer avenue, shot through the left foot. They were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Police said Childs, Culbertson, Dennis Gallagher, 23, another Negro, of 6364 Frankstown avenue, and Mabel Smith, 28, also a Negro, of 1 Houston street, were engaged in a fight, which started over the woman.

Patrolman Fred Kleber and Dennis Timpona, of the East End station, were sent to the scene.

When they rounded the corner two of the Negroes ran, the police pursuing. After firing several shots into the air the policemen shot at the fleeing men's feet. Both fell. All four were caught and held at the police station.

Punched Tickets 51 Years, Conductor Retires

John R. Dinges, Sr., a conductor on the Pennsylvania Railroad out of Pittsburgh, laid aside his gold braided hat, coat and ticket punch this morning. After 51 years of service behind the "iron horse," he is retiring at the age of 70.

When the Saltsburg to Pittsburgh train's crunching brakes brought it to a stop at 7:05, on time, he bade farewell to the tens of thousands that knew him—commuters from the time Andrew Carnegie was a railroader to the present day of golden jubilees and Texas Guinans.

Fellow railroaders plan a dinner and celebration for him tomorrow night. It will be held in Walton's tea room, near Jeannette.

Mr. Dinges intends to spend the rest of his days tinkering around his home in Greensburg. He has lived there for two years, although virtually all of his life since his uncle, Robert Pitcairn, gave him his first job back in 1878.

TELETYPE NOW GUIDES PLANES

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Nov. 1.—The National Air Transport, which handles the air mail between New York and Chicago, on the transcontinental route, is installing the teletype at all the principal landing and emergency fields as a better means of securing information regarding weather conditions, as well as the movement of its mail planes.

Heretofore most of this information has been furnished the company from the radio station of the Department of Commerce here, but the N. A. T. was then obliged to transmit the information to other fields either by telephone or telegraph. With the installation of teletype all information between landing fields can be communicated direct.

The automatic printers have already been installed in a number of the fields and today the Department of Commerce will discontinue service to the company. The wireless station here will be used for government business, which has increased materially.

LONDON, Nov. 1. — (INS.) — Eddie Guerin, notorious underworld character for more than 40 years, is in the toils of the law again, Scotland Yard officials revealed.

The present charge against the man who was alleged to have plotted the famous robbery of the Cannon street postoffice here, and to have participated in the great American Express Company holdup in Paris in 1901, for which he was sentenced to Devil's Island, is small-change in comparison to his past activities.

Girl in Slaying, Identity Bared, Threatens Suicide

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 1.—A sheriff's guard was to stand watch at the jail cell of Gloria Ouzer today as the Ione Ord of the Jack Kraft murder mystery threatened to commit suicide rather than face her mother in her prison quarters.

"I will not see her in a prison cell," the girl declared. "My mother will not find me alive in a jail."

Sheriff Ernest Alberti, of Plaquemine Parish, who is custodian of the girl artist held as a material witness in the killing of the New York pressman, promised that a guard would be posted to guard the girl.

Miss Ouzer was traveling on the steamship Creole with Kraft when he was killed and his body tossed into the Mississippi River. Her story led to a grand jury indictment of John McGouldrick, second mate of the ship.

Attorneys for Sam Epstein, steward of the ship, who is held as a material witness, have obtained a court order fixing Monday as the time for taking Epstein's testimony at Ponte A La Hache.

ALDERMAN WAR AVOIDED

There will be no aldermanic contest in the Eighth Ward, in spite of reports that Roy D. Schooley, ward chairman, and Senator James J. Coyne, city chairman, were at grips over the job.

This was assured today when George S. Wilson, scheduled to run as an independent against John F. Kenna, Republican nominee, announced his withdrawal from the fight.

He urged his friends to support Mayor Charles H. Kline and all of the Republican nominees, including Kenna, stating that he felt the interests of the Republican party should be placed above his own.

Yesterday Judge James R. Macfarlane signed an order directing that he ballot boxes of the ward be impounded following the general election next week.

Stories have been circulated that Coyne would support Kenna and Schooley would aid Wilson in an open fight. Both leaders are active friends of Kline and took prominent parts in his campaign.

DIVORCE CASES SHOW GAIN

"More persons appear to be asking for divorce today than are getting married."

Judge James R. Macfarlane, who has heard about 60 divorce cases himself so far this month, made that remark yesterday afternoon in Common Pleas Court, as he signed the twentieth libel filed for the day.

Among those who applied included Mrs. C. B. Bennett, 125 Overlook drive, Mt. Lebanon, who wants a divorce from Edward M. Bennett on the ground of indignities. They were married in 1921 and separated two years ago.

Sarah McDonell, 37 North Second street, Duquesne, not yet 21, married June 19, last, filed a libel for a divorce against Kenneth S. McDonell, charging cruel and barbarous treatment. Being under age, her mother, Mrs. Susan Traynor, joined in the application, the couple only having been married four months.

Elizabeth McCaffrey Thompson, 219 Coltart square, whose marriage bliss lasted less than a month, applied for a divorce from Elmer James Thompson, Jr. They were married January 28 and separated the following February 21.

Tulsa Oil Magnate Sued for Divorce

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—O. O. Owen., wealthy Tulsa oil operator and member of the Oklahoma Legislature, was sued for divorce by Mrs. Esther Owens. Mrs. Owens charges neglect and cruelty. She asks in her petition $1,500 a month alimony, equitable division of property which she valued at more than $1,000,000 and custody of their 3-year-old son. She also applied for a restraining order to prevent her husband from disposing of his property. The couple were married July 24, 1925, in Kansas City, Kan.

Owens, a Republican leader in the State House of Representatives, was an outstanding figure in the prosecution of impeachment trials of Chief Justice Charles W. Mason and Justice J. W. Clark of the State Supreme Court last winter.

KIDNAPER'S GUN KILLED CASS

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Two bullets taken from the body of David Cass, 23, son of a Detroit real estate dealer, who was found slain near Lapeer, Mich., after having been missing since last July, were identified last night by police ballistic experts as having been fired from a .32 caliber revolver recently taken from Frank Hohfer, now serving a prison sentence of 35 to 50 years for the kidnaping of Matthew Holdreith, Jr., son of a wealthy Detroit restaurant owner.

While police pushed the investigation of the Cass murder, Henry Andrews, 32, whom police have sought to connect with the Cass slaying, was sentenced to serve from 35 to 50 years in the state branch at Marquette for the kidnaping last April of Fred Begeman, retired Wyandotte bootlegger.

Discovery of the body of Davis Cass on the banks of the Flint River near Millville, Tuesday, furnished another chapter in a long story of extortions, abductions, blackmailing and bombings, in the course of which nearly $75,000 had been exacted from Detroit citizens. Last March, Max Seigel, a pawnbroker and theater owner, was kidnaped and held for two weeks. He was released, however, without any ransom being demanded of him or his family.

In July, Sam Gross, his wife, May, and Robert Forster, a garage mechanic, were kidnaped. They were later released. Although Gross denied having paid any ransom, police say they have information that $45,000 was demanded of him for the release of the three and that at least $10,000 was paid.

Later Matthew Holdreith, Jr., son of a Detroit restaurant owner, was kidnaped and held for six days without adequate food or water. Edward Wiles and Frank Hohfer were captured in a stolen taxicab by police after a gun battle. With them was found a portion of $5,000 ransom money the elder Holdreith had paid them for his son's freedom.

Two days later Holdreith was rescued from the apartment by police, who found him chained to a bed. Hohfer and Wiles are serving sentences of from 35 to 50 years each for their part in the case. Police are still searching for William Cardinal, wounded in the gun battle which led to the arrest of his two companions. These men will be questioned regarding the Cass affair.

FREE SHIP CREW OF RUM CHARGE

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Customs and coast guard officials last night said they would take no action against the crew of the British vessel James B, which sank off the Long Island coast Wednesday night after her stern had been cut off by the coast guard patrol boat Cahoone.

The crew of eight aboard the vessel, picked up in James B. dories soon after the ship sank, were being held here, however, pending the arrival of immigration officials. Coast guard officials refused to reveal the names of the crew.

A conference between customs and coast guard officials preceded the announcement that neither group of officials would take action against the crew. Coast guard officials said that although the James B. had been on their suspect list for several months, the sinking of the vessel left them without any evidence on which the base action.

Running without lights 30 miles off the coast, the James B., according to Boatswain A. M. Haynes, commander of the Cahoone, crossed the bow of the patrol boat, which was on duty off Shinnecock Bay. The crew of the British vessel had barely enough time to get into dories before the ship sank.

FUNDS FOR BUS SURVEY ASKED

The Allied Boards of Trade has begun a financial drive for funds for a transit survey requested by the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission as means of arriving at a just bus fare.

A recent hearing on a protest against the 25-cent fare charged by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company was postponed until a survey by recognized experts can be made of the Pittsburgh district.

The data thus derived, the commission holds, will enable it to determine the operating costs of the bus company and whether the fare is excessive, as alleged.

A sub-committee of the transportation committee of the Allied Boards is preparing an appeal to be sent to the 48 constituent bodies of the Allied Boards. The public also will be asked to contribute.

Between $10,000 and $15,000 will be needed, it is estimated.

Navy Declines To Sacrifice Mayflower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—The Navy Department doesn't intend to sell the presidential yacht Mayflower "for a song," even though President Hoover has cast her aside.

This was indicated when a lone bid for the stately yacht that has carried many presidents down the Potomac—for $15,786—was rejected as inadequate. The Boston Iron and Metal Company, of Baltimore, was the bidder. New bids were called for March 31, 1930.

JURY 'FIXING' CHARGE BY ATTORNEY

Motion for New Trial Based on Alleged Talk With Member of Body

Allegations of jury fixing, followed by a motion for a new trial, have temporarily stayed two fortune tellers from hearing their future in Criminal Court, where Judge James H. Gray was to have pronounced sentence following their conviction earlier in the week.

Mrs. Jennie M. Steiner, 50, of 234 Emerson street, astrologist, and J. B. Carpenter, 48, 7202 Idelwild street, spiritualist, are the defendants. There was a long and heretofore unexplained halt during the trial while Judge Gray conferred in chambers with Assistant District Attorney James R. Geltz and Attorney Ralph Tannehill, counsel for defendants.

CHARGES MADE

Later it was revealed that Attorney Tannehill had charged that one of the state's witnesses had approached Mrs. Mary Donaldson, 37 Watson boulevard, forewoman of the jury, talking to her for several minutes in the corridor during a recess in the trial.

Judge Gray called Mrs. Donaldson into his chambers and questioned her. She denied that the witness had spoken to her. The witness was also questioned by te judge in the presence of the attorneys and denied speaking to the forewoman. Judge Gray decided that whoever had told Tannehill that the juror had been approached had been mistaken, and refused to declare a mistrial and take the case from the jury.

DREW LARGE CROWDS

When the defendants were called before Judge Gray for sentence late yesterday Attorney Tannehill countered by filing his motion for a new trial, stating that the verdict was against the weight of the evidence. He said he had three witnesses who would say they saw the witness talking to the juror.

The fortune telling trial attracted large crowds to Judge Gray's courtroom, as the evidence was far out of the ordinary. Police women told on the stand of having Mrs. Steiner tell their future and the remarkable predictions that were made. One was to inherit a vast estate with a lake in the middle. Another was to find a sweetheart in Jerusalem, and another, whose husband has been dead for 12 years, was to be showered with gifts by him.

Mrs. Bertha Dodson, 3467 Clearfield street, the state's chief witness, was the reincarnation of Joan of Arc, according to Mrs. Steiner. Sheriff Robert Braun wears a magic charm which she had sold to him, Mrs. Steiner was alleged to have stated.

Film Star's Widow Denies Theft Charge

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Florine W. Williams, widow of the late Earle Williams, motion picture actor, pleaded not guilty to five charges of grand theft when arraigned in Superior Court. She was ordered to trial on the charges November 20.

Mrs. Williams is accused of misrepresenting her title to the family estate in obtaining loans of approximately $20,000 from Los Angeles businessmen. She denied the charges, stating the dispute was a matter which should be settled in the civil courts.

Lives 100 Years, Then Dies Happy

CHESHIRE, N. Y., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances S. Beeman, her cherished ambition realized, died last night at 11 o'clock, 23 hours after having passed the hundred-year-old mark, to attain which she had struggled against death for the past eight weeks.

Although failing rapidly for the past three days due to intestinal disorder, Mrs. Beeman had repeated that could she but live to pass the hundred years mark she would be happy.

Italian Voters O. K. Kline, G. O. P. Ticket

More than 100 Italian-American voters gave their indorsement to the Republican ticket, headed by Mayor Charles H. Kline, at a meeting in the Republican headquarters, Hotel Henry, last night. A resolution was passed lauding the leadership of Joseph G. Armstrong, County Commissioner, and party leader. John A. Fugassi presided and the speakers were Alderman John J. Verona and State Assemblyman Michael A. Musmanno.

RECOUNT BOARD BEGINS FIFTH WEEK

Report Shows 21 Boxes Already Completed; Cost Thus Far Placed at $7,600

The special recount board checking 84 suspected ballot boxes from the September primary election begins its fifth week of existence today.

Two reports filed yesterday afternoon—on the second district, Fifteenth Ward and the Seventeenth district, Ninth Ward—make a total of 21 boxes completed by the board since it started to work.

COST SET AT $7,600

So far the activities of the board have cost Allegheny County $7,600. The payroll for the first half of the month was $3,600 and for the last half $4,000.

"The fact that we have completed only one-fourth of the boxes brought in for our inspection does not mean that it will be four months before our work is completed," Ward Bonsall, member of the board said yesterday "The counting is away ahead of the other clerical work that must be done," Bonsall explained.

The report for the Fifteenth Ward district filed yesterday states that "of 48 ballots segregated 29 contained crosses for Connelly, Muldowney and Malone, markedly similar." "Phantom Crosses, on 29 ballots," as many as 16 of these on one ballot" are called to the court's attention.

FIND CLERICAL ERROR

In the Seventeenth district, Ninth Ward, Councilman W. Y. English is credited with but 10 votes in the election board's report whereas the tally sheet showed 170 tallies for him and the recount 166. "This may have been a clerical error, the recount board's report states.

Of 35 ballots segregated from this district "the same appearing cross" is noted for "three favored candidates." Eleven ballots have the impression of cross marks indicating that ballots had been lying under others while being marked," according to the report.

The board was appointed October 1 by Common Pleas Court. There is a possibility that it will continue functioning long beyond election day and handle boxes that may be brought in after the general election, Tuesday, under the special act of the 1927 legislature, providing that boxes may be brought in by the posting of a $50 forfeit.

PANAMA WINS TREATY PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The State Department has agreed to open conversations with Panama leading to a new canal relations treaty to replace that of 1903 under which the Panama Canal Zone was ceded to the United States.

The conversations will begin soon. The action will be taken at the request of Panama, which in January, 1928, forwarded through Minister Alfaro a memorandum which held the treaty signed in 1926 to be unjust.

The proposed new treaty would replace not only that of 1903 but also the document signed in 1926 in regard to canal relations, which has never been ratified by the Congresses of either government.

Football 'Hop' Set For Tomorrow Night

The Phi Kappa Delta fraternity has announced the engagement of the Golden Gate Recorders for the dance.

Smuggle Watches Into U. S. As 'Chocolates'

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—A federal grand jury today indicted three Americans and a Swiss on charges of smuggling Swiss watches cases into the United States by labelling them "chocolates," and shipping them to Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, Boston and other cities.

Assistant United States Attorney Alvin McK. Sylvester, who presented the case to the jury, quoted witnesses as saying the defendants had contrived to get many shipments of watches through the customs at a duty of $5 a case by labelling them "chocolates." He said the duty on watches runs as high as $2,500 a case. Those indicted were: Joseph Feinstein, Richard Bieshuns and Louis Poller, all of New York; and Henry Bernard, of Switzerland.

U. S. Marriages Decrease As Divorces Grow

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Marriages performed in this country last year decreased 18,556 as compared with 1927, while divorces increased by 3,902.

These figures announced by the Department of Commerce showed there were 1,182,497 marriages in 1928 and 1,201,053 in 1927, representing a decline of 1.5 per cent. There were 195,936 divorces as compared with 192,037 in the preceding year, a gain of 2 per cent. In addition there were 4,226 annulments in 1928 and 4,255 in 1927.

Six marriages were performed to every divorce during the past year, while in 1927 the ratio was 6.25. The number of marriages per thousand population was estimated at 9.85 and the divorces at 1.63 during the past year. In 1927 the estimated rate for marriages was 10.12 per thousand and divorces 1.62.

M'GOVERN HITS VOTE THIEVES

Most of the agencies investigating election frauds are "killing time," charged Commissioner C. C. McGovern, speaking last night over KQV in behalf of the candidacy of Thomas A. Dunn for mayor on the Democratic and Good Government tickets.

Mayor Charles H. Kline, he charged, was the minority choice at the primary election, winning "through the connivance of election thieves in the politically-controlled wards of the city."

Most of the $50,000 appropriated by the county to investigate frauds is being "wasted," McGovern declared.

INDORSES DUNN

He has a right to be a Republican for state and national purposes and a member of the "Independent" or "Good Government" party for local purposes, McGovern said, giving Dunn an unqualified indorsement.

If Dunn is elected, "the spoils system will disappear," he said, adding: "Police power will no longer be delegated to ward heelers; leadership and discipline will replace police direction by bartenders, bullies and sluggers."

Cases like that of Al Forney could not exist if Dunn were mayor, he declared, stating that no one would dare open a disorderly resort without being assured of police protection.

FOR "DECENT MAYOR"

The purpose of the "Good Government party," he said, is to "elect a decent mayor for Pittsburgh." The request to speak for Dunn, he declared, reminded him of the time when, enlisting for the Spanish-American War, he took an oath to obey and defend the Constitution of the United States.

Pittsburgh's government for the last three years, he charged, has been dominated "by election thieves, racketeers and hangers-on." Urging support for Dunn, he said that the three aspirants in the Republican primary—Kline, Judge Richard W. Martin and Councilman James F. Malone—"had nothing in their political history to give the voters that inspiration necessary to make a decisive choice."

The Kline candidacy and that of every Republican nominee received the indorsement of the Italian-American Voters of Allegheny County at a meeting last night in Hotel Henry. John A. Fugassi presided. Addresses were made by Representative M. A. Musmanno and Alderman John J. Verona. A special tribute was made to the leadership of Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong.

AIKEN AVENUE BRIDGE OPEN

Aiken Avenue Bridge spanning Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, has been under construction since last April, has been opened to traffic, according to Director Edward G. Lang, of the department of public works. The new bridge is 400 feet long, with a 36-foot roadway and cost $109,347.

Council has passed legislation and work will be started early next year on the widening of Aiken avenue from 30 to 36 feet between Ellsworth and Center avenues.

The Cement Gun Construction Company did the gunite work on the new bridge to prevent disintegration by protecting the parts from locomotive fumes.

Other contractors on the bridge were: Welsh Construction Company, foundations; Independent Bridge Company, steel, and the Speaker Construction Company, concrete deck.

FINDS OLD BOOK BY CAMPBELL

YORKVILLE, O., Nov. 1.—A book published in 1829 in Bethany, W. Va., by Alexander Campbell, founder of the Christian Church, was obtained this week by J. A. Hagan while on a business trip to a point near Cadiz. The book, quite thick and bound in leather, is in good condition in spite of its 100 years. Its title is "Debates on Evidences of Christianity and an Examination of the Social System as Given in Cincinnati, April 18-21, 1828, by Robert Owen of New Lenark, Scotland, and Alexander Campbell of Bethany, Va."

At the conclusion of the book proper, Campbell had inserted a printed prospectus of the Millennial Harbinger, a magazine he proposed to publish in January, 1830, having an avowed intention of destroying sectarianism, infidelity and anti-Christian doctrines and practices with the aim of developing and introducing the religious order of society called The Millennium.

Campbell, who evidently was preparing at that time to found his new sect, invited subscriptions of those who read his work when he was editor of the Christian Baptist.

Pair, Reconciled, Beats Divorce Lawyer

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The referee got hit in a marital row here, and it wasn't an accident.

Police rescued a Dallas lawyer from a bellicose couple who had decided to make up after the attorney had drawn a divorce petition for one of the pair. At the time the officers stepped in the woman was beating the lawyer's head with her pointed slipper while the man held him.

After the armistice the couple "jumped" the barrister because of some of the allegations in the divorce petition he prepared.

"Well, anyway," the victim of the age-old love theme reflected, "I can send them a bill."

Katz said he took the large sum of money to the store with him in order to cash pay checks for mill worker customers and believed the bandits were familiar with this practice.

LEAGUE HONORS MME. CURIE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Mme. Marie Curie, who with her husband discovered radium 30 years ago in her Paris woodshed workshop, was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given at the Hotel Plaza by the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

Seated among the 250 guests gathered to do her honor, the retiring little white-haired grandmother listened to the tribute paid her by members of the society and heard their plans further to combat cancer.

Doctors, scientists and statesmen were among the gathering. They included Dr. John C. A. Gerster, chairman of the New York committees of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, who presided; Dr. Howard Canning Taylor, president of the society; Dr. James Ewing, a New York physician, and the Hon. Tytus Filipowicz, minister to the United States from Poland, Mme. Curie's native country.

Dr. Ewing, speaking as a physician, paid tribute to Mme. Curie's "patient, persistent efforts" while working with meager equipment in the discovery of radium.

Mme. Curie was too fatigued to make the brief speech she had expected to give, and instead a statement by her was read in which she said that "as a result of the work done in the medical section of the Radium Institute of Paris under Dr. Regaud, we have become more than ever convinced that radium should only be used in the therapeutic field by experts."

MARTIN PLEADS FOR G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—In ending his campaign activities in his home county of Washington, Gen. Edward Martin, state treasurer of the Republican State Committee, today urged Pennsylvania voters to stand by the Republican party in Tuesday's election.

"By so doing," he said, "the people will indorse the work of Senator David A. Reed, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Joseph R. Grundy, who are giving of their time to the end that living conditions in America will continue to improve, and that the American home will be the finest in the world."

Gen. Martin addressed the annual meeting of the Republican committee of Washington County.

"Enemies and critics of Pennsylvania" were again flayed by Gen. Martin, who repeated his statement that trouble-makers at Washington are actuated by jealousy of this state.

Pair Meets Claim For Girl's Injury

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 1.—Charles Hays and Harry Retting, both of the Chicora district, have agreed to pay to Alphonse Cancella, of Chicora, $300 each at the rate of $25 a month. After action for injuries to Roxanna Cancella, 9, had been called in the Butler court the case was settled.

The girl was seriously injured a few weeks ago when hit by an automobile driven by Hay, who is serving a term in the Allegheny County workhouse for the same accident.

Landmark Razed In Rail Extension

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 1.—One of the landmarks of this district is being razed to make way for the improvements at New Castle Junction by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. It is the building that has housed the Police Department and restaurant of the railroad for many years. It was near this building that the main Erie Canal and the slackwater leading to New Castle converged at one time.

National Transit Opens Pump Plant

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 1.—In order to handle increasing volume of traffic from Bradford oil fields to Oil City and Warren refinery districts, National Transit Company will place the East Line pump station in operation shortly. The station has been idle two years. Resumption of operations there will hasten the transit of crude through lines of the company.

Investigate Attack On High School Boy

STONEBORO, Pa., Nov. 1.—State and county officials today continued their investigation of the attack on Laverne Hedgelin, 13, freshman at the high school, which occurred while he was on his way to school Tuesday. According to the boy, a stranger, poorly clad and heavily bearded tried to slash him with a razor, which Hedgelin took from him before the stranger could use it.

Woman Radio Star, Man Found Dead

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Pearl Dadnell, 39, a radio entertainer and mother of three children, and Burns A. Gilly, 51, a real estate salesman, were found dead from bullet wounds in an apartment here. Police said the couple had been living together and believed Gilly killed the woman and committed suicide after a quarrel.

Child, Lye Victim, On Way to Recovery

PERRYOPOLIS, Pa., Nov. 1.—Toots Kavala, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kavala, is recovering from the effects of being severely burned about the mouth by lye. The child found a can and when it tasted the contents, was burned about the mouth, face and hands. Her condition for a time was serious.

The Greatest Day In Frank & Seder History

FROM 9 IN THE MORNING TILL 9 AT NIGHT

Twelve Hours of Capacity Selling at Bargain Prices!

PLEASE

Please do not ask us to fill mail or phone orders. It will be humanly impossible.

Please carry small parcels, as our delivery service will be taxed to capacity.

Please use the stairways, especially in going down, as it would take a hundred elevators to transport the crowd that will be here Saturday.

Please arrange to come early in the morning, if possible, and thus avoid the congestion later in the day.

Please remember that we shall remain open until NINE O'CLOCK at night, to give every one the fullest opportunity to share in the savings.

Please co-operate with us and excuse slight inconveniences in our service. The record values you will get will more than repay you.

ALL SET! The whole town is ready to go! From every city, village and town in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia the crowds are on their way! The greatest crowds in Frank & Seder history! The greatest bargains in Frank & Seder history! The greatest Day in Frank & Seder history! That will be tomorrow's story of Pittsburgh's Retail Classic.

Five hundred additional sales people---hundreds of extras in our service departments---a fleet of additional emergency trucks---a complete rearrangement and readjustment of selling area---every floor intensively organized from both merchandise and selling standpoints---every effort humanly possible has been made to efficiently care for the huge wave of buyers that will flow through our doors from the hour of opening, NINE IN THE MORNING until NINE O'CLOCK SATURDAY NIGHT.

Make every effort to shop early in the day! Read every item on each of the seven pages of this giant ad. Every item is a sensational value—the boldest, most daring merchandising step ever taken by a store in Pittsburgh to offer for one day in the heart of the season!

WANTED FALL AND WINTER MERCHANDISE AT SENSATIONAL REDUCTIONS

'WRONGED' WIFE GETS ESTATE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The late William Allen Dunlap, heir to a fortune made in hats, suffered pangs of conscience because he once cut his third wife off from a share in his income, his will disclosed.

"I often feel afraid to go to sleep with the thought that I have done so great a wrong to her," he said in the will, and directed that all his possessions go to her on his death.

The will added that he was moved to do this because his third wife, Mrs. Mabel Hinson Dunlap, was "the only one who has been any good to me in my time of need and illness."

Dunlap, the son of Robert Dunlap, millionaire hat manufacturer, was estranged from Mrs. Dunlap in 1928. She filed suits for a separation and to obtain $19,000 she claimed to be due her under the terms of a pre-nuptial agreement. Dunlap started legal action for an annulment of their marriage, but a few months later they announced they had settled their differences.

Dunlap died recently possessed of only $1,000, but the will mentioned trust funds of an unnamed value set up by his parents and expressed a desire that the income from these funds go to his wife.

INDIA DOMINION PROMISED

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, in a proclamation issued simultaneously by the India office here and published by the official Gazette at Delhi, reiterated that British government policy was aimed at giving India equal partnership in the empire with the present Dominion of Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

The proclamation also repeats the government's agreement to a conference in London early in 1930 to determine the relations which shall exist between British India and the native states.

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Lord Irwin's proclamation of eventual dominion status for India was acclaimed by all political parties here as promising a statesmanlike solution of present difficulties. It was believed that the invitation to a round table conference in London would be accepted, although it was even thus early foreseen that the selection of representatives of British India might be the cause of considerable friction.

DEBT DISPUTE CALLS EXPERT

BADEN-BADEN, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—J. E. Reynolds, chairman of the conference on the Bank of International Settlements, participated in yesterday's session of the trust agreement committee. For weeks this committee's work has been delayed by controversy among Germany's creditors as to the division of reparations payments.

M. A. Traylor, chairman of this committee, is reported to have expressed the opinion that the Bank for International Settlements, as a trustee, must simply be told what to do with the funds received and not concern itself with the method of allotment, which should be decided by the statesmen.

It was generally believed that Mr. Reynolds' addition to the committee would result in drafting a document from which all political considerations will be removed.

There is no plenary session until Monday. Meanwhile most of the delegates have left Baden-Baden planning to return there when a full draft of the trust agreement will be submitted.

Father of Chicago Plan Dies At 73

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Charles Henry Wacker, veteran Chicago real estate dealer and father of the "Chicago Plan" for improving the city, died yesterday at his summer home at Lake Geneva, Wis., according to word received here. He was 73 years old.

A permanent monument to his pioneering in the work of beautifying Chicago with spacious boulevards, parks and bridges is Wacker drive, lining the south shore of the Chicago river.

Bill Would Balk Power Sabotage

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—A bill designed to protect against sabotage in electric power plants, including the Boulder Dam and government reclamation projects, was introduced by Chairman Smith, of the House Irrigation Committee.

The measure has the approval of the Interior Department. It would impose a $1,000 fine or three years' imprisonment or both upon anyone injuring or destroying electric transmission, telegraph, telephone or cable lines owned, operated or controlled by the United States.

Townships Given State Reward Cash

HARRISBURG, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The State Highway Department mailed checks totaling $53,908 to 21 townships in reward for road improvement. The payments included: Albany, Bradford County, $427; Howard, Centre, $494; Liberty, Centre, $7,181; Potter, Centre, $1,415; Decatur, Clearfield, $1,319; Glade, Warren, $675; Conewago, Warren, $279.

Zacher Named Head Of Travelers Co.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—L. Edmund Zacher was elected president of the Travelers Insurance Company and its associated companies. He succeeds Louis F. Butler, who died October 25. Zacher has been with the Travelers since 1904 and since 1922 has been vice president and treasurer.

CARMEN VOTE TO END STRIKE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The city's striking street car men voted, 889 to 21, for unqualified acceptance of the tentative strike settlement agreement reached last September 16, between labor leaders and New Orleans Public Service, Inc.

The result of the poll was made known by officers of the local car men's union after all day balloting.

It was announced that Edwin J. Peyroux, president of the union, J. B. Lawson, member of the executive committee of the International Union, and others, would attempt to confer with company officials to apprise the latter formally of the vote.

The ballot was the third taken by the car men on acceptance or rejection of the tentative agreement. Several weeks ago New Orleans Public Service, Inc., announced that it had withdrawn assent to the agreement and no longer would deal with the union in a negotiatory way.

THIRD OF LABOR BOMBS FAIL

MARION, Ind., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Apparent preparations for the third labor bombing of the last few weeks in Marion were uncovered when Frank Barr, president of the Marion Labor Temple, discovered his automobile had been tampered with.

Three weeks ago two men were killed in an explosion that wrecked the Labor Temple. Last Monday, Andrew Legos, secretary of the mould-makers' union, was critically injured by a dynamite bomb which exploded when he started his automobile.

Wires in Barr's automobile, authorities said, were placed in a position similar to those in Legos' car, except that no bomb was attached. Officials have been at a loss to explain the bombings.

FRIENDS PRAISE HOOVER

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Phrased in the quaint language of the Friends, a letter was sent to President Hoover, who is a Friend, from the closing session of the Baltimore yearly meeting of the Religious Society of Friends. The letter commended the President on his work for the advancement of the cause of world peace and for enforcement of prohibition.

Another letter to the President asked him to use his influence to obtain funds for the Indian bureau to carry out its plans for improvement of conditions among the Indians.

Susquehanna Trail Stretch Completed

HARRISBURG, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Opening of a new section of concrete highway three miles long on traffic route extending west from the Susquehanna Trail between Lawrenceville and Elkland tomorrow was decided by James Lyall Stuart, secretary of highways.

Secretary Stuart also announced completion of two other stretches of highway and their contemplated opening November 16. One section, two miles in length between Sunbury and Herndon is a part of the project for a second Sunbury-Harrisbury road, and the other is eight miles long between Trout Run and Ralston in Lycoming County.

Squire Sent to Jail For Selling Liquor

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—A sentence of three months in jail was imposed by Judge Morris A. Soper, of the United States District Court, on Irving F. Mumford, Sr., a justice of the peace of Ocean City, following a plea of guilty to the charges of selling and possessing intoxicants.

John P. Allen, a student at the University of Maryland, was charged with assaulting dry agents during a raid last June. He was paroled for a year by Judge Soper, who first lectured him on the seriousness of his offense.

State Plans Audit Of County Finances

HARRISBURG, Nov. 31.—(AP.)—Calling attention to the provision of the new state fiscal code repealing authority of the courts to appoint county auditors, Charles A. Waters, state auditor general, announced he contemplated taking over the duties formerly performed by these officials.

The code provides the auditing of accounts of city and county officials insofar as they relate to state finances shall be performed by the auditor general. Mr. Waters said he was preparing arrangements for acting in compliance with the law.

NOBEL MEDICINE PRIZE DIVIDED

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The Nobel prize in medicine for 1929 has been divided between Dr. Frederick Gowland Hopkins, professor of biochemistry at the University of Cambridge, England, and Dr. C. Eijkmann, a professor at the University of Utrecht, Holland, the Caroline Institute of Stockholm announced.

Dr. Hopkins was born in 1861 and has been one of the pioneers in the study of vitamins and is a member of the English Vitamin Committee.

Prof. James B. Sumner, of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., now is regarded as the most likely candidate for the Nobel prize in chemistry, the winner of which will be announced by the Swedish Academy of Science on November 12. He came to Stockholm last July to explain to Swedish chemists his method for the isolation of enzymes, the agencies which cause fermentation in yeast.

BERLIN MAYOR HOME, HISSED

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Gustav Boess, lord mayor of Berlin, returned from his American tour and was greeted with jeers and hisses both at the railway station and again as he and Frau Boess entered their home. The demonstration here echoed one which took place as he debarked from the steamer Bremen at Bremerhaven earlier in the day.

The manifestations of displeasure resulted from a scandal over contracts in the city administration. This came to a head while the lord mayor was visiting points in California, but he ignored resolutions by the Berlin city council requesting his early return and refused to curtail his trip.

Both in this city and at Bremerhaven police were forced to disperse the demonstrators. At the railway station in Berlin, the lord mayor and his wife were hurried out through a private exit so that they would not have to face the crowd, but they found another gathering in front of their home.

TURTLE CREEK PARTY HURT

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Five persons, all residents of Turtle Creek, Pa., had a narrow escape from losing their lives last night when their machine was struck by a N. Y. O. and W. train on a crossing in Olyphant, near here. They were on their way to visit friends in Olyphant.

Mrs. Sophie Daykan, 55, 724 Lincoln highway, Turtle Creek, and her son, Peter, 14, sustained extensive lacerations of the face.

Harry Daykan, husband and father of the two, received chest injuries, and Frank Saeyanic, 19, 643 Kline avenue, Turtle Creek, injuries of the right arm and left hand. John Daykan, 20, another son, was the only one to escape injury. The five were taken to the Mid-Valley Hospital, near here.

Jurors Disagree In Murder Trial

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Deadlocked after deliberating for 10 hours, the jury trying Harry Durbin, 35, of Cameron, for the slaying of John Dowler, was discharged. Durbin was remanded to jail without bond for retrial next February.

The state had contended that Durbin shot and fatally wounded Dowler in an argument after Dowler had accused him of intimacy with Mrs. Dowler. Durbin, denying Dowler's accusation, said he fired in self-defense.

DELAY MAY KILL LIQUOR CASE

A. Fisher, of 412 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, filed a petition in Federal Court asking for the suppression of evidence against him in a liquor suit, because of a long lapse of time between the search and seizure of liquor in a saloon he conducted at 102 Bell avenue, McKees Rocks, and the issuance of the search warrant.

Two pints of whisky and three gallons of wine had been confiscated, according to the petition.

Fisher set forth in the petition that more than 84 days elapsed from the time of alleged purchase of drinks of whisky in the saloon by prohibition agents and 81 days from the issuance of the search warrant, before the search and seizure. Fisher, represented by Attorney D. A. MacQuarrie, contends that the long delay is contrary to provisions of the national prohibition law.

A rule was granted upon United States Attorney John D. Meyer to show cause why the evidence should not be suppressed. The petitioner alleged that the alleged purchase by the agents was made January 26, but the raid did not occur until April 29.

DUELISTS FOIL POLICE, FIGHT

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Although watched by the police for three weeks, Alfonzo Lastra Charriez, a member of the Porto Rican Legislature, and Jesus Benitez Castano, a former government official, fought a sword duel in which both received slight wounds. The police acknowledged they had been outwitted.

Benitez, together with Felix Cordova Davila, resident commissioner, was expelled two months ago from the Allianza party. He took offense later at a published statement credited to Lastra, which questioned his political integrity. Lastra returned from a visit to New York on October 7.

CITY EMPLOYE FINDS RELIEF IN KONJOLA

Lifelong Pittsburgh Resident Turns to New and Different Medicine for Run-down Condition.

Wherever Konjola, the new and different medicine, is known, there are to be found men and women, of all ages, and in all walks of life, who are eager to tell what Konjola has done for them. Konjola has made and kept more than a million friends, simply by making good.

The splendid success of Konjola is partly explained by the fact that this new and different medicine is actually made up of 32 ingredients, 22 of which are blended from the juices of roots and herbs, the medicinal value of which has long been known to science. Each ingredient has its work to do, and does it, while all work together in the process of cleansing and stimulating the ailing organs, and sweeping the system free from the accumulated poisons and impurities. By striking at the very cause of the ailment, Konjola never stops at mere temporary relief. As an example of Konjola in action, here is the case of Mr. Daniel Fitzgerald, an employe of the City and a lifelong resident of East Liberty, a suburb. But better still, talk to the nearest Konjola Man in your city; there is one at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and another at Dow's Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets. Talk to them, ask them to explain the merits of this new and different medicine, let them show you how a few of the thousands of men and women, many of them in your own city and vicinity, have been restored to new and glorious health through Konjola. Mr. Fitzgerald said, just the other day, to the Konjola Man:

"I wish everyone to know of my experience with Konjola. A liver weakness of long standing, which had been brought on by neglect, resulted in a constipated condition which I had tried for years to relieve. I was subject to continuous and annoying headaches, which made my work almost impossible to perform. My tongue was heavily coated, and my breath was always unpleasant and my food tasted badly. My back pained me considerably at times, and I lost weight and strength. I was badly run down, nervous, and worried over little things. I did not sleep as I should and had become discouraged.

"I began taking Konjola and the results were more than I had dared hope for. Before long my liver began to function again, my bilious condition gradually passed away, and constipation disappeared entirely. The tired and worn-out feeling has passed, and I have regained all my old strength and energy. I sleep well again and my stomach is in the best of condition. I suggest that every person, run-down as I was, become acquainted with this new and different medicine, Konjola."

Thus Konjola works in case after case. No matter how stubborn the ailment of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness, they have all yielded to this new medicine, Konjola.

There are two Konjola men in Pittsburgh, one is at the Dow drug store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Ave and Sixth St., and another at Dow's drug store, (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Sts., where daily they are meeting the public and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is also sold at all Dow drug stores in Pittsburgh and

4 RAIDS YIELD STILL, LIQUOR

Four raids made by prohibition agents yesterday netted them a 100-gallon still and large quantities of moonshine. Police from the Hazelwood Station reported seizing a still of 150-gallon capacity.

Patsy Mazori, 46, was arrested by the agents in connection with the operation of a 100-gallon still on a farm in Deer Township, the agents said.

SALOON RAIDED

A saloon in Freeport road, East Deer township, where John Smith, 52, was arrested, yielded the agents a small quantity of whisky, they reported.

Liquor violations were reported in raids on the home of Mike Pavlovich, 40, of 2621 Sarah street, and the store of Jock Orabetz, 24, of 2306 Bell avenue, North Braddock, the raiders declared. Smith and the latter two were released on their own recognizance.

STILL IN HAZELWOOD

Hazelwood police reported raiding the home of Joseph Stella, 34, of 4323 Ervine street, and seizing a still of 150-gallon capacity, 35 gallons of moonshine and destroying 65 barrels of mash. Stella was arrested on a suspicious person charge. The contrabrand was found on the third floor.

DRIVER FIGHTS ARREST, HURT

Earl Long, 22, of 2321 Penn avenue, a taxicab driver, was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and violation of the automobile laws last night, police said, after he drove his cab recklessly near the South Side Market House.

Long was said to have resisted when Patrolman William Bradburn attempted to arrest him, and the policeman was forced to use his club on him. He then took him to the South Side Hospital, where Long refused medical attention and attempted to strike Dr. W. H. Evans, police reported. He was finally persuaded to remain quiet while the physician treated a scalp wound.

Police declared that Long was intoxicated.

PRISON BREAK BY 3 FOILED

CANON CITY, Colo., Nov. 1.—(A.P.)—An attempt by three convicts to tunnel their way to freedom at the State Penitentiary was frustrated with discovery of the men and their implements.

The shovels and picks used by the men were tools used in reconstruction work at the prison, following the riot which cost 13 lives and caused much damage to the institution early this month.

The men had succeeded in tunneling seven feet under the wall of cell house No. 1, one of the fire razed structures. There was no way to determine exactly how long the men had been at their work.

The men involved were Frank Lespart and Russell Sterling, sentenced from four to six years for grand larceny, and Ernest Laverne, serving from 14 to 16 years for robbery.

Details Completed For New State Code

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Clerical work upon the report of the State Code Commission was virtually completed and members of the sub-committee, which drafted a proposed new state code, said the report might be submitted to Governor Conley today.

Meanwhile the probable date on which Governor Conley would request the convening of a special session of the Legislature, to consider the revised code, was the subject of discussion among state house officials.

FOUR MEN, GIRL ADMIT THEFTS

CRESTON, Ia., Nov. —(AP.)—Homer Brannon, Akron, O., alleged leader of a quintet including one girl, and Richard McAnnon and James Johnson, of Parkersburg, W. Va., admitted to police that they had stolen three automobiles in an attempt to go from Ohio to the Far West, according to Chief of Police Louden. They were arrested here Tuesday night when found driving an alleged stolen machine.

The girl, who had claimed she was Brannon's sister, has admitted, according to Louden, that she is Leona Hankinson, Youngstown, O. The other youth held with Brannon, McAnnon and Johnson is Robert Rogers, of Akron.

The chief of police said Brannon admitted they stole a sedan in Akron and deserted it at Chariton, Ia., where they stole another car to drive to Creston. They transferred the Ohio license plates to the second machine, Louden said. A third alleged attempt here to steal a car resulted in the arrests.

Mayor Makes Bid For Hay Fever Voter

MARTINS FERRY, O., Nov. 1.—Mayor Howard A. Duff, seeking his fourth term as mayor at next Tuesday's election, is making a bid for a new variety of voter. Duff names the hay fever, rose fever and asthma sufferer.

A pamphlet prepared by Democratic political managers carries the following concerning the latest in bloc politics:

"The insistence of the health department that leaves, etc., be burned in the mornings of only two days a week in the fall is of great benefit to the large number of our citizens suffering from hay fever, rose fever and asthma. This also helps to clear the atmosphere of this community of the very heavy smoke pall that is so prevalent in the fall months of the year."

$100,000 FUND WILLED SCIENCE

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Real and intangible property believed to have a value of $100,000 was left to the Smithsonian Institution of Washington by William H. Rollins, of this city, whose will was filed for probate yesterday.

Written in longhand in a 16-page memorandum book, the will directed that the property be used to establish the Miriam and William Rollins fund "for explorations beyond the boundary of knowledge."

The fund is to be devoted to experiments with "the mother stuff of the universe to find how to handle its manifestations for the benefit of man."

Large tracts of land in Wellfleet and Truro were left to John C. Phillips, in the hope that the latter will maintain them as a sanctuary for birds, plants, fishes and mammals.

VASQUEZ FLIES TO HOSPITAL

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Gen. Horacio Vasquez, President of the Dominican Republic, on his way to Baltimore for treatment at Johns Hopkins Hospital, arrived here at 5:15 p. m. aboard a Pan-American air liner from Havana. He was accompanied by his wife, his wife's niece, Miss Antonio Moya; his personal physician, Dr. Ramon De Lara; Angel Morales, Dominican minister plenipotentiary to the United States, and Lieut. Gustavo Guzman, military attache at the Dominican legation in Washington.

Dr. De Lara refused to give his diagnosis of President Vasquez's illness and would only say that he had suffered from a high fever for more than a week. President Vasquez is 69 years old.

Vasquez departed on the Havana Special for Baltimore, where he will enter Johns Hopkins Hospital to be treated for a kidney ailment.

WITNESS AT 92 AMUSES COURT

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—A 92-year-old man who was a witness in Camden County Orphans Court during a contested will hearing, sprinkled his answers with advice and humor.

The witness, Thomas Haigh, of Middletown, Pa., formerly lived in Camden. He was called to testify concerning the mental attitude of John Scanlon, of Westmont, N. J., who left his entire estate to his landlady, Mrs. Catherine Shaw, with the exception of $5 bequests to each of his six children.

WILL CONTESTED

When the will was presented to Surrogate George W. Whyte, of Camden County, for probate, Mrs. Marie Smith, of Woodstown, youngest daughter of Scanlon, filed a caveat. She alleged that undue influence had been exerted over her father when he executed his will and that he lacked testimentary capacity.

Although no valuation has been set upon the estate, Haigh, who was a life-long friend of Scanlon, stated that the latter was "close fisted" and that he believes the estate to be worth between $100,000 to $150,000.

"I think you are a remarkable man," Judge Shay told the aged witness.

LIFE USEFUL

"I am a remarkable man," Haigh answered. "There is no secret to my longevity. I have always tried to make myself useful and I am still able to ply my trade as wood carver, an ocupation which is disappearing fast in this country."

Haigh revealed he has a son 11 years old. His oldest son, he stated, was 54 and his daughter 58.

The other contestants in the case are Mrs. Alda Few, Collingswood, N. J.; Donald Scanlon, Gary, Ind.; John A. Scanlon, Chicago, and Ebenezer Scanlon, of Camden, and Mrs. Mildred S. Roberts, Doylestown, Pa.

WALES' RANCH HOUSE BURNS

CALGARY, Alberta, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The old Prince of Wales ranch house at Pekiso was destroyed by fire Sunday, it was learned here. Damage totaled about $2,000. The ranch is owned by the Prince.

Quick work by the ranch employes saved the new house, with contents valued at $25,000, from the flames. They hitched a team of horses to a shed, which stood between the flaming building and the new house, and dragged it out of the way before the fire had spread to it.

Snow on the roof of the new building prevented sparks from igniting it. The water and lighting systems on the ranch were put out of order.

Pennsylvania Bus Extension Refused

HARRISBURG, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The Public Service Commission rejected an application of the Pennsylvania Railroad's bus subsidiary, the Pennsylvania General Transit Company, to operate a motor bus line between Tyrone and Grampian. Protests were entered against the application and the commission, in refusing a franchise, held that the territory was being amply served by existing carriers.

Club Arranges Sunday Jaunt

PIANO TOOLS FOR DOCTORS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Tools of the piano tuning trade were closely linked with the medical profession in a new method of physical diagnosis outlined by Dr. Fleming Howell, of Buckhannon, W. Va., in an article published in the November issue of the West Virginia Medical Journal.

Dr. Howell suggested the use of tuning forks in ascertaining the advancement or retardation of lung troubles. Under his system, the physician would lightly tap his patient upon the breast, and record the correct pitch of the sound resulting from the blow. On later examinations, a higher pitch, he said, would show advancement of congestion within the lungs, while a lower pitch would mean an improvement in the patient's condition.

Explaining his theory, Dr. Howell wrote: "We find pitch lowered in bodies accordingly as they approach from the solid to the hollow, or in a string or wire, as it is longer or larger, or more or less tenuous. The percussion note or pitch is higher over the shoulder, or thigh, or any other solid part of the body, than over the region of the lungs or abdominal cavity, because of the fact that the shoulder or the thigh for instance, is solid, while the lungs are vesicular and the intestines in the abdominal cavity are more or less inflated with gas.

"The musical note or tone," he said, "over the same portion of a healthy lung, is always practically the same over a period of time sufficiently extended to allow us to make such investigations and comparisons as may be required to arrive at a positive conclusion. There is always a sufficient portion of one or the other of the lungs, in such healthy or normal condition, as will afford us a standard of healthy lung for comparison in that particular case. In the case of the consolidation of a portion of a lung, as in pneumonia or tuberculosis, or of effusion into a hollow cavity such as the pleural or peritoneum, there is always elevated pitch, and this elevation of pitch is greater or less according to how nearly the condition approaches complete consolidation of the lung, or as to how nearly effusion has compressed the lung or abdominal area."

Beaver Man Hit By Auto, Injured

Conductor Retires, Active 49 Years

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 1.—W. A. Mattern, of Kane, formerly of Butler, has retired as a conductor for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad after 49 years and seven months. Hundred persons along the line Butler and Mt. Jewett greeted Mr. Mattern as he made his final run.

INDIAN ABUSES CHARGED

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Charges that the government, through the Indian Bureau, had only in a half-hearted way kept its promises and that the American Indian, a victim of the land sharks and deprived of sufficient education, was slowly but surely being pauperized, were made by Mrs. Gertrude Bonnin, Sioux Indian, in an address delivered here. She is president of the National Council of American Indians.

The Indian schools, she said, are not on the same educational par with the schools of the white man, with the result that the Indian is given only an elementary education.

ONCE SELF-SUPPORTING

"The Indian race," she said, "was a self-supporting one until the government stepped in and, through various treaty agreements took away their lands and livelihood, put them on reservations and established the Indian Bureau to look after their affairs.

"In the great deflation of land values following the World War, the Indian fell an easy victim to the land sharks. They had been urged to borrow and borrow to increase production on what little stock raising they were doing and when the bottom fell out after the war they were left holding the sack and with nothing other than their lands to pay what they had borrowed.

DENIED ADVICE

"Instead of the Indian Bureau, in whose hands they rest their fate, stepping in and helping out, as it should have done, they were left without advice of any kind and many lost almost everything they had," she said.

JILTED SUITOR SHOOTS GIRL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Leona Fishback, 25, an artist, was shot and seriously wounded last night by William E. Peters, whom police said she had jilted.

Peters fired five shots into the young woman's body when he found her sitting in the parlor of her home with William Krueger, 26, of Gloucester, N. J.

Miss Fishback's father, Adolph Fishback, operator of a bakery, obtained a warrant for Peters' arrest on the charge that he had threatened to kill her.

Peters came to the Fishback home before the warrant was served and opened fire when he saw the other man in the room. One bullet struck Miss Fishback in the hand, one in the shoulder and three in the head. Physicians said she had but slight chance of recovery.

Peters was arrested and held without bail pending the outcome of the girl's wounds.

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. The petitions averred it was seized and search without the authority of a search warrant when Grgurich parked the machine on Butler street. Mrs. Grgurich and children of the couple were in the car when the automobile and liquor was confiscated, the petition set forth. ASSAILS RIVER FETE TRIP

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington should have "gone along" when the Queen City steamed down the Ohio River with city and county officials, Mrs. Carroll Miller, speaker for Thomas Dunn, Democratic mayoralty nominee, suggested today in a noon address from Dunn headquarters.

"Why waste time on the little fellow," Mrs. Miller continued, "when the big fish go sailing down the river?"

"There is a 12-mile limit on the Atlantic coast, but is there no limit down the Ohio? And yet our mayor talks about a clean city and clean officials!

"The machine that is trying to perpetuate itself through the re-election of Mayor Kline had no legal right to spend $15,000 of the county's money to hire a boat and purchase refreshments for a small group of politicians.

"If this city has clean city government, then Boss Tweed, of New York, was only an amateur.

"Mayor Kline says Pittsburgh is the cleanest city in the country. Has he forgotten the slot-machine scandal? Does he think the mothers of Pittsburgh have forgotten Al Forney's connection with his political family?"

MEXICO SUES TO RECOVER 'NAVY'

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The Mexican government has filed suit in Superior Court here to recover possession of the patrol boat S. A. F. No. 2, formerly the Tecate, which constitutes half of Mexico's west coast navy.

The craft, launched about three months ago, recently was returned to the ways of the Peter Rask shipyard here and work on its hull started. It supposedly is held for a repair bill. In the complaint the boat is valued at $26,000 and the Mexican government asks judgment of that amount if it is not delivered, plus $2,500 damages. Rask's bill against the Mexican government for repairs is said to approximate $12,000.

Rask said there had been a misunderstanding which would be straightened out soon.

DOG, MILK CAN KILLING CLUES

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—A small white poodle dog and a can of condensed milk are the sole clues police had today in connection with the slaying of William Pardy, 22, last night.

Pardy was shot and killed as he was playing a game of solitaire in the apartment of three friends. The three friends, brothers, are Alfred, Phillip and Herbert Shanow. They are held as witnesses.

Pardy was to have spent the night with them. Alfred Shanow, returning from escorting a girl companion to a theater, found Pardy's body. The other brothers, sleeping in an adjoining room, said they did not hear the shot.

The dog and the milk were found in the apartment, but all three of the men disclaimed ownership of them. Police are searching for the girl Alfred said he escorted to the theater.

GRAY VETERANS STAND BY FLAG

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Declaring that Edwin J. Foster, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, had "completely blown himself out of water" by a proposal that the Confederate veterans march with the Union veterans without displaying the Confederate flag, Gen. R. A. Sneed, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, said here that he would reject the invitation.

The invitation contained in a letter from the G. A. R. commander to Sneed, reads:

"So far as I know, there can be but one condition which stands in the way of our coming together, and that is for you, as head of your organization, to pledge to us that the Stars and Bars and your Confederate flag shall have no place in the parade . . . but that you will march under the Stars and Stripes."

The tall, white-haired Confederate commander, who also is state treasurer, asserted that he would take his time in replying, and that he would tell the G. A. R. chief that the South did not propose to be dictated to.

Gen. Sneed sent a message to the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Portland, Me., proposing a joint meeting with the Union veterans. The proposal was rejected.

Besides making known his condition, Foster said in his letter:

"In regard to the action of the Grand Army of the Republic regarding a reunion of the Blue and Gray, which has caused so much criticism from our southern friends, I believe such a reunion is possible.

"The boys in blue always have been ready to extend the hand of fellowship to our southern friends and never more than now.

"To the end that a happy result may be obtained, I will say I shall be glad to meet you in Washington or Boston and confer with you on the question of a joint parade."

GREENVILLE, Pa., Nov. 1.—When an acetylene tank exploded, Ray Snyder, 40, was painfully injured at the Bessemer and Lake Erie shops. He suffered a mangled right hand and a deep cut to his side.

BANK WORKERS TAKE $800,000

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Charles S. Mott, vice president of the General Motors Corporation and chairman of the board of directors of the Union Industrial Bank of Flint, and Grant J. Brown, president of the bank, announced that approximately $800,000 of the bank's money had been misappropriated by several employes.

They said the amount of money misused was "small" in comparison with the resources of the bank and its affiliations and that Mr. Mott and the board of directors had guaranteed the amount taken. The Union Industrial Bank is part of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., with capital of $75,000,000 and total resources of over $500,000,000.

Names of employes who misappropriated the bank's money were not disclosed.

"We deeply regret this unfortunate incident," Mr. Mott said, "more for the employes concerned than the amount, which is small in comparison to the resources of the bank and its affiliations. While the directors as individuals have paid more than the sum involved, I personally have guaranteed the entire amount."

Mr. Mott is said to be one of the three largest stockholders of General Motors.

Rudolph E. Reichert, state banking commissioner, issued a statement in which he said, "with the situation as Mr. Mott and his associates have stated and our knowledge of the Union Industrial Bank and its affiliations, the condition of the bank has not been impaired by this unfortunate incident."

PREACHER FREE AS DESERTER

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—The courts here refused to turn over the Rev. Guy E. Saunders, Negro minister, of Des Moines, Ia., to an officer on a charge of child desertion. Saunders had been arrested by state police last week in Braddock, Pa.

The court ruled that while the crime is a felony in Iowa, a good case of desertion had not been made out against Saunders, who said he left home last June to do evangelistic work. He supported his statements with letters received from his family as late as September, and pleaded illness as the reason for being unable to send money home. The court ordered the defendant discharged.

Contract Awarded For Nurses' Home

MT. PLEASANT, Nov. 1.—A contract for erection of a three-story nurses' home adjacent to Memorial Hospital has been awarded by the board of directors to A. D. Christner & Sons, contractor of this place. The low bid was $30,838. The structure will be of buff brick.

Mahoning Grand Jury Convenes

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 1.—The September grand jury, which recently heard 111 cases and returned 74 true bills, is to be recalled in November to consider new cases which have since developed, including one first degree murder charge.

A GOOD THING TO REMEMBER

The next time you lose something don't despair or give up hope until you have done both of these things:

First look in the Sun-Telegraph "Lost and Found" Columns to see if the finder has advertised. If he has not, then do this. Call GRant 5400 and ask the ad taker to run a Classified Ad telling the world what you have lost. It will cost only a few cents and you are pretty certain to locate your lost, prized possessions. Most folks are honest and genuinely interested in returning lost property to its rightful owners.

Remember this little bit of advice the next time you lose your purse or your Pekingese—

Quite naturally some people discriminate in favor of excellence. Consequently, their choice is the new all-electric, screen grid

—in all their material possessions their friends discern a certain excellence

Eveready Radio

THE PRECISION INSTRUMENT

EVEREADY SCREEN GRID CONSOLE MODEL 52, $157.50 (LESS TUBES)

Model 53, a larger console, $195 (less tubes)—Model 54, the de luxe console, $225 (less tubes), using the same perfected screen grid chassis. Pacific Coast prices slightly higher.

IN THE HOUSES in which they live . . . in the motor-cars which stand gleaming on their drives . . . the meals they serve in their dining-rooms . . . in short, in all their material possessions their friends discern a certain excellence, a certain discrimination. These are people of good taste. . . . There is a radio receiver—the Eveready—which fits in with a life such as theirs, which fits in with a point of view demanding excellence in everything they own. . . . Its tone is full, round and agreeable. And because of the "weather-proof" principle incorporated in the new Eveready Radio the reception even on damp, humid nights is remarkably clear and free from distortion.

Its excellence is not a matter of months but many years

But if this were all people of good taste knew about the new Eveready Radio, they would hesitate to buy. Their whole point of view towards life requires that they also look for permanent, as well as momentary, excellence; that they look for the sort of perfection which comes with the ideal of precision building, an ideal which looks into the distant future as well as tomorrow. . . . So carefully, so precisely, is this fine instrument built that you may expect, not six months or a year of performance, but five, yes even ten, years of satisfying reception.

You will want this remarkable radio receiver

And so, if you are a person who discriminates in favor of excellence, if your whole attitude towards life looks for effects, not causes, you will want the new Eveready Radio. That is why, when you see it, hear it, notice its beautiful cabinetwork, you will say, "Of course this is the instrument for my household."

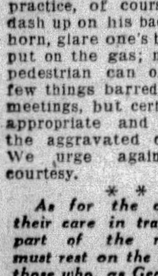
SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE



Havey J. Boyle.

THE Better Traffic Committee, through its Mr. Grafton Duvall, wants to know if we won't help to keep traffic accidents to a minimum. A special effort, says the bulletin, will be put forth this month to reduce child fatalities and in December the traffic men will devote themselves to avoiding pedestrian-automobile conflict at intersections.

While it is no panacea, we offer courtesy as a suggestion to all concerned. If motorists would only use, in driving, the common decencies they employ in other pursuits, traffic, we feel certain, would be less hazardous. The business of always trying to beat fellow-motorists and the innocent pedestrian to the punch by dashing lickety-split is what produces much of the trouble. If motorists only would say: "I'm going to give the other fellow a break," driving would be less trying and less dangerous.

AS WE possibly have said before, we, as a motorist, favor the pedestrian who is walking around most of the time with two strikes called on him. Just for the novelty, motorists ought to slow down once in a while and wave the pedestrian on his way in cordial fashion. The practice, of course, now is to dash up on his back, blow one's horn, glare one's best glare, and put on the gas; meanwhile the pedestrian can only mutter a few things barred at Boy Scout meetings, but certainly entirely appropriate and fitting under the aggravated circumstances. We urge again four-wheel courtesy.

As for the children and their care in traffic, a large part of the responsibility must rest on the shoulders of those who, as George Bernard Shaw believes, don't know anything about handling them—parents.

No sane motorist passes children in the street or playing on the sidewalks without getting a mild chill. They're a great deal like women of the playwright's imagination—you never know what they're going to do.

OF COURSE, we know that the children of any who might read this are not guilty of what we have seen, but it is a point worth mentioning: There are young savages ranging from 10 to 14 who deliberately and actually stand in the path of an approaching motor car with arms held out, emulating a traffic cop. There are others who chase after street cars, hang perilously on the rear end, and hop off in front of motor cars just behind them.

It is true parents have a great many things to do now, what with the mother daily negotiating to marry off the girls, and the father worrying about the mother thus engaged, but if time out could be taken to tell Rollo that running traffic risks is just as bad as eating peas with his knife or as bad as going to bed with dirty hands and face something on the side of safety might be achieved.

JURY CONVICTS, GIVEN PAROLE

Although the prosecuting attorney had announced in court that he did not believe his own witnesses, a jury in Criminal Court found Fred Dale, private policeman, guilty of assault and battery.

Judge Frank P. Patterson promptly paroled Dale.

Dale, former traffic policeman, was accused of using unnecessary roughness in arresting Max Slutsky, truck driver. Slutsky's father testified that he saw the policeman beat up his son, but Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin, refusing to ask for a conviction, contended that a father would not stand by and allow his son to be attacked.

New Texas Regime Gets Murder Verdict

STINNETT, Tex., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The first murder conviction in Hutchinson County's new regime was returned by a jury here which sentenced W. C. Alsbrook to 15 years' imprisonment for the murder of Melvin T. Hotchkiss in Borger, oil boom town, last September 15.

The jury returned the verdict for Hutchinson's militant new district attorney, Clem Calhoun, a leading figure in the recent sensational cleanup of Borger and Hutchinson County.

HURT IN AUTO, DRIVER HELD

Frank Welte, 22, of 831 Braddock avenue, Braddock, is still in serious condition in Braddock General Hospital, as a result of an automobile accident. Rankin police are holding Gerald Cattrell, of 906 Braddock avenue, driver of the machine, in default of $1,000 bail, pending the outcome of Welte's injuries.

Cattrell's car skidded and struck a pole in Kenmawr avenue, and in the crash Welte, a passenger, sustained fractured ribs, and probable internal injuries. Another companion in the machine, Willer Davis, of 615 Corey avenue, Braddock, received lacerations of the scalp, wrist and elbow. He was treated at the hospital and sent to his home.

Four False Alarms Laid to Masquers

Halloween celebrants were blamed for four false fire alarms last night. The alarms, from the West End, South Side, East End and the downtown district, were sounded within the space of three hours.

JUST A LOVING MOTHER AND HER BABY
The baby's Larry Green, Bloomfield, quite a man, and the mother's George Geminehart. They paraded the streets.

Celebrators Jailed After Riot in Street

Marcella Nolan, 29, who said she lives at 4609 Center avenue, was tired of Halloween celebrations and wanted to go home at 3 a. m. today, but H. L. Logan, 39, of 223 Federal street, her escort, still wanted to make whoopee. A policeman found them arguing at Federal and East General Robinson streets, and urged them to run along home, but they wouldn't, so he arrested them.

Family At Parade, Fire Damages Home

The home of Albert Melczak, at 173 South Sixteenth street, was damaged to the extent of $500 by fire last night, while Melczak, his wife and three children were watching the Halloween parade downtown. The blaze was discovered by a pedestrian. Firemen were unable to learn the cause.

Youth Hurt, Hit-Run Motorist Sought

McKeesport police and county detectives are searching for the driver of an automobile that yesterday ran down and seriously injured Hugh Laughery, 16, of 1012 Fourth street, North Braddock, in Foster road, McKeesport. Laughery was picked up by motorists who took him to the McKeesport Hospital, where it was said his condition was serious.

CHURCH MARKS 40TH BIRTHDAY

A week's celebration marking the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the McCandless Avenue Presbyterian Church, McCandless and Carnegie avenues, will be started Monday by members of the congregation. Preliminary to the opening of the celebration Monday night, the Rev. W. E. Howard, pastor, has arranged a "Go to Church Sunday" program for Sunday.

Services will be held each night during the week and the celebration will close next Sunday with special services. Prominent speakers of the Presbyterian Church will be present, as will clergymen of other churches in the neighborhood. The church has been on its present location since it was founded.

Raid Follows Alleged Threat on Policeman

North Side police, under Lieut. John Joyce, early today raided the restaurant of Fred Rohler, 1700 Lowrie street, and confiscated a small amount of liquor and a revolver, they said. The raid followed an alleged threat made by Rohler against Patrolman John Keefer, 35, who threatened to shoot Rohler's dog which had bitten him.

"Shoot my dog and I'll shoot you," Rohler was alleged to have told the patrolman.

FETES HELD THROUGHOUT DISTRICT

Mummers Parade in City And Boroughs; Thousands Of Children Take Part

With the simplicity of the children of Hamlin who followed the Pied Piper on his gay march, droves of masked boys and girls followed the elusive tradition of elves and gnomes and spirits of Halloween last night.

Instead of one parade, there were dozens; instead of Piper, there was the marshal from the board of trade or chamber of commerce. Instead of the pipes, there were horns and bells and shouts of merry children.

Characters dropped into community main streets from the pages of books, history, romance, melodrama, Mother Goose and piracy books.

THOUSANDS LOOK ON

Lacking the confetti and its color, bunting and costumes and prizes provided more than an adequate substitute. Tens of thousands were spectators.

The tendency, differing from other years, was the concentration of activities in the small communities rather than in the downtown triangle or East Liberty's brightly illuminated Penn avenue.

But not only the children played. Throughout the Pittsburgh district hundreds of private parties, dances and other events celebrated the event.

Downtown, the goblins held sway in Fifth avenue from Grant street to Liberty avenue. Pittsburgh's gay white way was closed to vehicular traffic except street cars and buses while masqueraders and spectators crammed the thoroughfare from curb to curb.

Special details of police, made up of the regular day and night squads, mingled in the crowds, prepared to curb rodyism, but their vigilance was all for naught. Police Inspector James N. Hoey termed the crowd one of the most orderly holiday crowds ever seen here. Inspector Hoey assumed personal charge of the downtown district.

BOROUGHS CELEBRATE

From 9 o'clock until shortly after 11 the mummers reigned unrestrained. Clowns, hoboes, or what-have-you mingled with the gay butterflies and princess beautifuls who celebrated the gay festive spirit of Halloween.

There was fun galore—no rough-house scenes; no confetti-throwing of former years; no feather ticklers; no property damage along the "main stem."

By midnight, downtown traffic resumed its normal trend and to the casual wayfarer there was nothing but a few stray wisps of ribboned paper and the straggling debris of a crowd to remind him of the festive occasion.

Throughout the South Hills and North Boroughs sections, various communities held individual celebrations. Bellevue's mardi gras culminated in a street dance, the borough firemen's band supplying the music. Prizes were awarded in a parade preceding the dance. R. J. Culver was general chairman.

Thousands of costumed children moved through East Liberty, guided by parents and other relatives. Homewood-Brushton combined with a parade of thousands of children, ancient horses and buggies, and here and there a pony and cart appeared. Wilkinsburg and adjoining boroughs attracted their poplations to the main streets where the one big night of the year for its children turned the avenues into scenes of great laughing carnivals.

The East boroughs, including Pitcairn, East Pittsburgh, and Turtle Creek held a joint parade and celebration; Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin staged their own festivities. In Swissvale, the fire department sponsored a parade.

Edgewood had a community party.

ACTIVITIES AT CRAFTON

In Etna, the volunteer firemen directed their parade. A number of prizes were donated for the most distinguished costumes.

Sun-Telegraph Lauded For Art Reproductions

High praise of the special edition of the Sun-Telegraph color gravure, containing reproductions of the International Exhibition of Paintings at Carnegie Institute, has been received from many people.

In this special edition, presented the first Sunday after the opening of the exhibition, were many paintings in colors and others in monotone, giving a comprehensive and attractive display of the show.

LETTER PAID COMPLIMENT

Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of the Department of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute, paid special compliment to the Sun-Telegraph in the following letter:

"Before I leave for Mexico I want you to know how grateful all of us at the Department of Fine Arts are for the splendid send-off the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph gave the twenty-eighth International with your color gravure section of October 20.

"You were more than generous in your reproductions in color and rotogravure of paintings in the International. I know that the section has been favorably commented on every place.

ATTENDANCE BOOSTED

"Our present attendance is now 10,000 more than at the same time last year, and I attribute it in no small part to the boost which your section gave the exhibition.

"We are exceedingly grateful to you and to the members of the staff of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for all you have done for us."

There will be reproductions, in color, of many of the paintings in the exhibition in the color gravure section of the Sun-Telegraph from time to time. This Sunday there are two splendid reproductions. On November 10 another International painting of great interest will be reproduced.

Will Rogers Says

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.

Sure must be a great consolation to the poor people who lost their stock in the late crash to know that it has fallen in the hands of Mr. Rockefeller, who will take care of it and see that it has a good home and never be allowed to wander around unprotected again.

There is one rule that works in every calamity, be it pestilence, war or famine: The rich get richer and the poor get poorer. The poor even help arrange it.

But it's just as Mr. Brisbane and I have been constantly telling you, "Don't gamble." Take all your savings and buy some good stock, and hold it till it goes up, then sell it.

Yours, WILL.

ARMY OF HUNTERS STORMS WOODS OF PENNSYLVANIA

25,000 PERMITS ISSUED BY COUNTY

R. B. Mellon and Other Notables Included in List; Oldest Applicant Is 86

Thousands of men and women hunters will swarm Pennsylvania woods today, with the opening of the hunting season. Yesterday belated license seekers thronged the county treasurer's office, and when the office was closed clerks placed the number at 25,000.

Among those seeking licenses were R. B. Mellon, who gave his age as 71. Eighty-six was said to have been the age of the oldest applicant, while there were several others ranging in age from 80 to 83.

November 1 is regarded as the opening of the hunting season, as birds and rabbits then are legal game. Rabbit, squirrel and quail may be killed until November 30. Male ringnecked pheasant may be killed to November 15. Year-old bear may be killed to December 15 and the deer season will open December 1 for two weeks.

The only exception noted in the state laws is that relative to the shooting of wild turkey which is forbidden in Fayette, Somerset and Westmoreland counties.

Women, too, were in the crowds at the treasurer's office, hard-pressed by the last-hour rush for hunting licenses. The season opens today for 'coon, bear, squirrel and pheasant.

MINE RESEARCH REPORTS MADE

Reports on studies made by research fellows during the year were made at the fall meeting of the mining advisory board to Carnegie Institute of Technology and the United States Bureau of Mines in Carnegie Inn last night. Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the institute, presided.

The quality of coke made from coal depends on the conditions of carbonization and on the behavior of its constituents during carbonization, the report of J. D. Davis and Donald A. Wallace stated. They reported on "The Plastic State of Coal During Coking." Reports were submitted on several other problems.

SCHOOLS TO AID BUNDLE DRIVE

School children, under the direction of William M. Davidson, public school superintendent, will assist in the annual "bundle week" drive of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, which begins Monday.

Almost any garment can be made over so that it will be useful to some person too poor to buy other clothing, members of the association said. Wednesday has been set aside as "gift day" for the city schools.

Pupils are being urged to bring a bundle of some sort, whether it contains clothing, newspapers or magazines. Headquarters of the association is located on Duquesne way, near Stanwix street.

"JUST SUPPOSE IT HAD BEEN EMPTY!"

An Ohio mother writes this: "I knew our bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar was getting low, but just neglected replacing it. Then one night Sonny awoke us with that dreaded croupy cough, and I fairly flew for our bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. I am thankful to say the few remaining doses relieved him and he soon rested quietly. But, just suppose that bottle had been empty!" Reliable, and for these many years a standard family cough medicine of highest merit. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

An innovation in banking procedure will start today when the bank starts a 12-hour service from depositors, being open from 9 o'clock a. m. until 9 p. m. Casimir J. Pelegrini, local architect, designed the banking rooms, which face on Seventh avenue.

William P. Ortale is president of the new bank. Harry S. Scott is vice president and Avery J. Bradford is vice president and trust officer. The secretary and treasurer is Ralph V. Hukill. The institution has trust, bond and foreign departments and a travelrs' bureau.

SEEKS LODGING IN CELL; HELD AS SLAYER

Negro Ex-Preacher Wanted In Killing, Found Asleep In North Side Station

When Acting Turnkey Sam Jones told Patrolman Joseph Scanlon in North Side Police Station that Sam Alexander, 60, a Negro, had applied for a night's lodging and been assigned to cell No. 13, it was an unlucky break for Alexander.

Scanlon looked at the lodger, who was sleeping, and decided he answered the description of James E. Millins, alleged former Baptist minister, wanted for the slaying of Bert Jones in Claysville Sunday. He told Capt. Anthony Bloch of his suspicions.

The captain went to the cell and called:

"Oh, Millins, wake up."

"What's the trouble?" asked the lodger, half awake.

State police were notified and identified the man. He was taken to Washington County to answer a charge of murder.

4 MEN, 3 WOMEN JAILED IN ROW

Four men and three women were arrested early today following a fight at Federal and Erie streets, in which a policeman was forced to use his club on two of the men, sending them to Allegheny General Hospital.

At North Side Police Station they gave their names as J. J. Bert, 21, of 7555 Hamilton avenue; B. J. McCormick, 23, and B. M. Johnson, 23, both of Cody, Wyo.; Ralph Freeman, 42, of 2802 West Liberty avenue; Grace Fey, 29, of 19 Magee street; May Daley, 30, and her sister, Naomi, 23, both of Cleveland.

Patrolman Ernest Whiteworth said that when he ordered the group to move on they became abusive and attacked him. Before being taken to the police station McCormick and Johnson were sent to the hospital where they were treated for battered heads.

Police were unable to learn the cause of the fight.

LAUNCH DRIVE AGAINST DOG MAIMERS

Autoists Hitting Animals To Be Prosecuted Unless Giving Aid; Offender Fined

Launching a determined drive to stem the hit-and-run drivers who leave injured animals on the streets, the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society today completed plans to prosecute all violators.

The most modern carbon monoxide gas chamber has been installed in the society's headquarters, Chief Agent E. M. Smith declared all drivers, after injuring an animal, should bring it to headquarters.

Chief Smith and Secretary W. F. H. Wentzel point out the state law requires all motorists to stop.

The new death chamber is the only one of its kind in the country. It is endorsed by all humane agencies. The chamber measures about three feet wide, four feet high and six feet deep. A complete automobile engine is erected on top the chamber and the gas fumes are cooled by the exhaust pipe circling through a water chamber.

NEW ROAD OPEN AT TARENTUM

The new Tarentum-Culmerville road was open to traffic today, following ceremonies yesterday which formally opened it to the residents of the county. County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock spoke at the formal opening, as did District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner and Controller Robert G. Woodside.

Representative Albert B. Davidson was toastmaster and Representative Louis W. Hagmaier also was on the speaking program. The affair began with dinner in the Black Oak Lodge, served by women of the community, after which the party adjourned to the Boyd School, where the addresses were made. E. A. Griffith, chief engineer of construction of the County Road Department, who had personal supervision of the work, also spoke.

HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Three persons, two of them children, were injured in automobile accidents yesterday and last night.

John A. Dimling, 20, of 914 Cedar avenue, a student in Carnegie Institute of Technology, was arrested on charges of reckless driving and violating the automobile laws after an automobile he was driving collided with another at Penn avenue and Lambert street, East End, police reported.

Gerald Brennen, 45, of 5741 Walnut street, driver of the other machine, suffered fractures of the skull and elbow. He was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Anna Hurray, 11, of 20 Oakwood avenue, North Avalon, suffered bruises when she was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by G. A. Johnston, of 1260 Arkansas avenue, Dormont. The girl, in Halloween costume, darted into the path of the machine in California avenue, near School street, Avalon. After being treated by a nearby physician she was taken to her home.

Girl Injured, Hold Driver in Crash

Arthur Rohm, 20, of 34 Bascom street, was held by North Side police on a reckless driving charge last night after his automobile was said to have crashed into a car parked in the 5000 block of Tripoli street, injuring Stella Dietz, 16, of 1212 Middle street. She was treated at Allegheny General Hospital.

MARIANNE by GLADYS JOHNSON

CHAPTER XVII.

VERY still—the kitchen of the old farmhouse the night the Americans had left.

The children were put to bed after dinner, but Andre sat in the big wooden chair before the fireplace. He was waiting for young Jean Michu to come and lead him back to his own lodging a quarter of a mile further down the highway. The red light flickered over his thin face—over the long form slouched down in the big chair.

Still . . . So still . . . Nothing but the snapping of the wood in the fireplace. The ticking of the tall clock in the corner.

Like a dream—sitting here so silently in this red light with Andre. Was he asleep—so motionless there? No, his breast rose in a long quiet sigh.

Tick . . . Tick . . . with a little rusty squeak at the end of each tick as the old wheels jerked rheumatically around. Strange she'd never noticed that before.

Marianne found herself hating the clock with an intense and unreasoning hatred. It had been ticking before she was born, that old clock. It would be ticking no doubt when she was dead . . . Something heartless in that. What did the old clock care if the moments it ticked off were warm and joyous with life, or filled only with this hopeless ache . . .

The dreadful silence! She had forgotten how still the nights could be when there was no outburst of rollicking song from the barn. No footsteps on the porch. Would it always be this way now? The joyous rush of life over—leaving her in this sadness and black silence . . .

"Marianne, you are crying!"

"It's so still—" she choked. "So dreadfully still—"

"You miss them—the Americans?"

"They were so—merry. Always the jest—" she could not go on.

"Yes . . . it is still. It was always still, Marianne, but once you did not mind. Now they have gone—your friends. It is their voices you miss. Their footsteps . . ."

Her voice trailed away. They sat for a long moment motionless in the flickering light.

Marianne wiped the tears away with Nanette's little rough sock. Her eyes went timidly over to Andre. His clear features—the high temples showing a tracery of blue vein—made her think of a cameo brooch her aunt had left to her. There was the head of a Greek boy on the brooch and now in Andre she recognized the same delicate nobility of line.

The man spoke and his voice was sad. "Marianne, you are young. Do you think you can stand—the stillness?"

He had instinctively turned toward her as he spoke and the firelight was reflected in his large dark eyes—those fixed and sightless eyes. Marianne's heart went out in a rush of pity. Her warm little hand lay on his.

"Such a silly question, Andre! Why—this is my home. I belong here. I will be used to it again in a few days—"

Just a few days . . . but the ache in her heart did not heal. Everything reminded her of her lost love.

Jacques more than the other children missed the Americans. Marianne discovered him in the barn, lying face down on the hay crying his heart out.

"It is M'sieur Stag—" came the boy's muffled voice when she knelt beside him. "So strong he was. He said he would teach me how the Americans prize-box. And he was going to teach me that funny instrument he sang to. Remember how he sang, Marianne?"

Did she remember! There in the barn, while cold morning light slanted in on them through the chinks, while the pigeons in the dusky rafters talked them over in scandalized cooing, Marianne hugged Jacques in her arms and joined her tears to his.

When Andre came, later that night, he spoke of marriage.

"Are you still determined, Marianne, to throw yourself away on a worthless hulk?"

"Andre! my poor Andre! you must not say that! You are fine—you are brave—"

Her hand had gone loyally to his shoulder, but the girl was white to the lips.

"I have a small income, as you know, Marianne," he went on. "It is not much—but it will help. When I come here you need not work so hard."

"I do not mind the work!" she said in a stifled voice. "The children—they grow older. They help. Oh, how they help, Andre! That little Jacques—a man he is getting to be—"

Gaily she cattered of the children. Of the way they worked about the house. Words were a wall which she was building against the reluctance in her own heart. Perhaps Andre felt it. He fell silent.

Andre came each day to the farmhouse, but he did not bring up the subject again.

He was teaching the children their lessons, his long wasted figure seated among his chattering charges. Francois was his favorite. Something about the mischievous rosy youngster which seemed to vitalize the broken man. Andre's laugh rang out frequently at Francois' naughty sallies. His long thin hand rested frequently at Francois' curly mop.

For some curious reason Marianne was glad Jacques was not his favorite. She liked to think that Jacques still remembered Stag.

Only three in the little group around Andre new. Baby Sylvestre had gone. Gone in a tense little drama he had been too young to appreciate.

On a winter day, when the world was drenched in rain, a large automobile had come splashing along the highway and stopped in the mud of the Espard courtyard.

An elderly man and woman came into the house, and at the sight of Sylvestre's chubby cheeks and black eyes the woman had burst into tears.

To the wondering girl who came forward to greet them they explained. They had frowned upon the attachment of their only son for the pretty little peasant girl of Croix in those first mad days of the war. But now their boy was gone . . . and now, infinitely precious was the child he had left. Mademoiselle who had been so kind — so tender-hearted, she would understand what this small image of their son meant to them now. . . .

Mademoiselle understood. With tears, she wrapped the small Sylvestre—most unromantically howling—in his coat. She kissed him goodby and deposited him lovingly in the lap of luxury.

Astonishing the void such a small person could leave! This "bebe" which she had lovingly tended when no one else cared . . .

It added to the chill in her heart. Was life stripping her one by one of those she loved?

She crushed back the thought. Shameful to think that, when there were three little ones left. When there was Andre—so brave—so true—

Marianne welcomed hard work. Anything to keep her from thinking. Up with each dawn . . . to bed each night, so weary that she fell into the deep dreamless sleep of exhaustion.

And nothing could still the ache in her heart. Dear remembered grey eyes . . . Did he think of her? Was he, too, knowing this heartbreak?

On a cold winter morning Jacques came running into the house crimson-checked, incoherent with excitement.

"A letter, Marianne! They gave it to me in the village— From America, Marianne—can I have the stamp? It must be from M'sieur Stag—what does he say—"

She snatched it from him, face white as death, and ran from the house. Only one place to read that letter. . . Down by the pond where he had told her that he loved her.

Stag had begun without a salutation, so that the black angular words seemed rushing hot from his heart.

"I guess you're married to Andre now and I've got no right even to be sending this to you, but I feel as if I'd go crazy if I don't send this. Sometimes I get to thinking if things don't go right for you, Marianne, you come to me. I feel just the same as I did about you. I guess I always will. Sometimes it don't seem as though I could stand it, wanting you like this. So you remember, you come to me, if you need help—"

There followed a New York address and the letter ended as abruptly as it had begun.

The girl sat for a long moment, head bowed, lips pressed hard to the crumpled page. No movement ..... only her hair blowing in the cold wind. She could hear the bare branches of the willows rustling overhead — a dreary sound.

Impossible that this was the same spot which had been green and gold in the sun. That she was the same girl who had stood, glowing and tremulous in Stag's arms.....

Impossible that she could go on with this lonely ache in her heart. Alone ..... so dreadfully alone .....

Lillian Plans to Help Madge Learn Why Dicky Visited Inn

LILLIAN made no comment whatever upon our colloquy with Phillip Veritzen until we were well upon the road to the farm and had received my employer's waved adieu as his limousine passed us and went on its way toward his hotel. Then she gave a throaty chuckle and motioned me to reduce the speed of the car.

"I've no intention of sharing the fate of the cat which died of curiosity," she said. "Tell me immediately. Where in Tophet did you see the Dicky-bird and why was he trying his wings out in this direction? I didn't say a word, even to Harry, why we were going—just told Katie to tell him we were running down to Bridgehampton Beach and would be back inside of two hours. That gave him a working idea of our whereabouts, but no disturbing information which he could pass on to the Dicky-bird. Harry wouldn't mean to spill any beans, but they hunt in couples, you know."

"That's what Dicky said to Mr. Veritzen about you and me a few minutes ago," I commented slyly.

She stared at me. I could feel her look, although I did not turn my eyes from the road before me, and then she gave a short, amused laugh.

"That's sure a gridironed one," she commented, "but it isn't keeping me from an early death. Come on, broadcast the bulletins about the Dicky-bird."

"There isn't much to tell you," I said truthfully, "but what there was proved a bit embarrassing for me. Mr. Veritzen proposed going for tea to that inn where Noel and I dined, saying sensibly that we could talk better there than in the car. When we were coming out we met Dicky coming in the door."

"Now what, by the gray hairs in Isaac's beard, was the Dicky-bird doing at that inn at that time of day?" she inquired. "Well, I suppose we'll know when we get back to the farm. Harry'll probably give me a line on it, and I'll tip you off. But I don't envy you the next few hours, old dear. Oh! I know he didn't make any scene"—as I opened my lips to protest. "He, no doubt, distanced Phil in elaborate courtesy. But that doesn't mean he isn't boiling inside and is keeping the fire hot under the kettle until he next sees you. I can see where I'm going to be needed upon this momentous occasion. Usually Me don't meddle in no family rows, but this time is going to be an exception. Don't you dare see your loving husband alone until after we've had a joint interview with him. Don't double for a startled fawn. I'm not going to have any fracas with him. I'm just going to prevent one, that's all."

"That's awfully good of you," I said weakly, much annoyed with myself for the lack of courage which made me so relieved at her announced decision. But with all the details upon my shoulders of transferring our tempestuous household from the farmhouse to the hotel, I had felt unutterably dismayed at the prospect of adding one of Dicky's tantrums to my load.

"Good to myself, you mean," she retorted. "I always did covet a lion-tamer's job, and simply love to crack the whip over the Dickey-bird's crest. But you seem to have done a pretty good job of animal-taming yourself. Phil was as meek as a lamb when you brought him back to the beach. I looked to see where the blue ribbon was tied about his neck. How did you manage it?"

"You had prepared the way," I reminded her. "You had already absolved me and told him that I was acting under orders from you and Mr. Underwood. So, having no resentment against me for barring him from the farmhouse today, I was able to convince him of the necessity of your precautions. He was most tractable."

"Yes, I imagined he would be," she drawled with a curious inflection which brought an involuntary flush to my face. Subconsciously I increased the speed of the car and we swept on toward home at such a rate that Lillian made a chuckling protest.

"Don't take it out on the car, old dear," she said. "I'm the one who needs a smacking. Honest, I didn't mean to say it. The words just popped out. But you'll have to get over being so thin-skinned. Everybody in your world knows that Phil Veritzen is half off his head about you, but, as I've told you before, if you play the game right you can manage so that he'll keep to the romantic, but safe, pastime of cherishing a hopeless heartbreak for an unattainable star."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Courteous Passenger

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly inform me through your column the courtesy application to the removal of a man's hat in both a private and a public elevator?

CONSTANT READER.

YES, ma'am, I'll be very glad to do so. The whole idea of a man removing his hat in an elevator is based on whether the elevator comes under the listing of a "social elevator" or a "business elevator." If it is a "social elevator" he removes his hat if there are ladies in the elevator, or when a lady enters the elevator. "Social" elevators are considered as rooms. If it is a business elevator, he usually does not—for a very good and sufficient reason, namely, that it is usually so crowded that it is most inconvenient for him and for everybody else if he removes it.

Elevators in apartment houses and hotels and clubs come under the title of "social" elevators, and no gentleman would think of not taking off his hat if he is in an elevator of one of this type when there are lady passengers. It just isn't done! And may I say that in my experience and observation, I have yet to see the man who did not remove his hat in the elevator of an apartment house, hotel or club.

And while we are on the subject: There is one kind of elevator for which the regulation is not so clear and definite as those that I have mentioned above. This is the elevator of a department store. Here some men do not take off their hats, and some do. I think that here reason should rule as it does in business elevators. That is, if the elevator is already so crowded that removing his hat will cause other people to be crowded, then it is sensible for the man to keep his hat on. Most men, I have observed, do take off their hats in the elevators of department stores, and indeed many gentlemen keep their hats off while they are in department stores. It is a gallant gesture. Indeed, a man has such an opportunity of showing such courtesy and respect with his hat and with the way that he uses it as a symbol of his politeness and gallantry that I should think that it would be interesting for him to study the eloquence of this detail of his costume. And punctilious gentlemen do know just how eloquent they can be with their hats.

After the Dance

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am writing to ask you a question—as I suppose you know. I have had several embarrassing situations and am asking your help. What is the proper thing to say after a dance, when the man or boy says "thank you?"

Miss H. J.

AND a good question, that is—one of those big little things that are puzzling, but that we wish just a little assurance on. And it is also of those replies in which our manner of saying the words counts so much more than the words themselves. Thanking for a dance is naturally, since it is such a frequent occurrence more or less casual in phrase, but should not be in the gracious manner in which we say the phrase. Some girls absurdly reply to this "Thank you" of their partners, "You're welcome." That is, of course, absurd, since if we analyze it, this implies that the man only enjoyed the dance, that the "queen" condescended to dance with him. This "You're welcome" is wrong, and to say nothing to reply is rude. So just a simple kind of phrase to indicate mutual enjoyment of the dance—something like "That was a delightful dance," or "That was delightful," or "I enjoyed that dance so much, Jack"—is enough, with, remember graciousness.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, November 2.

THE astral influences operating on this day may be interpreted as of rather mediocre force. Affairs may be fairly interesting and satisfying providing an inclination to petty quarrels, impetuosity and sudden moves be suppressed. Steady effort and self-restraint may dispose of all negative omens.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly even and progressive year, with much personal satisfaction, if they will subdue a tendency to impetuous and excitable action and sudden and restless moves. Self-control and resolution are enjoined.

A child born on this day may be fairly clever and personally popular, but in infancy it should have self-government and discipline instilled.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Water Essential to Baby's Good Health

MANY mothers, especially young mothers, seem to be at quite a loss what to do when the baby becomes constipated. Yet this is one of the most frequent disturbances of infants and young children, and its management should be understood.

DR. COPELAND

If the baby is a nursing baby, the symptom is likely to be due to the mother's own condition and especially to her diet. The young mother eats heartily of milk-producing foods in order to assure an abundant supply of nourishment for the child. This change from her accustomed diet may result in constipation for the mother. This in turn causes constipation in the baby. There is no doubt of the relationship.

If this is the cause of baby's trouble, the mother is called upon to rearrange her own diet. During warm weather it must include for the mother plenty of fresh milk and eggs, fresh green vegetables and fresh and stewed fruits. She should drink water abundantly between meals. A calm and even state of mind will aid the health, promote the digestion and, thus, will do much to prevent conditions which cause constipation.

From the first few weeks of its life, the baby should be given orange juice. It makes no difference whether it is a nursing or a bottle-fed baby. Begin with one teaspoonful of the strained juice, giving this amount before the first feeding each day. As the baby grows older, gradually increase the quantity until at one year of age the child is taking the juice of half an orange every day.

Bottle-fed babies suffer more from constipation than nursing babies. In such cases it is nearly always the formula which is at fault. Consult your doctor, who will modify the baby's formula.

Constipation in babies is sometimes due to the lack of sufficient drinking water. They must take an abundance of fluid to dissolve the waste products and to carry them away from the body.

Don't be afraid of giving a baby too much water. It is necessary to its health and happiness. Try giving it frequent drinks of water that has been boiled and cooled. Even colic will sometimes disappear if a little warm water is given, and many a crying baby has been made happy by a drink of water.

When the baby is old enough to hold on a commode, much can be accomplished in the way of establishing regular bowel movements by this method. Have a stated time each day, preferably just before the child's bath, for this discipline. For the first few days, suppositories of glycerine may be used to start the movement, but they should not be continued.

From the time the child begins to take cereals and other foods, usually at about eight months, his diet may include, besides orange juice, prune juice or tomato juice, or strained apple sauce. These foods will help to prevent constipation.

SEEK TO OUST POLICE CHIEF

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The police commission called for the filing of charges upon which a public hearing will be held to consider removal from office of Chief of Police James E. Davis. Simultaneously the commission voted to cite Davis to show cause why he should not be removed for incompetency, neglect of duty and malfeasance. Two commissioners were named to draw up the charges against Davis.

Demand that Davis be suspended immediately was made by John A. Quinn, president of the Los Angeles Developers' Association, who brought charges against the chief, and no action was taken.

The commission also ordered Davis to discharge four policemen whom District Attorney Buron Fitts had accused of perjury during the trial of Thomas B. Washburn, fellow officer, who was convicted of accepting a bribe for "protection" from J. B. Westman, alias Harry MacDonald, confessed bootlegger.

A fifth officer similarly accused, has resigned.

Fitts also submitted to the commission the names of other police officers whom he charged with committing perjury or intimidating witnesses in the trials of other policemen indicted as the result of Westman's confession. Some of these trials are under way in Superior Court.

The county grand jury returned perjury indictments against Detective Lieut. W. E. Evans and Detective Miles R. Ledbetter. They recently were convicted of accepting bribes from Westman, and now are awaiting sentence.

BRIDGE PLANS APPROVED

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Formal approval for the construction of five bridges across streams in various parts of Pennsylvania was given by the State Water and Power Resources Board.

Among the five were those to be built by:

Paradise Falls Lutheran Association, across Paradise Creek, in Paradise Township, Monroe County.

The board also approved incorporation of the Sipesville Water Company to supply water in Lincoln Township, Somerset County, and granted an extension of time to the Union Railroad Company to build an addition to a bridge across the Monongahela River in Duquesne.

Many Institutions Headed by Yale Men

NEW HAVEN — (INS.) — Sixty-odd higher institutions of learning in the United States have had Yale men for presidents, and Yale men were presidents at the start of Princeton, Columbia, Dartmouth, Williams, Cornell and the Universities of Georgia, Missouri, Mississippi, Wisconsin, California and Chicago, and Johns Hopkins, besides Hamilton, Kenyon, Wabash, Beloit, Tulane, and Illinois colleges. And a Yale man founded Ohio University, first to be established with a land endowment from the National government.

Such is the explanation here of the title "Mother of American Colleges," which has been given the university.

New Metal Planes For Army Corps

WASHINGTON.—(AP.)—A new type of American military observation plane, constructed of metal except for the covering of the wings and the tail surfaces, will be put into service early next year by the Army Air Corps. Heretofore wings have been mostly of wood.

Seventy of the planes, seating two men and mounting three machine guns, are being built and deliveries will begin shortly after the first of the year. The planes will be equipped with 425-horsepower engines and are designed for a top speed of 150 miles an hour.

Drouth Cuts Down Broomcorn Crop

LINDSAY, Okla.—(AP.)—A low broomcorn yield is predicted this year for Western Oklahoma, which ordinarily produces about half the nation's supply.

Buyers and growers claim the state's decreased yield is due to smaller acreage and thinness of stand, caused by lack of sufficient rain. Wheat has replaced broomcorn in many fields.

COMPENSATION RATES REVISED

HARRISBURG, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Revision of rates of workmen's compensation insurance premiums representing a decrease over all classes of 2½ per cent, or $450,000, effective Janury 1, 1930, was announced by Matthew H. Taggart, state insurance commissioner.

The new rates for the various classes are higher in some instances and lower in others than the present premiums charged by insurance carriers. The existing and new rates, respectively, by classes, are:

Quarries, $3.65, $3.60; bakeries, 85 cents, 90 cents; spinning and weaving, 43 cents, 42 cents; planing mills, $1.75, $1.65; rolling mills, $1.60, $1.50; machine shops, $1.15, $1.05; road construction, $2.20, $2.25; carpentry, $1.35, $1.35; masonry, $1.50, $1.60; concrete construction, $2.80, $3.05, and retail stores, 22 cents, 23 cents.

Farm compensation insurance, which is voluntary with the employer, was also reduced in rate from $1.55 to $1.40, and from $30 to $24 for the initial premium.

The changes were based on the relative accident hazards of the various kinds of industries, from a study of the premiums collected and compensation awards made during the last several years.

A change in the administration of the insurance department was presented by Commissioner Taggart to the state executive board today and approved. Fire insurance business hereafter will be divided into separate classes for stock and mutual companies and handling of fraternal and beneficial insurance will be combined.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

WHIPPING A SICK HORSE DOESN'T WORK

Worn Out People Need to Be Built Up, and Not Stimulated.

Men who suffer from depleted vigor and women who are cold and passive cannot get their vitality back by stimulation of the bodily processes. That is too much like whipping a sick horse. These whips to an already depleted system only leave it weaker after their use. Worn people require more than that. It is necessary to build up the entire system. The stomach must digest the food and supply to the blood the elements that make it rich in rebuilding qualities. The blood itself must be cleared of the impurities that a run down body leaves in it. The kidneys and the liver need to be stirred into gentle activity, that they may take out of the blood those impurities that are manufactured in the body all of the time. Bowels must be regulated. At least three good passages a day are necessary if one is to be well.

These things cannot be accomplished by a remedy that treats only symptoms. The originators of a valuable new medicine knew all that before they started to find something that would help build up every vital process. They searched and searched to find those ingredients that would help restore natural action, and many parts of the world were made to contribute to this new medicine, which is called World's Tonic. It is intended to be not only a regulator, but also to help restore. Different parts of the body will benefit by pure blood and a good stomach, and when to these are added the remarkable restorative qualities of this valuable World's Tonic its success can be readily understood.

You people who are weak need more strength. If your weakness is in your digestion and your bowels do not work regularly, or your kidneys or bladder do not work right, you need the strength there first, then it will go into other parts of the body. If you are lacking in pep, vim and vigor, and fail in real enjoyment, you need a builder, not a stimulant, or you will have no sparkle to the eye or no color to the face. Try World's Tonic. Its record is one of the best successes. You can obtain it of Dow's (formerly McCulloch's), also May's, and Mayflower stores, or of any other first class drug store. (B-15)

Boy Music Prodigy To Return to U. S.

BERLIN.—(AP.)—Ezra Rachlin, 12-year-old California prodigy pianist, has set out to conquer musical America.

After five years of study with one of Germany's greatest pianistic pedagogues, Prof. Moritz Mayer-Mahr, of Berlin, young Ezra believes the time has come when he can risk facing American concert critics.

He expects to make his debut in Carnegie Hall, New York, early in November.

High Heels Ruin Health of Women

BOSTON—(INS.)—"High heels are the ruin of women."

That was the contention of Dr. Brenton R. Lutz, professor of biology at Boston University's college of liberal arts.

A woman's heel are a barometer to her health, Prof. Lutz said, with high heels pointing to a fall in general condition. Anything higher than a sensible walking shoe should be ruled off the student wardrobes, he added.

Fox Farm Finds Radio Great Aid

EISENBERG.—(INS.)—At the silver fox farm in Tunschutz, near this city, the first established in Europe, small microphones have been placed in all the kennels. This enables the manager of the farm to hear any unusual noise.

The less the animals are disturbed by humans, the better they flourish, and this is especially true during the breeding period. By the use of the radio such disturbing visits are reduced to a minimum.

Infant Mortality High in New York

NEW YORK — (INS.) — An inventory of the Child Health Service of New York City, reveals that one of every 12 babies born in the borough of Manhattan dies within the first year.

Manhattan's infant mortality rate is the highest of any of the five boroughs. The Bronx has the lowest rate with one death in 20 births. Staten Island, with one in 18, Queens, with one in 17, and Brooklyn, with one in 16, completes the list.

N. Y. Firms Lease New England Mills

FALL RIVER. — (INS.) — Three New York manufacturing firms, expected to give employment to more than 500 persons, have leased portions of local mills and plan to have the plants in operation by the early part of January of next year, according to announcement here.

One of the plants will print silks and rayons, another will manufacture women's and children's dresses and nurses' uniforms, while the third will make pajamas.

BUY AMERICAN MUSTACHE CUP, SAYS DIRECTOR, BEARDS ARE COMING BACK

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 1.

Corinne Griffith

Hundreds of flick-ites plunged heavy in purchasing Famous Players stock. They bought in dizzy amounts and on margin. They figured to clean glittering fortunes when Famous merged with Warner Brothers. Many margin buyers are wiped out. Every cent of savings gone. No capital left. Only the weekly salary and the weekly salary in studio lore is as gambly a proposition as the market.

Hundreds of flick-ites purchased RKO stock. There was a "tip" going the luncheon table and other rounds that this stock would soar to a fancy figure. It forgot, along with other stocks.

There is devastating gloom on all the lots. By two and threes, groups clique and talk in low voices. Stubborn hope predominates. Hopeless reality is too frightening. Where they had thousands of dollars yesterday, they have less than a few today. It's unbelievable. But in numbers there is comfort, so groups cling together.

This bureau today heard of several directors and actors who were so wall-eyed over the financial condition that they closed their savings accounts and put the money in safety deposit vaults. They wouldn't trust the Rock if Gibraltar at this stage of the cataclysm.

But out of the tragic fog bursts Mervyn Leroy with a tip on the market which he guarantees will rectify all losses. "Buy American Mustache Cup," urges Mervyn. "Beards are coming back!"

Fox Films Trying Westerns Again

TOM MIX is gone, but his western presence still hovers on the Fox lot. For a while, after his departure from the fold, the Fox outfit abandoned Western pictures. Then they produced "In Old Arizona," a Western of sorts but blessedly different. It was a box office lulu.

Tom Mix.

That started the high moguls to cogitating. Ergo, now they have a brand new idea. They're goin' to make westerns! Shades of Tom Mix. There is some talk of lining-up a slew of Zane Grey yarns and punching them into outlouds.

George O'Brien turns open-space with a vengeance in "The Lone Star Ranger." George may make some more such. It depends. In westerns like "In Old Arizona" he'd be swell. In westerns that unreel the same old story—send for the miracle man. But keep a sharp lookout. Nature and horses will still be manna to the celluloid. After all, one can't go on forever sacrificing an evening to backstage goo-goo. Who'll give us modern westerns without tin foil trappings?

Corinne Gets Herself Sculp-ed

CORINNE GRIFFITH has had herself sculp-ed. Um. By Nancy Lee. Who has done ditto by Doug Fairbanks, Norma Talmadge, Dolores Del Rio, et al. Corinne is having a life size bust made of herself. It'll join the family possessions when Miss Lee finishes it. It'll also join the Commercial, papier machier masks that Miss Lee sponsors. Said masks of the picture folk has become a business enterprise and the product is catching on hereabouts in the guise of a new fad. We haven't had one since Lady Godiva rode the waves at Malibou.

Ruth Chatterton is saying I told you so, To Ralph Forbes. Who is her worser half. Ruth has always argued that Ralph's real histrionic forte was character ekting. Ralph didn't exactly disagree, but others did, so he juveniled to the bankroll's content. As a character villian in "Desire"—A picture not a subterfuge—he gets his break. And Ruth, after a look at the rushes, is saying: I told you so. Which is her prerogative, one might admit, if one admitted but who admits. . . .

Ralph Forbes

Regis Toomey—the "Alibi" lad—asserts that a man sings in the bath because the hard reflecting surfaces (mirrors, tubs, etc.) throw off a swell echo. That adds volume to his voice and makes him believe he's an undiscovered Caruso. Thomas Edison please write.

And—that's all.

TINY SINGER FOR NIXON STAGE

Vivian Hart, the ingenue prima donna of "The Silver Swan," coming Monday to the Nixon, has the reputation of being the smallest singer on the American stage. Miss Hart, who is but 4 feet 6 inches tall, possesses a lyric soprano voice. For the last three years she has been prima donna of several big New York productions, including "Big Boy," the Al Jolson success; Robert Milton's revival of "Patience;" the Selwyn production of "Strike Up the Band," and Arthur Hammerstein's "Good Boy."

"Little Accident," the Mitchell-Dell comedy, opens its week's engagement in the Shubert Alvin Monday night. Thomas Mitchell, playwright and actor, appears in the leading role, and he is supported by all the players who were with him in New York last season. Seats are now on sale. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

Eveta Nudsen, a recent addition to the George Sharp Company, will occupy the leading female role in next week's production in the Shubert Pitt. The play will be "Why Girls Leave Home." Harland Tucker will have the leading male role.

Anti-Trust, Banking Laws Held Futile

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Senator Frederic M. Sackett, of Kentucky, declared anti-trust, banking and transportation laws are "virtually nullified" as a result of the wealth that has poured into this country since the outbreak of the World War, at a dinner last night by the Transportation Club of Louisville. Sackett asserted the transportation act is powerless to protect the public against railroad security combines, and the Sherman anti-trust law is "nullified" through great industrial holdings companies. Chain banking he pictured as destroying the McFadden act.

as the girl who sings and laughs and dances and loves

MARIANNE

AMERICA has waited patiently for its merriest comedienne to come to the talking films and it is especially exciting news that Miss Davies makes her first audible appearance in a picture destined to take rank with the greatest that the speaking screen has yet revealed. The musical comedy romance which you are about to see, so rich in song and laughter and thrill, has its setting in France after the Armistice. The legitimate stage itself could bring no more distinguished musical offering, and the work of Miss Davies, combined with the hit songs and the gayety of the production, insure you your happiest experience in months of picture-going.

PLAN BANQUET GRIDDERS

The Kiwanis Club of Wilkinsburg held its regular weekly luncheon yesterday in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel. Reports of various committees were turned in and the usual order of business transacted.

Provisions were made to entertain the Wilkinsburg High School football team next Thursday. Coach Elmer Carroll is a member of the Kiwanis Club. The meeting also will see the nominations of officers for the ensuing year. William Dunkle is chairman of the election committee.

AVALON URGES POOL VOTE

Handbills were distributed in Avalon today, bearing signature of the swimming pool and playgrounds committee of citizens, urging a favorable vote next Tuesday on the $40,000 bond issue for a borough swimming pool.

The statement sets forth that the bond issue will entail not more than one mill additional in the current expense tax. The water will be clean and will afford marked contrast with the Ohio River, the only swimming place now available, the committee declares.

Comedienne

Marion Davies, star comedienne, comes to the Penn screen Monday in "Marianne," a romance of World War days in France. It is Miss Davies' first all-talking film.

AUTOIST KNIFED, WOMAN HELD

Police today held Irene Murphy, a Negro, of rear 19 Crawford street, who shortly after midnight slashed D. C. Feathers, 30, of 21 Second avenue, Overbrook, during a fight at Crawford and Forsythe streets. At Passavant Hospital it was said that Feathers had been cut on the neck and face and was in a serious condition.

Jack Coward, 38, who lives with Feathers, told police that he and Feathers were driving up Crawford street when Feathers became involved in an argument with an unidentified Negro. It developed into a fight, and Feathers appeared to be the winner. At this point the Murphy girl ran out of a house and slashed Feathers, he said. Coward was held by police of the Center Avenue Station as a suspicious person.

Still Is Reported Found In Home

Hazelwood police early today raided the home of Joseph Spella, 34, of 4322 Fairview boulevard. They reported confiscating a 150-gallon still, 56 barrels of mash and 65 gallons moonshine. Spella was held as a suspicious person.

Romantic

Lina Abarbanell has a prominent part in "The Silver Swan," musical romance, coming next week to the Nixon.

FILM THEATER OWNERS ELECT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The Motion Picture Theater Owners of America closed their tenth annual convention here with election of independents to most of the organization's offices and a warning to the neighborhood exhibitor that he will "drive himself from business unless he gives the public the best in pictures."

M. E. Comerford, of Scranton, Pa., a leading independent owner, described the convention as "a stabilizer for the industry." He said more motion picture finance was represented at the meeting than at all previous conventions combined, and declared the organization "determined to protect the neighborhood theater if it will cooperate by giving the public modern entertainment."

"The little independent will not be driven from business," Mr. Comerford said, "but he will drive himself from business unless he gives the public the best in pictures—talkies and silent. It is our duty to advise the little theaters that for the good of the show business, the neighborhood theater must be modern to compete with the downtown shows."

The speaker said the result of elections showed an amicable settlement of business battles between chain theater owners and independents.

M. A. Lightman, Memphis independent, was elected president, and Frank G. Walker, New York, and R. R. Beichele, of Kansas City, independents, were elected vice presidents. Jay Emanuel, Philadelphia, independent, was selected treasurer. W. C. Patterson, Atlanta, was the only chain theater representative to be named a vice president.

Comerford was among the independents elected to the board of directors.

Steel Products Tow Made Up for South

Another tow of steel products for Southern delivery is being made up now at the various plants of the Carnegie Steel Company along the banks of the Monongahela River. It is expected the tow will be taken downstream next week by the steamer City of Pittsburgh, with Capt. Cal Blazier in charge.

KDKA BEGINS 40-HOUR CELEBRATION OF 10TH YEAR

International Links Mark Anniversary Program

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun Telegraph Radio Editor.

SPECTACULAR features will be a part of the 40-hour program starting today to celebrate the beginning of the tenth year of broadcasting by KDKA, the pioneer station of the world.

Communication with three other nations by short wave will be a highlight of the celebration in the small hours of Saturday morning. Two-way contact will be established with Canada, Germany and Australia.

The pioneer radio musical organization of the world—T. J. Vastine and the Westinghouse Band—will assemble in the studio at 11:20 tonight, followed by the Red Arrow Quartet, Don Bestor's Orchestra, the Little Symphony Orchestra, and other entertainers.

Every big event has a surprise feature in it and tomorrow morning at 2:30 o'clock the announcers who are still awake will present a novelty, "Behind the Scenes at KDKA."

Music only will mark the first 24 hours of the celebration.

We Now Present

The recent drama in Wall street even affected the musical programs in radio productions. Just before a program, which is sponsored by a financial organization, went on the air in the NBC studios the other night, an order came through to eliminate one musical number. The title of the number was: "All I Ask is Sympathy."

Joe Morris of New York, Detroit, Chicago and other cities (he has no permanent home) has arrived in town to boost "Collegiate Sam" and "I'm Only Making Believe" over the local stations. Joe travels all over the country. He plays the piano like nobody's business.

BLOOEY: Francis C. Owen came to work rigged out in a brand new blue suit, blue shirt, blue tie, blue socks—all to harmonize with beautiful baby blue eyes.

Rudy Vallee's signature number, "March on Down the Field," was composed by Caleb O'Connor who studied at Yale with the popular jazz maestro.

R. P. Griffith and Marquis Chisholm spent several days recruiting the Little German Band heard over KDKA every Thursday night in the Dilworth Musicale.

TODAY'S TID BIT

A local station presented a program of recordings the other morning. Came a request from a nice old lady for "The Pagan Love Song." The announcer was sorry. He had no record of it. But instead, he would play "Moanin' Low" for the benefit of the nice old lady. And he hoped she'd be pleased with the substitute.

Tragic Life of Scot Queen.
The tragic life of Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, will be recalled.
Sorrow and unhappiness followed Mary Stuart through her life. Even her beauty was the cause of suffering, for while it aroused the sympathy of men, it incited the jealousy of women. In her eagerness for friendship, Mary trusted the wrong men. She was the center of many political and religious intrigues affecting both England and Scotland. Strife, hate and murder followed her friends and adherents. Men renounced life-long religious and political beliefs to aid her.
Up to the very day she was beheaded, groups of her loyal subjects in Scotland, England and France planned an intrigue for her safety. This sketch, based on historic fact, will be accompanied by music of the Elizabethan period.

Act Three, "Eileen."
The action of the play takes place in Ireland during the famous rebellion of 1798. In the third act, Captain Barry O'Day and Eileen Mulvaney meet for the first time and fall in love. The young lady, however, mistakes him for a groom because of the disguise he has used in evading the British soldiers. Later she discovers his real identity and all but betrays him through her great anxiety for his safety.
She and Lady Maude Estabrooke, by a clever subterfuge, mystify Colonel Lester until he appears later and takes Barry unawares; matters are straightened out and the play ends with a double wedding in the offing.

The ATWATER KENT Mfg. Company has never had any shares of its stock on the market.

It owns outright its business and its manufacturing plant.

It has been in business for more than twenty-seven increasingly profitable years, has always done business on its own capital and has never borrowed a dollar.

All its resources and experience are concentrated upon just one thing—the making and selling of fine radio instruments. Production in its thirty-two acre factory is scientifically controlled, so that Atwater Kent dealers always have enough radio on hand to meet the public demand, and are never overstocked. Its inventory is never excessive.

Single-minded devotion to its one job—the production of the finest radio that can be built—has put the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company today in the strongest position it has ever held. Strongest in the excellence of its product—Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio. Strongest in the confidence of the public. Strongest in stability, which is the keystone of permanence in any business.

A. Atwater Kent, President.

"The whole world watched the skies!"

The story of Joe Gately, chief wireless operator S. S. Pres. Roosevelt, 1928.

"This was two years ago, when Miss Amelia Earhart made her daring hop across the Atlantic! What excitement there was!—the whole world watched the skies! I was at sea then, aboard the "S. S. Roosevelt." With my Brandes headset, I traced Miss Earhart's progress and flashed the news to the world that she was half-way across and going strong! That whole day was packed full of thrills! . . . Yes sir, my Brandes headset has seen a lot of adventures since 1917, when I used it for the first time aboard the U. S. S. Massachusetts. But now, I am just as enthusiastic about the new Brandes Radio. I listened to it yesterday, and for clearness and dependability—on sea or shore—give me a Brandes all the time!"

Joe Gately

THREE ACCUSED BY GIRL HELD

"Hanging is too good for you vultures. I hope the jury gives you life."

Three young men heard these words shouted at them in Morals Court today. They had just confessed to attacking a 19-year-old girl in Lawrenceville last night. They were held for court without bail.

This is the story to which they confessed:

There were five of them, all under 21, in an auto. In Fourty-fourth street, shortly before midnight, two of them left the car, grabbed a girl, who was walking home, gagged her and forced her into the auto.

They drove to a vacant lot between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth streets.

An hour later a passing pedestrian notified police. Three of them were arrested. Two, whose names are known, escaped.

Police fired several shots at the two.

"They threatened to kill me," the girl testified, "and I was afraid they would."

The three prisoners are Adam Malicki, 19, Frank Yavorsky, 19, and Simon Thomas, 18, all of Mulberry way.

WCAE BATTLES FOR TERRITORY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Radio Stations WCAE, Pittsburgh, and WREN, Lawrence, Kan., fought before the Federal Radio Commission yesterday for the right to hold the attention of radio listeners in Youngstown and vicinity.

The hearing was on the application of the Kansas station, affiliated with the University of Kansas, for the right to increase its power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts and use the same kilocycle, 1200, which is being used by WCAE, owned by Gimbel Brothers.

Allan Machesney, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh station, as a witness, told of tests made in Youngstown, where it was learned that when both stations are now on the air simultaneously, neither with more than 1,000 watts, it is impossible to get either very clear.

With the Kansas station allowed to use five times its present power, according to Machesney, radio conditions in Youngstown and vicinity would experience intolerable interference.

The Kansas station is heard clearly in Youngstown after the Pittsburgh station shuts down, Machesney told the commission, but the Pittsburgh station is now barely able to get into that city at any time.

Machesney said Youngstown is only 60 miles from Pittsburgh and the station in the latter city believes it ought to be entitled to enter a 100-mile radius.

Conditions in Washington, Pa., also were described by Machesney, who declared that the station in that city is using a soap-box transmitter, and that it is constantly interfering either with the Pittsburgh station or with one in Wheeling.

4 DISCHARGED IN CABARET FIGHT

Their heads swathed with bandages—turban effect—B. F. McCormick, 28, and B. B. Johnston, 23, oil operators of Cody, Wyo., were discharged by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Moral's Court this morning, after the court told them that they had suffered enough with the beatings they received at a night club early this morning.

John Burt, 21, of 7555 Hamilton avenue, and his father-in-law, Ralph Freeman, 42, of 2803 West Liberty avenue, arrested with the visitors on charges of disorderly conduct, also were discharged.

It was testified that at 3:45 a. m. at the Silver Slipper Night Club, Federal street, Burt tried to reprimand the oil men when he thought an insulting remark was made against his wife when leaving the club. Burt, an ice-man, it was said, started to use his fists, when someone in the crowd struck him. The free-for-all continued on the steps and wound up on the street. The strangers were treated at a hospital.

Buyer on Margin Held Gambler By Court

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 1.—If you buy stocks on a margin, you are a gambler and have no standing in court.

This ruling was made today by Judge Thomas H. Hudson, president judge of Fayette County, in granting a motion for a compulsory non-suit in the action of Chester A. Conn, of Point Marion, against the former brokerage firm of Core & Core, of Uniontown, of $3,000.

Conn had a number of marginal transactions with Core & Core and claimed a shortage. Attorney Charles A. Tuit presented a motion for a non-suit on the grounds that gambling debts are not collectable in court and that Conn had been buying and selling with no intention of owning the stock, but merely of collecting the profits through his deals.

Attorney Anthony J. Cavalcante, counsel for Conn, claims that if the customer is a gambler, so is the broker, and he threatens criminal action against Calvin J. Core, head of the firm of Core & Core.

COURT PUTS BAN ON TRIAL NEWS

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Lubbock County newspaper, which refused to suppress testimony to be given in a habeas corpus hearing here for Clay Lester, accused of slaying his wife, today stood restrained by court order from publication of the evidence.

Two newspapers particularly, the Lubbock Morning Avalanche and the Lubbock Daily Journal, were named in the order. Editors of the publications said that they would abide by the order "as their duty to the courts and to the public, in furtherance of justice."

Judge Clark M. Mullican issued the order in District Court. His action was seen as an effort to forestall a change of venue.

Judge Mullican said that newspapers from other cities which printed the facts would be barred from Lubbock County.

Notary Gets Year For Theft of 25 Cents

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 1.—(INS.)—A year on the Indiana State Farm for embezzling 25 cents was the sentence imposed here on Walter B. Pierce, a notary public, by Judge John P. Jeffries, after Pierce entered a plea of guilty.

The 25 cents represented a driver's license fee that Pierce collected from Wilbur Murdock, a motorist, and failed to turn over to the Secretary of State.

Woman Sleep-Walker Falls Three Floors

YORK, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. William Rojahn, 48, while walking in her sleep this morning, tumbled from a third story window in the central part of the city. She was taken to the hospital in a serious condition. Mrs. Rojahn was conscious when neighbors ran to her assistance. She told them she had been dreaming.

DRAWS GUN TO DEFEND DOG

Fritz Roehler, 35, and Patrolman J. W. Keefer were standing in front of Roehler's home at 1709 Lowrie street, Troy Hill, at 2 a. m. today, engaged in idle conversation.

Keefer drew his gun and threatened to shoot the dog.

"I dare you," Roehler challenged, flashing, so Keefer said, a gun.

Keefer called other police, Roehler was arrested. In North Side Police Court today he explained:

"That dog saved my life a couple of years ago. A holdup man had me in my shop and the dog went for him. I shot and killed the man."

Roehler was discharged by Magistrate E. M. Hough.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Bud to Make Bow at Tea Tomorrow

DO you remember the story of the girl who used to dance so gaily every night that she wore out a pair of slender silppers an evening? One might well think the buds of the season do the same now that so many teas, and dances, and luncheons keep them tripping all day, and way into the morning, too.

Tomorrow another young girl will be presented to society, Harriet Webb Fickes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Fickes, of Woodland road. Harriet will make her bow at a tea her mother will give in the family home.

As her aids Mrs. Fickes will have Mrs. Safford K. Colby, of Sewickley; Mrs. Harry Cornelius, Mrs. Robert E. Withers, Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, Mrs. Edward J. Keeble, Mrs. Bennett Rodgers, and Miss Alice Ives, of Bridgeport, Conn., who is Mrs. Fickes' house guest.

Sister debutantes will be Harriet's aids. Those assisting her will be Nancy Allderdice, Marie Louise Bickford, Katherine Collin, Caroline Crittenden, Joan Diehl, Rebecca Doyle, Martha Edmondson, Laura Evans, Frances Johnston, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, Dorothy Jarvis, Frances Reed, Sylvia Robertson and Virginia Wright.

AND today Margaret Rolfe Berger, daughter of Mrs. William Arthur Berger, of Copeland street, who is one of the feted debutantes of the season, is being entertained at a buffet luncheon being given today by Mrs. Charles Howard Johnston, of Beechwood boulevard, and her daughter, Virginia Louise.

The guest of honor is wearing one of the new, much longer afternoon gowns of coral velvet with a hat of crystal. Mrs. Johnston is gowned in black velvet and lace, and Virginia Louise in beige lace and crepe. Orange chrysanthemums are being used as decorations. And there are about 60 guests, I understand.

A SMALL luncheon was given yesterday by Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl in her home for her debutante daughter, Joan Diehl. The guests were the debutantes and the mothers of debutantes who'll be Mrs. Diehl's and Joan's aids at the debut tea the Diehls will give for their daughter on November 30.

Joan was gowned in a distinctive gown of wisteria velvet, and her mother in lavender chiffon. Autumn flowers decorated the luncheon table and were used throughout the home, too.

HAVE you learned that the board of directors of the Pittsburgh Chamber Music Society will entertain at an informal tea Sunday afternoon in the French room of the Hotel Schenley, with the hours from 3:30 to 5 o'clock? During the afternoon there'll be a brief program by the Yost String Quartet. Officers of the society are Mrs. Oliver S. Hershman, Mrs. James Edward Lewis, Mrs. A. S. F. Kiester, William E. Benswanger and Dr. H. N. Malone.

DEBUTANTES succumbed to the spirit of Halloween last night when they attended a masquerade dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Norton Van Voorhis at "Red Gate Farm," their Sewickley Heights home, for two of the debutantes of the season, Mary Franklin Robinson, daughter of the William Christopher Robinsons, and Peggy Milligan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan.

Pumpkin lanterns lighted the ballroom, decorated with cornstalks and witches. The honor guests wore black satin costumes after the fashion of Felix the Cat, and the hostess appeared as a Chinese princess.

Following the dancing was a Halloween buffet supper.

THIS morning comes the news of the betrothal of a Pittsburgh son to an eastern girl. The Norman F. Eastons, of Fall River, Mass., have made known the engagement of their daughter, Doris Sherman Easton, to Edward King Thompson, son of Edward Thompson, of Wallingford street. Doris is a member of the Junior League of Fall River, I happen to know.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS EDWARD BENNIS, of Punxsutawney, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Callista Bennis, to Daniel Henry Cooney, of Menasha, Wis., son of Mrs. Elizabeth Cooney, of Wisconsin Rapids. Miss Bennis was graduated from Trinity College, Washington, and from Mt. Aloysius Academy, Cresson, Pa., and Mr. Cooney from the University of Wisconsin. No wedding date has been named.

MR. AND MRS. J. T. BAIRD, of Forest avenue, Bellevue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ethel La Dorin Baird, to Richard J. Gates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Gates, of Forest avenue, Bellevue, which took place in Wellesburg, on September 14.

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED MARTIN, of Pennsylvania avenue, Oakmont, entertained with a formal bridge party on Wednesday evening for the members of the bridal party of the Lees-Martin wedding on November 6, when Miss Dorothy Lees, daughter of Mrs. James Lees will marry their son, Alfred Cuthbert Martin.

D. A. R. DENIES BLACKLIST

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Edward G. Caughey, state chairman of publicity for the Pennsylvania Daughters of the American Revolution, now in session here, declared that there was not now, and never had been, a "blacklist" in use by this organization.

"Why should there be any such a list?" she declared. "Ours is a democratic organization, made up of lineal descendants of men and women of the Revolution. We welcome all such persons to our fold. True, we do not countenance pacifism, nor do we want any pacifist speakers addressing our gatherings.

"Our organization stands first and last for America, for reasonable preparedness and for a Navy that is on a parity with other nations. The idea of a blacklist is ridiculous."

Wilkes-Barre Next Host to Pa. D. A. R.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 31.—(AP.)—Wilkes-Barre was chosen for the 1930 convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Pittsburgh tendered an invitation for the convention to be held there in 1931. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis addressed the delegates last night.

HOSPITAL DRIVE EXTENDED

Encouraged by a total of $130,000 raised toward building a new nurses' home at the Pittsburgh Hospital, workers conducting the campaign have decided to carry on the campaign for another week, although the drive was scheduled to end this week. This action was decided upon yesterday at a report luncheon in the Rittenhouse Hotel. James F. Keenan, chairman of the campaign committee, and Sister M. Rita, superintendent of the hospital, in short talks, thanked the workers for their efforts.

Headquarters are to be maintained for several days at the location, 6126 Penn avenue, after which they will be moved to the office of J. B. Lawler, secretary-treasurer of the hospital.

Among the totals turned in yesterday were $2,060 from the staff of the hospital; $4,526 from special gifts; $2,122 from the auxiliary and $1,436 from the nurses.

Ladie's Aid Circle Arranges Concert

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church is planning for a concert to be held the night of November 14, in the Bellevue High School auditorium.

D. A. R. Will Meet Here In 1931

PITTSBURGH will be host to the Daughters of the American Revolution at their annual convention in 1931, and Wilkes-Barre in 1930, announcement was made late yesterday afternoon at the annual session of the Daughters in New Castle, which will close this afternoon.

That indorsement of the voting machine and serving on election boards would be practical patriotism was suggested by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who addressed the convention last evening.

Secretary Davis said in part:

"If any American wants this country to go on, growing in wealth and strength, he should help it to do so, if only in his own defense.

"I hope your organization will see this practical side of patriotism and give it the whole weight of your influence. We need to be constantly reminded that patriotism consists of more than loud hurrahs when the flag is flung to the breeze. No American can call himself a patriot unless he takes a part in the government of his state and his country He does not deserve to succeed under its protecting institutions. I would go so far as to say that this country of ours has no more subtle enemy than the man or woman who neglects to take sufficient interest in the country to go to the polls at every election and see that good men and women are put into office.

"At every election the cry goes up against a dishonest count. We have in our own hands the easiest way to prevent that. Why do not real patriots consent to act on election boards? I suggest that that is a very practical way for the Daughters of the American Revolution to exert their influence. The American Revolution exists to this very day, and revolves around the ballot box. The American Revolution is not over, and never will be over. It has to be fought again and again. And I know of no others so fitted to see it through as you good women who have in your veins the blood of those great men who gave of their blood and substance to see this country placed on its way."

THE Pennsylvania Federation of Temple Sisterhoods will hold its fifth biennial assembly at York, on November 3, 4 and 5, with the president, Mrs. Saul Lavine, of Pittsburgh, presiding. One of the most prominent features of the convention will be the symposium on "The Opportunities and Obligations of the Home" as seen by the adult and the youth. An address will be given at the opening session by Rabbi Louis Wolsey, of Philadelphia, and Rabbi Abba H. Silver, of Cleveland, will be the speaker at the banquet which will conclude the convention. Addresses will be delivered by Mrs. Albert J. May, a national officer, and various other prominent speakers. A number of social affairs are also planned.

Delegates from the Rodef Shalom Sisterhood, in addition to the president, are: Mrs. Chester G. Bandman, Mrs. Julius Baer, Mrs. Louis Affelder, Mrs. Frederic Johnson, Mrs. C. Chester Kaufmann, Mrs. Charles Stewart, Mrs. Adolph Klein, Mrs. Walter Bonn, Mrs. J. deS. Freund, Mrs. Samuel DeRoy and Miss Helen Rauh.

A LUNCHEON will be given in the Crafton United Presbyterian Church, Wednesday at 12 o'clock under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The committee in charge includes Mrs. James Simpson, Mrs. David Burrows, Mrs. A. J. Schutz, Mrs. W. C. Dittmar and Miss Martha Bell.

MRS. F. L. DUDGEON is giving an ancient legend of Mexico before the Woman's Club of Crafton this afternoon. Reports from the State Federation are also a feature. Mrs. C. H. Burg is announced as leader for the day and the hostesses serving with Mrs. Walter B. Evans as chairman include Mrs. Annie E. Duff, Mrs. M. J. Eakin, Mrs. E. E. Ebbert, Mrs. S. D. Ehrman and Mrs. George K. Ferrall.

THE Thursday Noon Club of Business Women will hold its annual banquet on Monday evening at the Fort Pitt Hotel. The speakers will be the Rev. Dr. C. E. MacCartney and the Rev. Dr. W. A. Jones.

Music will be furnished by Mrs. Alberta M. Baker, Miss Anne Vernon and Roy Strayer. Mrs. John A. Bell will preside.

JUDGE A. D. BRANDON, of Morals Court, and Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, president of the National Better Magazines Council, will be the speakers Wednesday at the annual luncheon of the Bellevue Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary. Mrs. Keziah Thomas, contralto, and Mrs. Bronwen James, soprano, will furnish the musical numbers.

THIS afternoon patrons and friends of the Children's Aid Society are guests at the home of Mrs. A. B. Sheets, 4303 Bigelow boulevard, at a tea. This society, a member of the Welfare Fund, is one of Pittsburgh's oldest philanthropies, dating back more than 50 years.

Officers of the society present were Mrs. Samuel W. Munnis, president; Mrs. W. I. Elkins, first vice president; Mrs. Floyd Rose, second vice president; Mrs. Samuel B. Kelly, secretary; Mrs. W. I. King, treasurer. Talks on subjects related to child care and health were given by Miss Helen V. Stephens, executive secretary of the Public Health Nursing Association, and by Miss Margaret Steele Moss, of the Bureau of Children, Welfare Department, Harrisburg.

PROBLEM OF HIGH OR MEDIUM WAISTLINE PRACTICALLY SOLVED

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—The most frequently quoted line of the season must undoubtedly be the waistline. Although there is still some rivalry between the advocates of the high and medium waist, things seem to be on a somewhat more clearly defined basis. Many women have solved the problem by wearing the waist at its natural moorings for their tailored and informal day clothes, and are subscribing to the higher line for their formal day and evening clothes. The same can be said of the skirt length, medium for day wear, and quite long for evening.

A sensible compromise that must be acceptable to women whose days are filled with activities and so demand that their clothes be comfortable and businesslike as well as good looking.

TWEED remains supreme for the tailored frock that seems to have ousted the strictly sports frock, for sports wear appears to be on the decline. By which we mean that sports clothes are rarely seen at various places and times during the day, as was the case for some time past. The mode demands formality without compromise when it comes to the correct costume. The sports frock now belongs at the tee not at tea.

Pastries Likened to Bread As a Place in the Diet

Dr. Copeland classifies them as glorified breadstuff and wonders where the prejudice against them arose. They add a fascinating touch to the meal, he says.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator From New York.

IN THE Senate barber shop is an interesting old man, about 80, I should think. He loves to be joked and the Senators never fail to have their fun with him. When asked a question, the "Bishop," as he is affectionately called, is very likely to reply: "That makes more talk!"

When it comes to the question of whether a given food is good or not, the food experts immediately fall into a discussion, pro and con. It makes more "talk."

A favorite topic of discussion is the place of pastries in the diet. "Is cake good to eat?" "Will pie cause harm?" You know the points in the dispute.

Frankly, I have never been able to understand why there is, in some quarters, such a prejudice against sweets, the desserts particularly. Study their makeup and tell me what there is in them that will do harm.

Cake is really little more than a form of bread. It is bread plus sugar.

Cookies are the same.

Pie has a crust foundation, which, if properly laid, is in itself a substantial food. The filling is of fruit, or a mixture of eggs and milk.

We say a lot—that is, we make "more talk"—about the "satiety value" of foods. There is no doubt they differ materially in this respect. Some "stick to the ribs," giving a sense of satisfaction for hours. Others appear to have little or certainly very brief effect in satisfying the appetite.

Nothing can be more disappointing than to leave the table with an unsatisfied feeling. The dessert appears to have been planned to avoid this. That last sweet morsel crowns and completes the meal.

I confess that a breakfast is almost a failure in my life unless it offers a cookie or a fried cake. This gives the same elements that toast or muffins have and, besides, it has the bit of sugar to please the palate.

The commercial bakers are making splendid pies and pastries. Their cookies, doughnuts and cakes are delicious. But, of course, the home kitchen will never cease turning out its quota of excellent baked things. And, mark my words, mankind will never lose its taste for them.

COME-HITHER whiffs of roasting chestnuts have been greeting me this last week at every corner, and I can resist no longer.

"I shall have chestnuts for Sunday dinner," I've promised myself.

And since making that promise, I've been so hungry thinking about how good chicken and chestnuts are together!

To bake the chestnuts, first remove the shells from a pint of chestnuts, and put them in a baking dish.

Cover the chestnuts with chicken stock highly seasoned with salt and cayenne and bake until soft, keeping covered until nearly done. And, of course, there should be a small quantity of stock in the pan to serve with the chestnuts.

CRANBERRY whip will make a delicious conclusion for your Sunday dinner. Just try this idea:

One-half cup cranberry pulp, a teacup of powdered sugar, ½ tablespoon lemon juice and 1 egg white.

Prepare the pulp by rubbing cooked cranberries through a sieve. Add sugar, lemon juice and unbeaten egg white. Beat until the mixture is stiff enough to hold its shape, and then top strips of sponge cake with the whip.

Take vinegar for instance—a part of every true mayonnaise—it should be cider vinegar. The vinegar used in Wright's is not only cider vinegar but it is aged three years in the wood. For which we must pay a premium of ten cents per gallon. But cider vinegar so aged imparts a flavor to Wright's Mayonnaise that never in the world could be obtained in any other way.

GOOD to the

AS the fame of the coffee of the old Maxwell House spread beyond the Cumberland, and as requests for it poured in from all parts of the country, other coffee roasters began to protest that their coffees were "just as good." Many people listened, believed and purchased. But claims cannot produce flavor, and often, a few days later, these same people would return once more to Maxwell House. Similar claims about coffee are made today. It may pay you to remember that they were first heard years ago and that rare and mellow flavor, silently outweighing such claims, has made Maxwell House the largest selling packaged coffee in the world. Buy it at your grocer's today—money back if you are not fully satisfied.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

well-fed and cheerful, and you can't do that if you keep having the same menu today, tomorrow and forever. So try these:

Baked Eggs—Six eggs, 6 tablespoons cream, 1 teaspoon salt. Break the eggs into individual dishes or into a baking dish from which the eggs can be served. Sprinkle the eggs with salt and pour the cream over them. If a large dish is used, a little more cream will be needed. The cream should cover the eggs. Set the dish in hot water and place in a moderate oven. Bake slowly until the desired degree of hardness is reached, which will take about 10 minutes.

CHOPPED FIGS blended with your favorite cereal will add flavor and new nourishment, while honey on warm rolls is a delightful climax at breakfast.

A bit of fruit is so important at breakfast. Have you ever tried grapefruit with a few bruised mint leaves? Seed the grapefruit the night before, add the mint leaves and place in the refrigerator or any cool place overnight.

Here's a fine recipe for waffles:

One cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 level teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon cornmeal, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1 cup nut meats. Then proceed as for a plain waffle.

SWEETBREAD AND BACON—Ah, there's a fine thought: Parboil a sweetread, cut in small pieces, dip in flour, egg and crumbs and arrange alternately with pieces of bacon on small skewers, having 4 pieces of sweetbread and 3 of bacon on each skewer. Fry in deep fat, drain. Arrange in a circle around scrambled eggs.

Don't forget the possibilities of left-over potatoes as a breakfast food. Shape cold mashed potatoes in small cakes and roll in flour. Butter hot omelet pan, put in cakes, brown one side, turn and brown other side. Add butter as needed to prevent burning. These cakes are especially good with sausages.

BAKED EGGS AND RICE—Mix 1 cup boiled rice and 1 cup tomato sauce and put the mixture in a baking dish. Break 6 eggs and drop each one carefully on the rice. Season with salt and pepper. Sprinkle the top with ½ cup bread crumbs and ½ cup grated cheese. Bake in a hot oven for 10 minutes.

CARAMEL CUP CUSTARD—Two eggs, ¾ teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 quart boiling milk, one cup sugar, pinch of salt, 1 teaspoon caramel syrup for each custard.

Put 1 teaspoon of the caramel sauce in the bottom of each custard cup. Set in the icebox to get thoroughly chilled. Beat the egg and sugar together, add vanilla and salt. Have ready the boiling milk, pour into the mixture of sugar and eggs, beating well, and then fill each custard cup to within ⅛ inch from the top. Place custard cups in a pan of water and bake for 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

CHEESE OMELET—One cup milk, 2 teaspoons cornmeal, ½ cup grated cheese, 2 eggs.

Scald the milk in double boiler, add the salt and cornmeal. Stir until thick, then cook for 30 minutes; add the cheese and stir until melted. Add to the beaten yolks of eggs. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Pour into greased baking dish and bake in a slow oven until firm—about 20 minutes.

CUSTARD SAUCE—One and one-half cups milk, 2 egg yolks, 3 tablespoons sugar, few grains salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Scald milk in double boiler or over hot water. Beat egg yolks, sugar and salt together until light, and pour scalded milk on them.

JEWEL SALAD—One-half envelope of gelatine, 1 cup cucumber, 1 cup canned sliced pineapple, ¼ cup cold water, ¼ cup boiling water, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ cup cold water, ¾ pineapple syrup, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, few grains of salt. Pare, chop and drain the cucumber; there should be 1 cup. Mix cucumber and pineapple, and add gelatine, which has been soaked in cold water and dissolved in boiling water, then add the remaining ingredients. Turn into individual molds, first dipped in cold water and chill. Remove from molds to nest of lettuce leaves. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

A Discovery

That Stops Clothes from Fading ... Regardless of Repeated Washings

We Washed This Blue Shirt 37 Times

With Ordinary "Laundry" Soap and Harsh "Hard" Water —Absolutely Without Perceptible Fade—This New Way

Dear Madam:—

A new, no-fade way in washing fine things has been found.

A way where you use even ordinary laundry soaps and yet hold the most delicate color fast; the most filmy of material safe from wash tub or washing machine wear.

Delicately tinted fabrics are washed many times—without noticeable fade. Expensive lingerie saved from fade and wear almost unbelievably. And results are proved before this new way goes to you.

What It Is

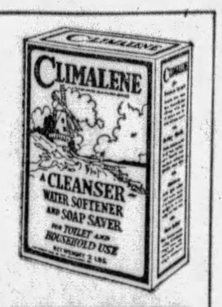
It is a preparation called Climalene. A scientific discovery that acts in two ways:

That takes the harshness out of so-called "hard" water; the hardness that makes extra rubbing and the superfluous use of strong soap necessary to get things white and clean.

That turns that harsh "hard" water INSTANTLY into water so soft that it does the work with ONE-FOURTH the amount of soap you now use.

Then, due to bland cleansing qualities in itself, Climalene DISSOLVES all dirt and grime. And thus again cuts the amount of soap you use. And cuts washing time—either on board or in washing machine—50% or more. Consider what that means in saving wear and spoil.

10¢ packages (12 oz.)



CLIMALENE

You just add two tablespoons to a tub of water. That is all. Use any kind of soap or soap flakes—the same soap you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results.

Laboratory Proved

To prove those points, we wash fine things all day long. French lingerie, for instance, we wash 40 to 50 times with this preparation and strong soap or washing flakes. Even the most delicate colors do not fade.

We wash fine colored table linens up to 80 times—WITHOUT fade. We take gold encrusted china of almost priceless value and wash with strong soap hundreds of times. And never a sign of gold worn away.

We pay $5 for fine stockings of light tint color. Then TRY to fade them with repeated washings. And only when we fail in fading them does this amazing preparation go to you.

AND—it acts actually as a BEAUTIFIER to the hands. Never before have you seen a cleanser so gentle.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it in 10c and 25c packages.

DUKES PRIMED FOR GENEVA

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Night Football's Debut. | Praised by McKechnie.
Ohio Sends Big Squad. | Hunting Season Opens.
Card Pilot Old-Timer. | Howley's Liberal Code.

ARC-LAMP GAMES MAY BE CONTINUED

WHETHER or not night football games between college teams will be continued in Pittsburgh, depends upon the success or failure of the first experiment at Forbes Field tonight, with Duquesne meeting Geneva under the moonbeams. If the arc-lamp premiere goes over in satisfactory fashion and meets with the approval of the assembled fans, and if the players find it possible to put up without difficulty a grade of football in keeping with the expectations of themselves and their coaches, there is no question that the plan will be given a further trial.

Sammy Pratt

The Dukes will have only two more games to play at home after the starlight tilt with Geneva, and one of these, that with the Haskell Indians on November 23, is certain to be played in the afternoon, both Pitt and Carnegie Tech being idle on that date. But if tonight's test is successful the other remaining home number, scheduled with Waynesburg for Thanksgiving Day, will be changed into a night performance, and the same system will be followed again in 1930.

JUDGING from the heavy advance sale, tonight's game will draw a crowd running well into five figures. What the game lost in attractiveness and importance through Geneva's defeat, 34-to-0, at Grove City's hands, has been made up by the novelty of its being played at night.

As for the football part of it, the Dukes appear likely to keep up their undefeated record. Sammy Pratt, out with an injury since the West Virginia game, will be able to play if needed at right end, though he will not start, and the local team will present its full strength otherwise.

"THERE are two problems involved in lighting a field for night football," says a man who helped to install the system at Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Cal. "The first is to have sufficient light that the players may play as good football at night as in the daytime, and the second is to light the scene so that the spectators may enjoy the game at night as much as they do by daylight. More than a year's study was given to the problem of lighting the Rose Bowl."

Duke athletic chiefs and officials of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club are confident that the installation of 13 poles 75 feet in height, each topped by three arc lamps, will prove a satisfactory arrangement at Forbes Field tonight.

Dick Larkins

SPEAKING of football novelties, the capacity crowd expected to witness the Pitt-Ohio State battle at The Stadium tomorrow may see another new feature. For if the weather is fair and the field dry the Buckeye players will wear white jerseys, in which they are said to make a striking appearance. In event of showers or a muddy field the visitors will be garbed in red jerseys. There will be 47 players in the Ohio State squad at game time, but the arrival of six of them will be delayed, as they will come over in the students' special train, leaving Columbus at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

THIS special train will carry about 1,000 students, and will also have on board the famous student band of 110 pieces, which will parade through the downtown streets and play in several of the hotel lobbies, as well as do its stuff at The Stadium.

The latest bulletins about the O. S. U. players include the announcements that Al Hess, halfback, is out for the season with a wrenched knee, suffered in the Iowa game, and that Dick Larkins, East Liverpool, O., boy, who has been putting up a great game at tackle, is nursing an injured elbow, but may be able to play here.

THE Columbus Chamber of Commerce special train, which is scheduled to leave Columbus for Pittsburgh at 11:30 o'clock tonight, will comprise 12 cars.

George Akerson, of Washington, secretary to President Hoover, will be a spectator at the game tomorrow afternoon. He will come here with a party of friends, and special seating arrangements have been made for them.

Bill McKechnie

CHARLES S. (Gabby) STREET, appointed manager of the Cardinals to succeed Bill McKechnie, and the sixth new pilot in the big show, not counting Jewel Ens, who finished the 1929 race on his present Pirate job, is a former catcher and an old-timer who knows his baseball. He started as a professional with Terre Haute in the old Central League in 1903, was with the Reds in 1904, with the Reds and Braves in 1905, with San Francisco in 1907, with the Senators from 1908 to 1911, inclusive, as the regular catcher of Walter Johnson, and with the Yankees in 1912 before drifting back to the minors. He was coach of the Cardinals this year, supplanting Jack Onslow, of Tarentum. Gabby is 46 years old.

BILL M'KECHNIE, who left the Cardinal managerial job to take a similar post with the Braves, was highly pleased over the action of the Redbird officials in naming Street to succeed him. "I certainly was glad to hear the news," said McKechnie last night in touching on the appointment.

"Street ought to be a big success on his new job," Bill added. "He knows plenty of baseball and has endeared himself to every member of the St. Louis team. I hope he has great success and I feel sure that he is the sort of fellow who will make his mark as a manager."

ONE of Street's feats in his playing days was the catching of a ball dropped from the Washington monument, a distance of 555 feet. Some credited him with being the first man to accomplish it, but it was dicovered that Popper Bill Schriver, later a Pirate backstop, had done it while a member of the Chicago Nationals, on August 29, 1894. Street's catch was not made until 1908, or 14 years afterward. Schriver and Street were the only men to succeed at the monument

17 MAY START IN $40,000 CLASSIC

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The Pimlico Futurity and its purse of $40,000 added, attracted a high-class field of juveniles today.

MAY CUT FIELD

Seventeen 2-year-olds were nominated for the classic, but there was a possibility that post time would find the field cut down to a dozen, or less.

The W. R. Coe entry of Caruso and Black Majesty was the overnight favorite with Spinach, William Zeigler's Costly Speedster close behind in the affections of the betting populace. Gifford A. Cochran's Flying Heels was not neglected nor was the Harry Payne Whitney entry of Murky Cloud and Mad Kiss.

TOP WEIGHT IS 122

The other probable starters were the Rancocas Stable's Khara; E. P. Summerfield's Scared O'Nothing; E. K. Bryson's Jimmy Morna; the W. J. Salmon entry of Sun Craig and Swinfield; F. Johnson's Brown Admiral; R. S. Clark's Galaday; W. Hogan's Red Rag; E. B. McLean's Crossbone; R. C. Winmill's Chalice, and M. L. Swartz's Quarter Deck.

SKIBOS BOOK GEORGIA TECH

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Negotiations were completed last night for games between Carnegie Tech, of Pittsburgh, and Georgia Tech, of Atlanta, in 1930 and 1931. L. W. Robert, of the Georgia Tech Athletic Board announced last night. The games will take the place of the Notre Dame contests on the Georgia Tech schedule, it was explained.

The Georgians will play Carnegie next year in Pittsburgh and the 1931 game will be played in Atlanta.

Robert said that Notre Dame and Georgia Tech had agreed to suspend their football series for two years. The game next Saturday in Atlanta will be the last until 1932.

"The agreement to suspend the series was made," he said, "to enable Notre Dame to effect revisions in its schedule for the next two years and to enable us to play Carnegie Tech, of Pittsburgh."

Harriers of Three Schools Await Race

Cross-country teams of the three leading tri-state universities meet on the Schenley Park course tomorrow morning when harriers of Pitt, West Virginia and Ohio State race. The race, which begins at 10:45, will be scored according to the Western Conference system whereby 10 runners compose a team and the first six of each team count in the scoring.

Frank L. Shea, Pitt coach, will start three extra men tomorrow morning, so that the team will be Capt. Alberts, Caesar, Mazzei, McDowell, Thiele, Schmieler, Smoyer, Stefanko, Bober and Jones. The Panthers were overwhelmed by a strong Syracuse team a week ago, but a comeback is due against the West Virginians and the Ohioans.

Pitt Frosh Oppose Kiski at Saltsburg

The University of Pittsburgh freshmen are in Saltsburg today to meet the crack Kiski eleven on the gridiron. The contest is an annual affair between the two teams and marks the final appearance of the season of Kiski in this section.

Following today's game Kiski meets the Army Freshmen in West Point and Navy Freshmen at Annapolis.

Two Governors Not to Attend Pitt Game

While original plans called for the attendance of Gov. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, and Gov. Cooper, of Ohio, at the Pitt-Ohio State game at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon, it was announced this morning by Pitt authorities that neither state executive will be at the contest.

Gov. Cooper was to be the guest of the Pennsylvania governor, but the Ohio executive was forced to cancel the invitation at the last minute. Gov. Fisher as a result will not attend tomorrow's game.

BUCKEYE SQUAD ARRIVES HERE FOR GAME

By JESS CARVER.

The arrival of the Ohio State squad this afternoon for its game with Pitt Saturday and the opening of Forbes Field to Geneva and Duquesne for the first night college football game in this city and state will signalize the inauguration of the second week-end of big time gridiron doings hereabouts.

A week ago, all were hot and bothered over the Tech-Notre Dame fracas in the Stadium; the big crowd, the arrival of Rockne, dead or alive, and the general steam-up over the annual meeting between the Scotch and the Irish. The game meant all the world to both elevens. This one tomorrow means as much to the Panthers and Buckeyes.

Ohio State's varsity party left Columbus early this a. m., and arrived at 12:15 p. m. The boys will be quartered at the P. A. A. A short workout, secret of course, is booked for the Stadium gridiron later in the day.

GENEVA, DUKES SET

The Geneva eleven is due in from Beaver Falls this afternoon and will rest in a local hotel until game time tonight. Everything is in readiness for the nocturnal tilt . . . even to the luminous gloves John Holohan has ready for the gents in the box office.

Odds on the two engagements at hand favor the local collegians in both instances. They want about 7 to 10, these Buckeye supporters, and the rating on Geneva is about the same. Geneva's stock took a flop when Grove City served the Covenanters a lacing last week, but this defeat, in my mind, simply makes the Covenanter nut all the tougher for Elmer Layden and his Dunes to crack.

I also have too much respect for Mack Flenniken's coaching ability to believe that the soft spoken southerner will permit his Covenanter laddies to be booted around twice in a row—at least as badly as they were last Saturday.

EXPECT GREAT BATTLE

It is very difficult to get local folks to view the Pitt, Ohio game in any other light than the one struck by the Fesler-Donchess end duel and the Parkinson-Holman backfield scrap. Three quarters of those who'll peek at tomorrow's game will be watching Fesler and Donchess comparing the Pitt fullback and Ohio State's clever half.

These four young men will gird themselves in all the accouterments of gridiron warfare, and should provide thrill after thrill, but that does not alter the fact that tomorrow's game is going to be one matching two well-coached, powerful and undefeated football teams.

Carnegie Tech by now is safely in St. Louis, where tomorrow the Skibos will train their guns on the fortifications erected at Washington University by Al Sharpe. The Tartans went over last night on the Spirit of St. Louis, which is a crack Pennsy choo choo and not our friend Lindy's airship.

Tech does not anticipate an extraordinarily tough ball game. Washington does and therefore, may make one for the locals.

Joe Knapik, Geneva's crack halfback, is likely to prove a true galloping ghost to the Dukes tonight. Wearing the gold and white of the Beaver Valley school Knapik figures to take on a eerie (not Erie, Pa.) appearance as he campaigns against the lances of Duquesne this evening.

Many Greensburg Fans to See Game

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—Hundreds of rooters will accompany the undefeated Greensburg High School eleven, W. P. I. A. L. football title contender, to Wilkinsburg tomorrow, where it engages Coach Elmer E. Carroll's unbeaten team.

While Carroll, who is a former Greensburg coach, is especially anxious to defeat the Brown and White, his team already has been tied by Peabody. Greensburg has been scored upon once this season, and that time by Mt. Pleasant.

LINWOOD, TYLER MEET

Manager Leberum, of the Linwood Club, and Manager Irish Tyler, of the Homewood Club, got together last evening and signed a contract to meet at Linwood Field Sunday afternoon. This meeting between the two outstanding contenders from the East End should get a large crowd.

Two Bands Tonight At Duke-Geneva Tilt

Two college bands comprising more than 102 pieces will be present at Forbes Field tonight when Duquesne University meets Geneva College in the city's first night football game. The large bands will march out on the field at 8 o'clock, 15 minutes before game time. LOCAL TENNIS CONFAB SET FOR MONDAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Distinct sign of the revival of local racquet interest that characterized the past season here is noted in the announcement from Pittsburgh Tennis Association headquarters that an autumn meeting of the district net body will be held at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Captains of teams in the P. T. A. League and officials of clubs affiliated with the loop will sit in at the conclave, at which events of the past campaign and plans for the next will be aired and discussed.

NEED MORE TOURINGS

The fall gathering is a new departure for the P. T. A., the association having for the last decade or more been content to jam all business into its spring pow-wow. This latter plan has been pretty definitely proved ineffective and it is hoped that the addition of one or more meets will result in the enlistment of fresh blood into the ranks of Steel City court backers and ultimately in the framing of a more interesting and pretentious program of Western Pennsylvania competition during the summer months.

The dropping away of the Pittsburgh Public Parks, the Uniontown, Bedford Springs, Wheeling, Beaver Falls and Cumberland tournaments since 1926 has caused serious letdown in tennis activity in this section of the country. If the game is to develop as it should—if it is even to regain the place that it occupied here before the war—more tourney play is absolutely requisite.

CITY PLAY NEEDED

It is upon this problem that P. T. A. representatives will concentrate Monday night and small surprise will be occasioned if the congress should wind up with decision to introduce a Pittsburgh City tournament and to revive the old Allegheny County championships in 1930. Club invitation jousts will also be recommended and there is possibility that either an open or an invitation grass court titular tussle will be strongly urged.

ARMY CENSURED BY BRITTEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Hope may be dim, but attempts will be continued to bring about a resumption of the annual Army-Navy football clash.

Discussing the failure of the conference between the superintendents of the military and naval academies to effect an athletic reconciliation, Secretary Good said yesterday he would continue his efforts in that direction, although he did not know whether they would take the form of conferences with Secretary Adams.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill, Chairman Britten, of the House Naval Affairs Committee, censured the position taken by the West Point authorities of not changing their rules of athletic eligibility of not adhering to the three-year rule of participation, and expressed hope that the government officials "would direct West Point to get together with Annapolis and reach a compromise on the regulations for the participation of athletes."

He added that under the present rules the Naval Academy was "handicapped" in its athletic contests with West Point.

Representative Britten epitomized the situation as showing "the stubbornness of the Army mule."

The position of Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the Military Academy in maintaining the previous conditions of eligibility was characterized by the House Naval Committee head as "showing that West Point is afraid to meet Annapolis unless given a favorable handicap." Britten said that, if West Point maintained its present position, it would mean there would be no winter or spring sports competition between the two academies.

Secretary Good supported the position of the Military Academy on eligibility. He said that one avenue remained open, in the decision of the Naval Academy on the latest proposal of West Point for a resumption of contests under the same rules of eligibility as existed two years ago, at the time athletic relations between the two academies were severed.

Reiselt Holds Lead Over Welker Cochran

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Otto Reiselt, former world three-cushion billiards champion, had a slight lead on points over Welker Cochran, of Hollywood, at the end of the seventh and eighth blocks of their 12-block match last night. Each had won four blocks, but Reiselt led in total points, 400 to 396.

HUNTING devotees will now have their annual innings in Pennsylvania. The open season for small game—wild turkeys, male pheasants, quail, squirrels, rabbits, hares and raccoon—opened in this state this morning. Woodcock and snipe have been "in" since October 15. The wild turkey and male pheasant season will close November 15, and November 30 is the limit for the legal shooting of quail, squirrels, rabbits and hares. The raccoon season will run until January 15. Ruffed grouse and Hungarian partridges are protected everywhere in the state this season.

Sidney Weil

SIDNEY WEIL, new owner and president of the Cincinnati baseball club, says he has given Manager Dan Howley free rein to run the team as he pleases, and Howley is frank in announcing a rather liberal policy. "I don't believe in plastering fines on the boys or locking them in a room," says Dan. "Let them skip over the dew occasionally, and they'll play that much harder in an important series."

Hawley likes the deals he has made. "I wouldn't sell Heilman back for what we paid for him plus $50,000, and the same goes for Meusel," he declares. "I haven't finished yet. I'm going to try to do some more buying or trading." President Weil intimates that the Peoria club of the Three-I League will no longer be a Red farm, and that the hook-up will be shifted to another club, perhaps Fort Worth in the Texas League.

RANDALL BOXES MAJESKE IN MOOSE RING

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

Boxing faces a new sort of competition here tonight, when Promoter Francis Flynn's weekly Moose Temple show is asked to vie with Duquesne University's first night football game at Forbes Field for patronage. Flynn is keenly optimistic about his chances of drawing a crowd in the face of the new-fangled counter attraction.

Joe Randall

Tiger Joe Randall, popular Negro welterweight knockout star, of Elizabeth, Pa., is Flynn's ace card, pitted against Walter Majeske, of Wilkinsburg, and formerly of Saginaw, Mich., in the 10-round main bout. The Tiger hasn't boxed at the Moose Club since last season and ought to prove quite a "draw" at that.

Frank Monroe, of Fair Haven, and Walter Ketchel, of Detroit, are the semi-finalists. In the two preliminaries, Cowboy DeLuca, of Lawrenceville, will oppose Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, and Joe Pace, of the North Side, will meet Jimmy Thomas, of the Hill.

Jack McVey, Negro star, of New York, boxes Osk Till, of Rochester, N. Y., in the main bout of a card of six-rounders in Cleveland tonight. Frankie Chatterton and Ray Van Hook are in the semi-final. Art DeChamplaine, formerly of Johnstown, opposes Vic Burrone for 10 rounds in New York.

BERNARD TOPS HERRERA

Roger Bernard, of Flint, Mich., who boxes Phil Goldstein, of the Hill, in the 10-round windup in Motor Square Garden, next Monday night, gives promise of taking the place of Tony Herrera in the hearts of the local fans. The French-Italian youngster who recently defeated Tony at Flint, added Russell Bradford, of Pontiac, Mich., to his list of victims on Wednesday night, while Herrera was dropping a decision to Jackie Pilkington, subbing for Sid Terris, at Chicago. Bernard, who has been boxing less than three years, boasts an unusual record. He has had 63 professional fights, all but nine of which have been windups, claims he never has been defeated, has only four draws in his record and has compiled a list of 38 knockout triumphs. He has beaten each of the Perlick Twins three times and has stopped Herman Perlick in five rounds. He also holds victories over Sailor Dumbrowski, Joe Paglina, Tommy White, Jackie Nichols, Benny Ray and other good ones.

Romeo Pacelli, of New Castle who subbed for Chet Smallwood, of Akron, against Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, and got a draw out of the bout at Motor Square Garden last Monday night, has been taken off the card at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night, Young Corsey, of Canton, O., being signed to take his place against Martin Mazeo, of Cleveland, in the six-round semi-final to the Johnny Burns-Henry Firpo battle.

AMATEUR SHOW CARDED

A card of seven battles, bringing together the cream of the local amateur talent, is being arranged for the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C.'s indoor show in St. Andrew's Lyceum Hall, North Side, next Wednesday night.

There will be no professional boxing show at McKeesport next week, the West Penn amateur championships holding forth in the Palisades roller rink on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Mickey Fedor, of Canton, O., and Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, have been matched to box the windup of the Armistice Day night show at the Coliseum in Washington, Pa. Fedor knocked out Lee Sala, of Donora, in the Coliseum last Monday night and the following night Solmen stopped Johnny Plai, of Greenville, in one round at Alliance Ohio.

JOEY DALEY DEAD

Joey Daley, former lightweight boxer, of McKees Rocks, died at his home in Columbus, O., last Monday and will be buried from St. Francis-de-Sales Church in McKees Rocks tomorrow morning. The body may be viewed at the home of his brother, Andrew B. Daley, 3221 West Carson street, today. Daley, who was 35, boxed around here about 15 years ago, meeting Young Henny, Young Goldie, Bryan Downey and others. In recent years he had been living in Columbus, where he had been employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad as coach and trainer of athletic teams. During the war, he served at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Cuban Bobby Brown, Negro middleweight boxer, who fought Maxie Rosenbloom at Motor Square Garden last winter and has met many of the other topnotchers, died from pneumonia in Philadelphia last Tuesday. His last bout was fought at Newark, N. J., two weeks ago.

Bucknell Offered Post-Season Game

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—Offers from a prominent western university for a post-season game have been received by Bucknell officials, it was reported here today. Prof. B. W. Griffith, graduate manager of athletics, verified the report, but would not state the identity of the college, nor whether the negotiations had been completed. All he would say was that the athletic committee has the matter under consideration.

Griffith and Coach Carl Snavely indicated that the 10-game Bucknell schedule is about all the Bisons can manage this fall, but they were considering the December game largely because of the prominence of their suggested opponents and because of the value to the public of such a football attraction.

5,000 Butler County Hunters Get Started

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 1.—Approximately 5,000 hunters in Butler County shouldered their trusty guns and started out at the first gray streaks of dawn this morning in quest of rabbits, squirrel and pheasants.

County Treasurer George Smith today announced that approximately 7,000 licenses have been issued and that yesterday reached the peak, with more than 500 making application.

The number this year, in the comparison with that of last season, is better by 1,000. With 65 per cent of the land in Butler County posted, hunters are expected to have difficulty in finding secluded spots.

Trouble-Making Set to W. Va. By D. & E.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1.—"West Virginia athletic officials were not content with releasing their news story telling the world the reason for the football severance with Davis and Elkins College, but they also mailed a copy of the long news release of Thursday p. m. to the director of athletics of John Carroll University, in the belief that trouble might be started between Davis and Elkins and Carroll, institutions which are now in their third year of friendly relationship," Director Jennings Randolph, of D. & E., declared here last night.

"I have in my possession the long mail news story which was sent to Carroll, with its red pencil marking of personal in the corner," further stated Randolph, who let it be known that this act was meant to stir up trouble for the Senators with today's opponent, which they failed to do. "It may be the old story of the so-called little fellow facing the giant, but Davis and Elkins is unafraid and asks no favors; for we know that the people of West Virginia will judge the facts in their true light," he concluded.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Robert Crosland, of Charlotte, defending titleholder, and Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., won their way to the final of the mid-South tennis tourney yesterday.

Crosland got off to a slow start against Grady Frank, Duke University player, and dropped the first set, 2-6, but came back to take the next three by scores of 6-1, 6-2, 6-3. Hines, a University of North Carolina freshman, outlasted Herbert Vail, Glencove, L. I., veteran, to win, 7-9, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

Mrs. J. C. Butner, of Fort Bragg, the defending champion, will meet Miss Louise Gunning, of Philadelphia, in the women's singles final. Mrs. Butner drubbed Miss Ann Lacy, of Pinehurst, 6-2, 6-1, and Mrs. Verner Z. Reed, of Brookville, L. I., 6-0, 6-2, to enter the final. JEANNETTE-LEWIS TILT ORDERED REPLAYED

W. PA. SOCCER BODY'S RULING CRITICIZED

By TOM BIRKS

At a meeting of the cup committee of the West Penn Football Association held last evening, the first-round game between Jeannette and Lewis F. C. was ordered replayed at Blawnox Sunday.

This most peculiar decision of the committee might stump soccerites locally and have thousands of fans asking, "How can a cup committee penalize a team for a referee's mistake?"

The Lewis club protested the game, which was won by Jeannette, 2 goals to 1, when Referee Brannigan ordered Player Henry Monstrolo off the field and then reconsidered his decision and let the player stay, feeling that whatever Monstrolo had done did not warrant that extreme penalty. That the local committee thought of rule 19 cannot be stated which says a protest must be lodged on the field of play within the presence of both captains.

KNEW NOTHING OF PROTEST

Mario Monstrolo, who represented the Rubbertown Club, said he knew nothing of the protest until advised through the mails, and intends to protest the decision. Brannigan took a milk-and-water attitude by not enforcing Monstrolo's leaving the field after ordering him off, and allowing a situation to arise that could have been avoided. And then, after Brannigan had reconsidered the case, the local committee never should have heard the protest, feeling that the referee was the best judge of conditions. It seems as if the Referees' Association should step in and act, and President O'Conner should act quickly. Meanwhile it seems as if Jeannette is the goat.

The big games this week will again find the cup ties occupying the limelight in the district. On Saturday the Pierpoint Motors—Glendale National cup session will appeal to the fans. Glendale is getting into the limelight with lots of publicity since the Heidelberg game, and unless the National committee acts upon Manager Balsarini's letter by this evening, the game will be played.

Glendale's sensational showing against the National champions gives them a good rating before the fans, and there is a chance that soccerites will see an interesting game.

DOUGLAS-HEIDELBERG PLAY

On Sunday the game that stacks up as the best of the season will probably be on tap when Frank Mincher takes the Clan Douglas team to Heidelberg to meet the Green and Gold. Douglas looks like the outstanding team of the year. Plenty of good goal-getters are on the Black and White, while some wonderful defensive talent is around.

The wolves down East favorable to Nathan Agar are again crying that the National body is throwing the hooks into the owner of the Brooklyn Wanderers. Agar was the die-hard of the outlawed association and when his team took the field last Saturday four minutes before game time came the news that four of its star players had been suspended for infractions on the other side. The quartet had been members of the Hakoah team, organized by the Brooklyn owner, and when the suspension came along Agar's friends certainly had plenty to say. But it is a sure fact that President Armstrong Patterson is not playing politics, and the whole National body is rather glad that the fight is over.

Little Washington tomorrow. This contest is the first between the two schools to be staged on Wash-Jeff's home lot, and is the twelfth of the series.

The Prexys expect to have Captain Jap Douds in the starting lineup. Jap's leg injury having evidenced the right sort of collegiate spirit, apparently mending in fine shape.

You can have your choice of Penn State and Syracuse as they tangle at Syracuse tomorrow. Neither has shown anything worthy of writing home to Pop about. Personal . . . Penn State.

Cam Henderson and his Scarlet Hurricane, of Davis Elkins, hurricaned through here early this a. m. en route to Cleveland, where tomorrow they'll try to teach John Carroll a football lesson.

They tried last year and wound up dizzy.

There isn't much to choose between Princeton and Chicago. Chicago ought to make it tough for the Tigers, so far from their New Jersey lair.

Florida's Alligaitors will waddle into the Harvard stadium for a tussle with the Crimson in another intersectional affair. Bet on Harvard and sleep in the streets.

Detroit to Get Cue Title Tourney

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Detroit has been selected tentatively for the 1929 world pocket billiard championship and the official list of contestants announced.

The players, who will attempt to dethrone the defending champion, Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., are: Ralph Greenleaf, New York, and Erwin Rudolph, Chicago, former champions; Pasquale Natalie, Chicago; Orofrio Lauri, Brooklyn, winner of the eastern sectional tourney; Spencer Livsey, Los Angeles, western sectional winner; Joseph McCann, Jacksonville, Fla., southern sectional champion, and Marcel Camp, Detroit, northwestern sectional champion. Taberski, Greenleaf, Rudolph and Natalie automatically qualified by their showing in last year's event.

Slippery Rock Set for Indiana

SLIPPERY ROCK, Nov. 1.—The State Teachers College at Slippery Rock is planning for a big day tomorrow when it meets the team from Indiana at Slippery Rock. This will be parents' day at Slippery Rock, and a record attendance is expected.

Indiana has won four games and lost one, being defeated by Waynesburg College. This game practically will determine the Western Pennsylvania State Teachers College championship and will have a bearing upon the state championship.

Coach Miller has developed strong teams at Indiana during his brief stay, and Coach Thompson has been working his men hard this week to overcome any weaknesses which showed up in last week's game.

LESSONS IN FOOTBALL

Answered by

Football Coach, University of Wisconsin.

Interference for an end run seems to me to be an individual type for definite assignments. Two men on the end, two on the tackle, one on the opposing guard, one interference leader assigned to the first defensive back coming in with a second lineman coming from the far side of the center as a free interferer.

The diagram shows quarterback and fullback on the end, end and halfback on the opposing tackle, tackle alone on the opposing strong side guard with the interference leader a guard picking off the opposing fullback; and the weak side tackle coming around as a free interferer.

HOWLEY STARTS REBUILDING REDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Dan Howley, new boss of the Reds, strikes the keynote for Cincinnati fans when he moves towards getting a better punch in the Rhineland outfit, but so far Dan appears to have bolstered a department that has shown quite a lot of punch.

The likeable Howley may be able to us both Harry Heilmann and Bob Meusel regularly in his better power plan, but at this writing it is a bit difficult to see what will be the solution of the future of players like Ethan Allen, Curt Walker, George Kelly and Evar Swanson.

ALLEN, WALKER GOOD

Presuming that Heilmann and Meusel will be used in the outfield, it stands that either Allen or Walker would have to leave the lineup and there you have two "sweet" performers. The tall centerfielder is one of the sport's shiftiest players and he has a punch at the plate. Walter is one of the prettiest southpaw batters in the league and one that gets a lot of distance in his wallops.

Swanson is a problem. The flying Swede didn't show such a big punch as was expected and he is not a great outfielder. He would score many more tallies if he were running in front of a better offensive, for the lad surely can carry the mail. He is a good leadoff man for anybody's team.

Howley may be figuring on getting Heilmann into action at first base, but Harry is hardly as good around the bag as is George Kelly. He probably will outhit George, but he may find the curve-ball pitching of the National League a barrier to his bat.

MEUSEL DOUBTFUL

Meusel also is doubtful as a slugger in the National after all his years in the other major circuit. Bob will find the pitching different; perhaps he will be able to overcome it, although the star right-handers of the Heydler circuit made the roads tough for Bob in a couple of world series tests.

Howley probably will learn that it is the infield that demands a better wallop. There is no better defensive pair in the game than Hughey Critz and Horace Ford, but neither is a hard hitter and the players at the other points have not been batting in such a manner as to hold up the lighter swingers around the keystone bag.

Fayette County Nimrods in Fields

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 1.—More than 70,000 rabbits in Fayette County are running for their lives. Thousands of hunters opened fire on the rabbit family yesterday and will keep blazing away for a month. Ten thousand hunters have been licensed to hunt in Fayette County.

'Brer Rabbit has multiplied greatly in Fayette County this year, and it is estimated that in the county are between 65,000 and 75,000 rabbits in this district, and that the majority of them will be killed by the 10,000 to 11,000 hunters.

JONES FAVORS PITT IN GAME WITH O. S. U.

By CAPT. BIFF JONES,
Head Football Coach, United States Military Academy.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 1.—On the Pacific Coast the only game of any caliber will be California at Southern California. Southern California not only has one of the strongest teams on the coast, but of the entire country. It looks to have a decided advantage in this game.

In the Western Conference, all members are engaged except Michigan and Iowa. These two are taking a breathing spell in preparation for Harvard and Minnesota, respectively.

Chicago and Ohio State meet outsiders. Chicago goes East to meet Princeton. A wobbly Princeton team with much latent strength is due to come to life. Chicago has one of its best teams of recent years. However, they hardly have strength enough to trim Princeton.

FAVORS PITT

Ohio State is in for an afternoon full of trouble. You cannot name many better teams than Pitt this year. Pitt should win by several touchdowns. Pitt's performance has fulfilled the pre-season expectations.

Wisconsin-Purdue should be a close win for Wisconsin. Purdue, adept at the open game, will fall before Wisconsin's power tactics.

Minnesota will experience little trouble with Indiana. The latter may connect on a trick pass or so, but Minnesota tactics do not permit the other fellow to keep the ball for much of the afternoon.

Northwestern-Illinois appears to be the best Conference battle of the day. Northwestern, well coached and ready to shoot the works, will give opposition as long as she can. However, with their roster so depleted by ineligibles and injuries a collapse appears inevitable. Illinois has the edge.

Marquette goes to Detroit. The latter has one of the greatest backs of the year in Floyd Brazil. He and his team mates should win by two touchdowns.

In the Big Six, Nebraska will experience no difficulty with Kansas. Missouri is expected to find some opposition from Kansas Aggies, but should win. Iowa State should repeat their victory of last year over Oklahoma.

HEADS PROGRAM

In the East, the game of the day will be Yale-Dartmouth. In all their years of competition, Dartmouth has never defeated Yale. Dartmouth has been going along at a swift rate. The Yale attack has been spotty. I think Yale will lose to the greatest Dartmouth team in many years. I do not believe that Booth, admittedly as great as any back of recent years, will be able to outscore Dartmouth.

Cornell-Columbia, at Ithaca, should prove more interesting than their last meeting. Each boasts a better team than last year. Columbia should win by a touchdown. Florida comes to Harvard. The former has a fast, shifty team, but hardly packs the stuff to defeat a November Harvard team. Florida's victory over Georgia was decisive while Harvard was badly beaten in their last quarter against Dartmouth. Even so, I pick Florida to win.

Penn and Navy resume their long rivalry. Penn has not shown her strength yet. Navy has been playing inconsistently in her early games. I figure this to be a close, hard game, with Navy having slightly the better of it.

N. Y. U. SHOULD WIN

New York City will be the site of the Georgetown-N. Y. U., game. Georgetown last year scored on a N. Y. U fumble, and gave them a surprise set-back. N. Y. U. will even matters up by taking this one.

Syracuse has a slight edge on its old rival, Penn State.

Notre Dame goes far afield to again take on Georgia Tech. Georgia Tech is not expected to duplicate their win of last year. Tech has lost a lot of last year's team, and is without suitable replacements. Notre Dame on the other hand is near the top of the national heap this year. The South Bend team has shown no ill effects of its heavy schedule so far, and should win this one.

In the Southern Conference, Vanderbilt-Alabama appears to be the game of the day. The latter, in spite of its defeat at the hands of Tennessee, should win by a touchdown.

Tennessee-Auburn should be an easy win for the former.

Waynesburg Off For Grove City Tilt

Following the final workout yesterday it was stated that Milton Decker, 'varsity guard, who was injured in the Bethany game last Saturday, would not likely be able to start against Grove City.

Fairmont Normal Tops Shepherdstown

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Fairmont State Normal scored its first victory of the season yesterday, defeating Shepherdstown Normal 6 to 0. It was the first time Fairmont had scored this season.

Hess scored the touchdown on an off-tackle play in the third period, driving through from the 20-yard line. Fairmont threatened twice in the final period, but each time lost the ball within the 15-yard zone.

BELLEFONTE AT PENN

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Nov. 1.—The Bellefonte Academy football team will invade Philadelphia at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to play the Penn yearlings as a prelude to the Penn-Navy game. Coach Karl Bohren took along 20 men, so as to assure a sufficient number of players to withstand any kind of an onslaught.

ODDS AFTER GAME

The Glassport Odds are looking for a game at home tomorrow with a first-class attraction. Teams wishing this game should call Manager Roy Quinn at Glassport 81 during the day, or call 296-R in the evening.

MAYOR REFUTES CARD EXCUSE

AVON PARK, Fla., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Mayor C. S. Donaldson, of Avon Park, in a statement, said the "sole reason" the St. Louis Cardinals decided not to return here for their spring training was because of "our refusal to give them an excessive guarantee."

The mayor said the announcement made by the St. Louis club that the change was prompted "because of poor hotel conditions and a poor playing field" was unfounded, and added that the city had five excellent hotels, three of which attracted a wealthy tourist trade.

Two of the latter, the mayor said, were agreeable to "cutting their rates almost in half" to accommodate the Cardinals.

ROCKNE SENDS APOLOGY

ATALNTA, Ga., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Explanation of an apparent violation of a football scouting pact between Georgia Tech and Notre Dame was made yesterday in a telegram from Knute Rockne, coach of the South Bend Ramblers, to W. A. Alexander, gridiron mentor of the Yellow Jackets.

The telegram was in the form of an apology from Notre Dame for having a scout present last Saturday at the Tech-Tulane game in New Orleans. Rockne said confusion caused by his illness had resulted in the scout's being sent to New Orleans by mistake, and he assured Alexander that the information gathered there was not used in preparing for the game here tomorrow.

Ball Players Take to Sea in Off Season

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Sailoring has become the job of two professional baseball players in their off season. Ray Dobens, pitcher of the Boston Red Sox, and Con Hurley, outfielder, formerly with Toledo, of the American Association, and now slated to go South with the Senators next spring, today were "ordinaries" on the liner President Garfield on a cruise around the world.

They will hit 22 ports, including Singapore, on Christmas Day, and will be back February 1, in time for the Southern jaunt.

HORTON SMITH SHOOTS 67

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., pro, dazzled the gallery in the first day's play of the annual Oregon open golf tournament here yesterday by shooting the 18-holes on the Columbia Country Club course in 67, five under par, to lead a field of Nationally famous players.

Walter Hagen took a 71 and Lighthorse Harry Cooper scored a par 72. Craig Wood, of New Jersey, Oklahoma open champion, shot a 70. Mortie Dutra, of Tacoma, and Ed Dudley, of Delaware, each shot a 69.

Other scores were: Tommy Armour, Detroit, 71; Neil Christian, Portland, 71; Willard Hutchinson, Chicago, 73; Wwyn Bowen, Oswego, 79; Rudie Wilhelm, Portland, 76.

SOUTH HILLS, OLIVER MEET TODAY

Headed by the South Hills-Oliver battle in Section II, the City League football race enters the home stretch with contests booked in both divisions today. One game is listed for Section I and a pair in Section II. Langley, another second section team, plays Crafton in a Non-League encounter.

ALLEGHENY AT CARRICK

The South Hills-Oliver mixup braces the card, otherwise a weak one. Both elevens are contenders for the title in their section. On the basis of the form exhibited so far, the game looms as a toss up. Oliver, playing at home, may be established a slight favorite by game time.

Allegheny pays a visit to Carrick, there to tangle with Ted Lyons' strong Hilltoppers. Carrick rules a favorite in the game, but will not have an easy time with the North Side eleven.

SOUTH MEETS SCHENLEY

In Section I, Coach Washabaugh's South High team will attempt to give Walter Gross' Schenley title contending team an argument. Schenley had some of the wind taken out of its sails last week when Peabody played it to a scoreless tie. The Grossmen will be out to make it tough for South today.

Tomorrow, Westinghouse, defending City League champs, go to Rochester for a game with the high school eleven of that place. Rochester is a strong favorite to win the title in the Beaver Valley district, and should give Westinghouse a tough game.

O. S. U. IN HARD FINAL DRILL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 1.—Freshman gridders at Ohio State University yesterday were once again trotted onto the varsity practice field while Sam Willaman's regulars pranced through a stiff defensive drill in the last home workout prior to the Pitt game tomorrow. There was an intermittent rain, but it didn't bother the gridders much.

The yearlings using Panther plays again, seemed to encounter some difficulty in piercing the varsity forward wall which added quite a bit of confidence to the regulars for the important fray. It was after dark when the boys went to the showers.

Two, and possibly three, changes may be made in the Buckeye starting lineup from the team which began the season for Ohio. Bill Nesser is practically certain to begin hostilities in place of Horn at right halfback. In the line Joe Ujhelyi is not in the best of shape and Fatso Griffith will likely get the call at right guard. Dick Larkins has failed to round into shape, his trick knee still offering trouble and Bob Haubrick, Larkins understudy all season will start. It was intimated by Coach Willaman last night.

A huge pep rally was accorded the Buckeyes at the entrance to the campus last night and more than 5,000 students turned out. Several of the players made impromptu speeches as did the three coaches, Willaman, Miller and Hauser.

Yale Makes Annual Report on Finances

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—While the amount of revenue from football at Yale is not mentioned in the annual report issued last night by George Parmly-day, treasurer of the athletic association, the indications are that the figure went over the $1,000,000 mark again.

In two previous years the gross revenues in sports exceeded $1,000,000. For the year ending June 30, 1928, the gross sports figure was $1,119,280, out of which was paid $3[illegible],[illegible] to visiting teams, which left gross revenues from sports of $7[illegible],[illegible]70. This compares with a gross net of $753,230.75 in the 1929 report after payments to visiting teams.

A year ago an itemized statement was issued showing the revenues and expenses in the 17 departments of sports. Such a statement was not made last night and the estimated football item is obtained only by reference to figures in the 1928 report. In that report football was shown to have brought in $1,033,211.98 gross, and all other sports $96,068.12.

Daytona Beach Auto Speed Tests March 1

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The American Automobile Association, in a bulletin released today, announced that dates for the international automobile speed classic at Daytona Beach, Fla., have been set for March 1 to 15 next, and that Kaye Don, well known British driver, definitely has entered a powerful machine with which he hopes to shatter the present record of 231 miles an hour.

The bulletin also stated that Capt. Malcolm Campbell, of England, who established a record of 207 miles an hour at Daytona Beach in 1928 with his Blue Bird Special, contemplates fitting one of the latest Napier-Schneider Cup engines into his machine and intimates that he may make another attempt to regain the world speed record.

Hickey Says A. A. Season Will Be Cut

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The 1930 baseball season of the American Association will be reduced from 168 to 154 games, President Thomas J. Hickey said today in issuing a call for the annual meeting of the club owners for Chicago, November 25. A majority of the club owners favor a shorter season due to heavy losses in bad weather.

BROWNS TO BE SOLD, SAID

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The Toronto Star says A. D. Bell, passenger traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, is negotiating with Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis American League Baseball Club, for purchase of the Browns at a price of $2,750,000. The matter will be discussed on the hunting grounds of Northern Ontario where Bell, Ball and others will be guests at the home of Edward Bridges, of MaGregor Bay.

Every fall for the last two years Bell has been bringing a private railroad coach full of St. Louis millionaires to the province to hunt. When interviewed aboard his private car he revealed he had made an offer to Ball, mentioning the $2,750,000 figure. There is a difference of $200,000 yet to be settled, he said. He expressed hope of reaching an agreement with the present owner of the Browns before the trip is over.

DENY RUMOR AT ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Both officials of the St. Louis Browns and the Missouri Pacific Railroad denied reports from Toronto that the local American League Club had been sold or that negotiations to that end were under way.

A. B. Sharp, secretary to A. D. Bell, passenger traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific, issued the following statement:

"Mr. E. H. Reynolds, assistant to President Baldwin, of the Missouri Pacific, stated there must be some mistake in the story and emphatically denied that the Missouri Pacific or any official of it is interested in the sale or acquisition of the Browns or any other baseball clubs."

W. & J. Expects Real Foe in Lafayette

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—When Washington & Jefferson meets Lafayette on the local gridiron tomorrow in the President's annual homecoming gridiron struggle, indications are that the same colorful competition that has marked 11 combats between them in the past will result. No series of games on the schedules of either has ever been featured by so much action and spectacular effort and few believe that anything else than a continuation of this brilliancy will prevail when they engage in their twelfth combat here.

The Leopards from the Eastern end of the state have a chance to knot the count tomorrow, the series now standing at five victories for the Red and Black to four for the Maroon with a pair of tie games sandwiched in between.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Twenty-five Lafayette football players yesterday were given a rousing send-off by the college band and student body as they boarded a train here on the first lap of the trip to Washington, Pa., where they will play Washington and Jefferson tomorrow. The squad goes to Greensburg and remains there until the morning of the game.

Bulletin No. 24 to Be Issued by Foundation

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Carnegie Foundation's already famous "Bulletin No. 23" on college athletes will be followed before the first of the year by "Bulletin No. 24," a second voluminous report on the same general subject, Dr. Howard J. Savage, staff member of the foundation, announced today.

Entitled "The Literature of American School and College Athletes," the new bulletin will approach in bulk the 383-page volume which caused a stir in the college world a week ago with its charges of widespread recruiting and subsidizing of athletes. Its contents, however, are not expected to prove so sensational.

It will comprise a digest of all that has been written on the subject over a long period of years and will contain a preface by Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Foundation, whose preface to Bulletin No. 23 aroused considerable comment. The new Bulletin is the work of W. Carson Ryan, Jr., professor of education at Swarthmore College, and represents more than three years of research.

BOB GARLAND WINS SPURS AS PROPHET

Councilman Robert Garland long has commanded the public's attention as a city father, but only during the past week has he won any renown as a seer and prophet.

Garland set the stage for his debut as a prophet on December 11, 1926, but it was not until last Saturday that the curtain was raised and he was revealed as a reader of the future.

The curtain-raising was accomplished by the Notre Dame football team in general and Fullback Savoldi in particular, for Garland's forecast on the 1926 date was that Notre Dame eventually would defeat Carnegie Tech. The score of last Saturday's game at the Stadium was Notre Dame 7, Carnegie Tech 0. Savoldi scored the only touchdown.

PREDICTED COMEBACK

The December 11, 1926, occasion which prompted Garland to try his hand as a forecaster was a banquet honoring the Tartans for their victory over Notre Dame that year. Speaking as a trustee of Tech, he warned the boys against overconfidence and said that Notre Dame would do a comeback. The Rocknemen made his forecast look bad last season by losing to Tech again, 27-7, but last Saturday was another day, and the game "made" Garland as a prophet.

Garland's prophetic address on December 11, 1926, follows:

"We are here to do honor to our victors on the field of battle. You boys have placed the name of Pittsburgh in prominent headlines on the front pages of every important newspaper in the United States and brought credit and renown to our city.

"You are heroes, and tonight we are again crowning you with wreaths of victory.

"Now, the name Carnegie is of course pure Scotch, and out there at Tech they glorify the Tartan, while the Notre Dame team is largely Irish. It may be that I was chosen as toastmaster for this evening because I am Scotch-Irish. I have been inhaling the atmosphere of this Scotch-Irish city for 50 years, but Ireland is my native heath, and I have a soft spot for the Irish and a wholesome respect for their wonderful fighting ability and their power to comeback.

"IRISH ARE FIGHTERS"

"Don't discount these qualifications. The Irish have always been fighters. The Irishman fights at the drop of the hat. He never gives up, and he is never vanquished. When that famous general who almost conquered the continent of Europe, Napoleon Bonaparte, met his Waterloo, those who defeated him were commanded by a native Irishman, Arthur Wellesley, the Duke of Wellington, born in Dublin. And one of the strongest fighting contingents in the Crimean War was an Irish regiment, the Enniskillen Dragoons, immortalized by Tennyson in his well-known poem, 'The Charge of the Light Brigade.'

"Coming down to more recent times, let those of us who are Irish remember that the only man in the entire state of Pennsylvania who received a Congressional medal for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in the recent war—was born in Ireland, Col. Joe Thompson, and I want to accentuate this particular fact at this time for the reason that the bravery he displayed was unquestionably due to his early athletic training on the football fields of Geneva and Pitt, where he learned to hit the line in the center and to push forward with all that splendid vigor which is his.

"So I just want to caution you boys that those fighting Irish will be after you next year. As a Pittsburgher and a trustee of the Institute, I hope you lick them good, again and again, but don't under-rate them. Don't be overconfident of your prowess. Keep everlastingly in training, and don't lose your pep. You have accomplished a wonderful thing, and what one has done once, he can do again. And if you do it, the greater glory will be yours."

SONNENBERG WINS

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated George McLeod, of Nebraska, here last night by winning two straight falls. The match was under the Australian round system and was scheduled to go eight 10-minute rounds. The champion took both falls in the fifth round.

W. & J. GRIDIRON CARD FOR '30 ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—A telegram from Manager Harry A. Stansbury closing for a game at Morgantown on Saturday, November 22, not only assured continued football competition with West Virginia in 1930, but also completed the Washington and Jefferson gridiron chart for next season. The West Virginia November date supersedes the Thanksgiving Day position on the Presidents' schedule, which has been a fixture for a number of years. Wash.-Jeff. will play no Thanksgiving Day game next year, winding up the season instead on the following Saturday, November 29, with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.

The annual W. & J.-West Virginia turkey day engagement went by the boards when the Mountaineers booked Oregon Aggies for a game, probably in Chicago. The Presidents later switched the Carnegie tilt from October 18 to the late November position in order that the Tartans might take on Georgia Tech in Pittsburgh. This also necessitated the switching of the game next season with Temple, and when the desired changes had been successfully consummated and other obligations had been fulfilled, the only open date for a West Virginia game was November 22.

September 27—Bethany at Washington.

October 4—Westminster at Washington.

October 11—Wittenberg at Springfield, O.

October 25—Lafayette at Easton.

November 8—Pitt at Pittsburgh.

November 15—Bucknell at Washington.

November 22—West Virginia at Morgantown.

November 29—Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.

PIRATE ICEMEN IN BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 1.—The Pittsburgh National Hockey League Club, in charge of Manager Frank Frederickson and Secretary Garry Schmeelk, arrived here today to start a 10-days' training campaign at the Fort Erie Rink, home of the local entry in the Canadian Professional League.

Frederickson said that he would have his Pirates out for their first scrimmage on the ice this afternoon, and that exhibition games or scrimmages would be held each day during the Pittsburghers' stay here.

The Hamilton, Buffalo and London clubs are to provide the opposition in the exhibition tilts. The pirate players appeared to be in excellent physical condition after a week of gym work, and the skating here is expected to put them in prime condition for the National League season opening on November 16.

San Antonio Drafts Pitcher Malicky

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—George Malicky, pitcher of the Martinsburg club, of the Blue Ridge League, has been drafted by the San Antonio club, of the Texas League, it was announced today. Eight hundred dollars was involved in the deal. The local club is owned by the Philadelphia club, of the American League, which sent Malicky here after he was in spring training with the Athletics. His home is in Nebraska. He won 18 games and lost 11 during the past season.

U. S. STEEL BUYS PACIFIC COAST CORPORATION

Columbia Concern Given 233,440 Shares in Pay For Its Physical Assets

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The largest expansion move in several years by the United States Steel Corporation was made when the corporation announced that it had arranged to acquire the Columbia Steel Corporation, of San Francisco, for approximately $46,630,000 in common stock.

Acquisition of Columbia Steel, one of the largest producers on the Pacific Coast, by the Steel Corporation, results in the latter now having plants and properties in virtually every important steel producing center in the country.

STOCK AT 199.75

The United States Steel Corporation will use about 233,440 shares of its common stock in payment for the assets of the Columbia organization. Based on the purchase price as announced, it means that the steel corporation's stock was valued at about $199.75 a share. It closed on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday at $193.25 a share.

Negotiations for acquisition of the Columbia Corporation were started early in the year, but confirmation of reports to that effect was not obtained until July, when it was announced that an option had been sold. At that time it was stated that the Columbia Steel stock was given a value of $17 a share.

It was explained, however, that U. S. Steel is not exchanging its stock for that of the Columbia Corporation. The Steel Corporation is merely paying Columbia 233,440 shares of stock in return for Columbia's physical properties. The disposition of the U. S. Steel stock so paid with reference to Columbia is a matter which must be decided by the Columbia organization.

OPTION EXTENDED

The Steel Corporation's option expired October 29, but at the regular meeting of the directors on that date it was announced that the option had been extended until yesterday. In announcing the decision of the directors to acquire the Columbia properties, James A. Farrell, president of the corporation, said:

"For several years the United States Steel Corporation has had under consideration the location of manufacturing operations on the Pacific coast . . . to prepare for future growth of both domestic and foreign trade, by service from coast points," and that the growing demands for steel in Pacific coast territory "made it desirable that the corporation have its own producing plants located there."

The Columbia Steel Corporation was incorporated in 1922 as a consolidation of the Columbia Steel Company and the Utah Coal and Coke Company. In 1923, it acquired the Llewellyn Steel Company, of Los Angeles, and later the Milner-Dear-Lerch iron holding at Iron Mountain, Utah. Three years ago the Pacific Steel Corporation was acquired. The company's plants are located at Pittsburgh and Torrance, Cal., Portland, Ore., and Ironton, Utah.

Cities Service May Float Bond Issue

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Wall street hears that the Cities Service Company may soon offer a bond issue as a result of the cancellation of the recent issue of rights because of the severe drop in the stock during the recent market depression. Another report says the company, which had sought $110,000,000 through the sale of additional shares at $45, may make another offering of rights early next year instead of resorting to a bond flotation.

Columbia Steel Calls Preferred

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—Notices calling the Columbia Steel Corporation 7 per cent preferred stock will be mailed shortly. Sixty days notice is required, and present plans call for clearing up all obligations by January 2, 1930, at latest. Physical transfers of company's properties to U. S. Steel Corporation takes place early in February.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The raw sugar market was quiet and easier, with nearby sugars available at 3.77 duty paid, with no sales reported.

There was a fairly active trade in raw sugar futures, but as orders were pretty evenly divided, prices moved within narrow limits. The market opened unchanged to 2 points higher on covering and buying by houses with trade connections, principally in the near months, while Europe was credited with buying the later deliveries. The demand was supplied on this slight upturn by liquidation and Cuban selling and, following the call, prices reacted partially with the list at midday net unchanged to 1 point higher.

There was no change in the refined situation with demand limited to nearby requirements only. Prices were listed at 5.25 for fine granulated by all refiners.

Montgomery Ward October Sales Set Record

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—October sales of Montgomery Ward and Company were $32,181,217, the largest in the company's history and an increase of $5,596,430 over October, 1928.

Sales for the first 10 months of 1929 totaled $225,880,002, compared with $174,946,812 for the same period of 1928, an increase of $50,933,190, or 29.11 per cent.

The previous high record month was December, 1928, which had the advantage of being a Christmas buying month.

President George B. Everitt said: "The sales increase for October was not confined to any one branch of our business. While it is true we have expanded quite rapidly in the retail field, our mail order volume also continues to increase. Another interesting point from a general business standpoint is the fact that our sales increases are general throughout the entire country and are not confined to any specific sections."

OCTOBER AUTO SHIPMENTS

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—Buick motor car October shipments were 20,596 Buick and Marquette cars, comparing with 26,500 in September and 28,615 in October, 1928. The November schedule calls for 11,891 cars. Dealers' stocks are reported as 15 per cent lower than a year ago.

Shipments of Cadillac-LaSalle, Fleetwood division of General Motors Corporation, totaled 5,150 cars, exceeding any previous month in the company's history, according to Lawrence P. Fisher, president.

Hupp Motor Car Company shipped 5,654 cars in October, setting a new record for that month, and exceeding the record month of October, 1928, by 1,525 cars.

Chevrolet division of General Motors Corporation reports October production of 85,891 against 65,052 cars and trucks in same month last year and against 96,590 units in September, 1929. October output brings production for the first 10 months to 1,276,115 cars and trucks, against 1,165,334 units for the same period last year.

U. S. RUBBER OUTLOOK

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—With the major steps in the reorganization program of U. S. Rubber Co., now effected, prospects of substantially increased profits being shown in the very near future in reflection of the new policies now in effect are very bright at this time, Francis B. Davis, Jr., president and chairman of the board, stated to the New York News Bureau. In company with the majority of the members of the board of directors, Mr. Davis inspected the company's enlarged plant here, to which the entire operations of the tire division have been transferred.

"We look confidently," said Mr. Davis, "to obtaining a materially increased volume of business from the motor companies centered in this vicinity as the result of our locating here. In addition, the company will realize profits on an appreciable scale from the progress in manufacture and use of rubber that the next few years holds in store.

"Important factors contributing to our bright outlook are the extremely capable men on the executive staff, and in the general personnel and the headway being made in our research department, which, under the direction of Ernest Hopkinson, vice president, and one of the foremost authorities in the world on rubber manufacture, is daily concerning itself with finding additional uses for rubber.

"We are planning to further reduce overhead and operation costs by shipping late, the original form of rubber directly by boat from our plants in the East, to the Detroit plant."

Amsterdam Bank Cuts Discount Rate

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Following the lead of the Bank of England, the Netherlands Bank, official financial institution of Holland, today reduced its rediscount rate from 5½ per cent to 5 per cent, according to a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam.

It was recalled that a month ago when the Bank of England raised its rediscount rate, the official banks of a number of European countries, including, Norway, Sweden and Denmark, followed suit.

Newspapers Lead As Advertising Medium

ATLANTA, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Radio, talking and motion pictures and other mediums of advertising still are and probably always will be supplementary to the printed word, in the opinion of A. E. Bryson, of Chicago, vice president and in line for the presidency of the Financial Advertisers' Association.

Addressing the fourteenth annual convention of the association here last night, Mr. Bryson said radio and other forms of advertising had their advantages, but newspapers and magazines were leading the field.

"Newspapers reach persons interested in advertising each day," he asserted. "We know that. We do not know and cannot learn how many persons and who the readio reaches."

Mr. Bryson, who is vice president of the Halsey-Stuart Company, of Chicago, said his company had used radio as a means for advertising for the last several years and was satisfied it was obtaining "some results."

"All advertising pays the advertiser and the buying public as well," he said. "Some of it we have to use and take our chances on the result, but in the general sense the saying 'It pays to advertise' is one that is well spoken."

Many Companies Are Increasing Dividend Rate

By B. C. FORBES

EXPECT the declaration of quite a number of extra dividend payments by influential corporations. J. P. Morgan & Co.'s attitude is revealed by the Steel Corporation's special disbursement announced this week. Consolidated Gas, American Tobacco and American Can directors are among others who have taken similar cheerful action.

The dividend records exclusively compiled for this column reveal that no fewer than 179 improved dividend declarations were made during October, contrasted with only 133 a year and 83 two years ago.

Since January 1 a grand total of 1,615 enlarged dividends have been announced, against 1,088 for the first 10 months and 1,468 for the whole of last year.

THE coming two months promise to bring an unusually fine dividend showing. Many corporations are able to report better profits in the third quarter of this year than they earned last year. Most of them enjoyed prosperity, too, in the first half of this year.

The more responsible of our boards of directors will be influence by recent events to deal liberally with those owning their securities. First, a great many stockholders need the money; second, announcement of bigger payments will have a beneficial effect upon general business sentiment.

In the highest financial circles the feeling last evening was that the Wall Street situation is under control; the main objective now is to do everything possible to keep industry and trade from taking fright at what has happened in the stock market.

INCIDENTALLY, leading bankers would have preferred had the opening rush to buy stocks yesterday been somewhat less eager, because it lifted many prices sensationally, whereas a gradual recovery would have been more reassuring. However, the Big Six heaved a sigh of relief when they met yesterday under such a changed stock market atmosphere. They were delighted that the closing of the Stock Exchange to enable brokers to catch up with their mountains of work had been so well received throughout the country.

The wholly unprecedented reduction of $1,096,000,000 in brokers' loans during last week, combined with the reduction in the New York Reserve Bank rate from 6 to 5 per cent, is calculated to encourage an upward bound in optimism between now and the reopening of the Stock Exchange on Monday.

This table shows the form taken by the improved dividend announcements during the first 10 months of this year, and give comparisons with a year ago. It should be noted that this year's figures have been swelled by an unusual number of initial payments, a number of them by investment trusts.

CANADA'S GOLD DILEMMA

OTTAWA, Ont., November 1.—The Department of Finance denied positively that Canada has departed from a gold standard. The denial was issued after the department's attention was called to a dispatch from London quoting a newspaper as saying the Dominion was no longer on a gold monetary basis.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Nov. 1.—The Montreal Star said that "because of the stringency which has existed in Canada for money and in order to protect Canada's position with regard to its gold holdings, Canada has been unofficially off the gold standard for the past six months."

Canadian banks have refrained from shipping gold at the request of J. A. Robb, minister of finance, although Canadian money has been at a discount in New York.

The situation is one which is regarded as being extremely acute, although it is believed the condition will right itself in the ordinary course of events.

While Canadian funds were at a discount of 1⅞ in New York Wednesday, no move was made to bring about a lower rate by means of shipping gold to the United States financial center. It was Wednesday's condition which brought to light the situation as it exists here at present.

WALL STREET CLEARING UP PILED WORK

Floor Traders, Brokerage Clerks Labor On While Exchange Is Closed

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—There was little rest for the weary in Wall street today, although the New York Stock Exchange and the curb market were closed until Monday in common with other security markets throughout the country.

Thousands of clerks in brokerage houses labored over the mass of detail that had piled up during this record-smashing week, abbreviated to three and a half trading days in order that brokerage organizations might have opportunity to recuperate from the tremendous strain.

TRADERS WORK

All of the thousand-odd floor traders, the men who do the buying and selling on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, were at their posts at 10 a. m., the customary opening hour, to adjust all open transactions on their books. Unless their transactions are cleared today they will be required to report again tomorrow.

The committee on arrangements announced that members of the exchange had been forbidden to deal in any securities "over the counter." This rule was made, it was explained, solely to prevent new contracts from impeding the gigantic task of settling the transactions of the week.

BIGGEST WEEK

A check-up of the sales on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and on Thursday afternoon revealed that 43,499,540 shares had been involved in the panicky liquidation of the earlier sessions and the subsequent recovery of prices. This total was larger than the previous high mark for a full week.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of the General Motors Corporation, contributed to the optimistic statements by prominent industrial and financial leaders during the period of stress with the assertion that the fundamental business situation of the country was "very good." Returning from a business trip to Europe, Mr. Sloan also predicted "a bright outlook over a long period."

SLOAN REMAINS OPTIMISTIC

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP.)—Returning today from a month in Europe, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, expressed surprise at the recent break on the stock market and optimism as to the condition of business.

"I don't understand this market situation," Mr. Sloan said. "I can't see any logical reason for any such action as has occurred with present values. Business is sound. Certainly it has been so with General Motors.

"Though I have been away for a month I believe that our quarter earnings will be ahead of the same period for last year, and at the close of the year the results will be satisfactory to our stockholders. I say this though I do not think the grand total of business for the year will be equal that of last year."

Questioned as to future plans of the company in aviation Mr. Sloan said, "Naturally General Motors will go ahead and develop the Fokker plant and the interest which Fokker recently acquired in the Dornier plane."

He read without comment the announcement of a cut in prices by the Ford Motor Company.

Sears Sales May Set October Peak

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Sears, Roebuck's October sales are expected to reach a new high record for any month in the company's history, exceeding considerably the best pervious record of $42,434,000, in December, 1928. The percentage of increase over October last year, when sales were $37,003,200, should be better than the September percentage increase of 23.1 per cent.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Higher prices for wheat went hand in hand today with persistent signs of a large export business going on from North America. Besides, many traders were expecting a decrease to be shown Monday in the United States wheat visible supply total, mills having started to draw on terminal elevator stocks. Elevator wheat was on a cheaper basis than fresh arrivals, and it was in demand. Announcement was made that considerable wheat in store here had been sold and would be ordered out of elevators at once.

BOOTLEG LOANS SHOW RECORD DECLINE

$1,380,000,000 Shrinkage Seen as Beginning of End Of Corporation Lending

By W. S. COUSINS.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—A shrinkage of $1,380,000,000 in bootleg loans, as reported by the Federal Reserve Board in its weekly brokers' loan statement this week, raises the question as to the probable discontinuance of corporation loans to stock brokers, whether directly or through the medium of the New York city banks.

The term bootleg, as applied to loans on stocks and bonds, was coined to denote the loaning of money to carry stocks in the brokers' accounts by any person or corporation, outside of the regular banking channels. The system was built up chiefly through the high interest rates offered in the call loan market for idle funds of corporations, investment trusts and even wealthy individuals, and a 10 and 15 per cent rate eventually attracted money from over the ocean and Canada.

GROWTH RAPID

The bankers plainly were opposed to handling money in this way. They preferred straight deposits in the banks, as heretofore, the funds thus placed to be put out on call, as required, at rates determined by the law of supply and demand. By the end of September of this year, however, bootleg call money loaning had grown so rapidly that nearly 55 per cent of the total of "loans against stocks and bonds," as reported by the reserve board, came through this channel.

A return to normal interest rates in the call loan market and heavy liquidation of public holdings of speculative stocks, with deflation of ballooned stock prices, will eventually show the door to bootleg loans. This is the prevailing view in Wall Street today.

This week's report shows that the New York banks increased their call loans $992,000,000, at the same time withdrawing for the out-of-town banks a total of $707,000,000 from the speculative money market. The net result is a decrease of $1,096,000,000 in the aggregate of brokers' loans for the week, an unprecedented shrinkage and a measure of the violent downward sweep of security prices on the stock exchange.

RECORD LOAN CUT

Brokers' loans down a billion dollars in a week. This is a staggering performance and almost challenges the accuracy of the figures submitted by the Reserve Board statisticians. What if security prices in the aggregate did shrink five or six billion dollars in this period. Thousands of shares of stocks were untouched by buyers and sellers. They were held tightly by investors and speculators who refused to be stampeded into selling. Many of these speculators deposited new margins by the millions of dollars, accounts were strengthened and others "taken over" by the banks.

The $1,250,000,000 withdrawn by the corporations and investment trusts will now be put to work in other channels. Investment trusts will buy stocks—have already bought them; corporations can use the money to good advantage in current operations. Now that the cream is off the call loan high-interest market, industrial companies will be satisfied to deposit their money in the banks at 2 or 3 per cent, leaving the banks to make a modest profit in call loans, or as advances to bond syndicates.

Bootleg loans today total 2,443 million dollars, against 3,823 millions a week ago. Probabilities are the volume will decline over the year-end, particularly if interest rates fall.

$1,096,000,000 DECLINE IN LOANS

Stupendous Drop Reflects Unprecedented Shake-out In Securities Exchanges

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Perhaps the most significant record yet written on the quick succession of stock market slump and recovery, and certainly the most encompassing summary, is contained in this week's Federal Reserve Board report on the movement of New York brokers' loans.

Not only was the enormous sum of $1,096,000,000 paid back to bankers and money lenders in one week, reducing the loan totals to $5,538,000,000, but there was extraordinary rearrangement of the entire collateral lending account.

LOANS FOR "OTHERS" SHRINK

The picture of banks all over the country calling home money they had loaned on Wall street, and of private and corporate lenders doing the same thing, while banks in New York City itself replaced part of the funds, is clear in the figures. The board notes that on October 23 private money lenders and nonbanking corporations and institutions had loaned $3,823,000,000 on stocks and bonds. On October 30 this huge sum had been reduced by nearly $1,400,000,000, the general assumption being that this was the money which was used to buy the stock bargains offered for a few hours as margin accounts were being wiped out.

Almost equally notable was the reduction of brokers' loans made by the out-of-town banks. Between the same two dates the total of such funds in New York was reduced from $1,733,000,000 to $1,026,000,000. The New York banks, however, are recording as having stepped into the breach, and their call loans rose to $2,069,000,000 from the $1,077,000,000 figure of a week before.

Much of the complaint which has been voiced in and around Congress over money situations that developed with stock market booming has been aimed at the lending done by out-of-town banks. Possibly various resolutions of inquiry aimed at the situation will evaporate without action, and there will be no inquiry, but it is certain that if congressional committees ever do approach the subject, they will find the total of the country's bank funds that are used in Wall Street at one of the lowest known ebbs during the next few weeks. The reserve figures show that this money went home in startling degree within a week.

It was also notable that the New York banks made their advances with comparatively little call upon Reserve Bank funds. The Reserve Bank of New York, apparently, was asked to advance but $129,000,000 to New York members, making their reserve borrowings on October 30 amount to $170,000,000, against $41,000,000 the week before.

SLIGHT EFFECT ON RESERVE

It was noticeable that on October 31, last year, under normal conditions, the New York member banks were borrowing $160,000,000 from the reserve system, so that the tremendous sums entering into stock market play of the week had almost trivial effect on the reserve system. In Chicago on October 30, all member bank borrowings dropped to $1,000,000, as compared with $79,000,000 on the same date last year. It is probable that these figures facilitated the lowering of the reserve rediscount at New York last night to 5 per cent, since the banking credit is shown by them to be so far disassociated with security operations.

GOLD EXPORTS INCREASE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The New York Federal Reserve Bank reports no change in gold earmarked for foreign account for the week ended October 30.

Gold movement at the port of New York for the week shows imports of $149,000, chiefly from Latin America.

Exports totaled $3,130,000, of which $3,005,000 went to France and $125,000 to Mexico.

RESERVE RATIOS DROP

Ratio of reserve to liabilities of the Federal Reserve system this week stands at 69.4 per cent as against 75.5 per cent a week ago and 67.2 per cent a year ago.

Ratio of the New York Federal Reserve Bank this week is 71.8 per cent compared with 85.7 per cent last week and 70.9 per cent a year previous.

CORPORATIONS INVEST IN STOCKS

Huge Cash Surpluses Used To Take Over Shares Now Far Beolw Real Value

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The collapse in stock prices without regard to value gave some corporate bootleg lenders the idea of switching to the role of bootleg investment trusts instead.

With the normal buying power of individuals reduced by recent colossal losses, there has been a suggestion that corporations, with unprecedentedly huge cash reserves, step into the breach. Some companies have already done so. There are two motives for taking such action. In the first place, corporate executives feel a responsibility for keeping the financial arteries open, and preventing the dire consequences that would come from inability to absorb stock.

The very welfare of individual companies depends on general economic stability. In the second place, some corporate executives are convinced that stocks at prices prevailing this week are intrinsically cheap for the long pull, and that it is good business, from a strictly profits standpoint, to take advantage of current buying opportunities. Some of this buying for purposes of support are doubtless only temporary purchases.

INSURANCE SUPPORT

Albert Conway, state insurance commissioner in New York, recognizing the need of mobilizing buyers during the crisis, performed the unprecedented act of calling insurance company executives together and advising them to buy common stocks. Of course, in New York, the life insurance companies are not permitted to purchase common stocks, though in Canada they are.

That the banks are in sympathy with the impulse of strong corporations to become bootleg investment trusts, putting part of their cash reserves into selected securities at bargain prices, was suggested by the experience of a representative smaller corporation. Believing that the time had come for business executives to display their faith in the future of American trade, the president, with the approval of his directors, discussed with his bank the proposition of placing a large amount of corporate cash into stocks and taking care of the company's current cash requirements through a bank loan. The bank approved the idea, and the company bought a portfolio of standard American stocks, especially strong dividend-paying rails, railroad equipment shares, and premier industrials.

In normal times a commercial banker would probably look askance at a proposal to borrow in order to release cash for market transactions. Strictly speaking, it is somewhat apart from an industrial corporation's true function to become a bootleg investment trust; yet, since companies are at present in possession of so much cash, they are in position to relieve the prevailing tension and at the same time have the prospects of doing well for their own shareholders.

IDEA NOT NEW

Of course, the idea of turning corporations into bootleg investment trusts is not entirely new. Even in normal times, some companies, such as Allied Chemical and Dye, invested their surplus largely in high grade common stocks. The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, has in recent years built up an enormous portfolio of common stocks.

On account of the great deflation of prices, less funds are now currently needed to finance the carrying of securities. Accordingly, the outlook is for lower interest rates, and there is accordingly less incentive for corporations to continue to compete with banks as lenders in the role of bootleg lenders. The time has come for the shifting of corporate funds from loans to investments.

Conservatively managed companies in normal times supplement cash reserves with portfolios of high grade bonds and commercial paper. The switching of corporate funds into commercial paper and securities will help to create more normal conditions. Of course, well managed companies will not overlook the advisability of keeping a large proportion of their funds in cash and its equivalent to be ready for contingencies. Investment trusts have been withdrawing cash to acquire stocks this week.

John J. Raskob, former chairman of the finance committee of the General Motors Corporation, who warned the public that he thought stock prices were too high before the last presidential election, now reports that he and his friends are reacquiring standard stocks at prevailing prices. In referring to the imminent conversion of bootleg lenders to the role of investors, Mr. Raskob, who is chairman of the Democratic National Committee, pointed out:

"Huge amounts of money have been loaned in the call money market at most attractive rates during this period by people who ordinarily would have this money invested in securities. The present decline in the stock markets of this country has carried prices, in many instances, to levels ridiculously low, with the result that nearly all the standard railroad stocks are cheap and the industrial list is filled with stocks selling at real bargain prices."

STOCKS, CHEAP AND DEAR

The terrific deflation in the good stocks recalls the aphorism ascribed to George Blumenthal, retired partner of Lazard Freres:

"There are no good stocks and no bad stocks," he said. "There are only dear stocks and cheap stocks."

The governors of the New York Stock Exchange showed superb showmanship in waiting for a sharp rally before closing the doors. To have shut down the market place while the liquidating movement was on in full force would have been misinterpreted. The truth is that the public has overtaxed the facilities of the machinery for speculation and the shutdown yesterday morning, today and tomorrow will enable the clerical forces to catch up on the records—and will give prostrate and overworked brokers a chance to get some sleep and rest. It will incidentally give outsiders an opportunity to decide whether to follow the Rockefellers, the Raskobs and the Morgans, or to continue behind the banner of highly emotional economic illiterates.

Federal Reserve Gave Stock Market Great Assistance.

PERHAPS even those who have been most caustic in their criticism of the Federal Reserve over the last year or more, when that body decried "excessive speculation" and warned of its ultimate dangers, will find it possible to be more complimentary in their comments. For it was the Reserve that during the recent debacle, rendered the greatest material assistance to the market, when the very element that had built up the towering market structure through its contributions to "others" loans turned tail and ran for cover. In the New York district alone the Reserve Bank poured $256,813,000 additional credit into the market, virtually doubling the total of the week previous, through opening its rediscount facilities to member banks and additionally through heavy purchases of government securities.

Reduction in the bank rate to the 5 per cent level prevailing until the advance posted last August may be regarded as bullish in that it recognizes the far-reaching change in the credit situation wrought in the past fortnight. But there is another element to be considered so far as that development is concerned. Before the changes were made at London and New York yesterday, the spread between the rates at the two leading world credit centers was but ½ of 1 per cent. Now it is a full 1 per cent. This shift reflected in strength in sterling and raising higher than previously the possibilities of substantial gold shipments to London.

MORE important than the mere fact that the drop of $1,096,000,000 in the total of loans as reported by the Federal Reserve yesterday constituted a record for contraction, is the striking change in the makeup of the total. Loans for the "account of others" which were assured only the other day would not be withdrawn hastily or in bulk, were cut by no less than $1,308,000,000, while loans for out-of-town banks, which incidentally include a substantial proportion of "others' " money were cut by $707,000,000, making a total reduction in those two accounts of $2,087,000,000 within the week, reflecting the extent to which member banks had to take over the burden of such withdrawals, loans for their own account virtually doubled, rising $992,000,000.

For the time being at least the Federal Reserve appears in a fair way to regain control of the credit situation it lost several years ago as a result of its efforts to redistribute some part of our gold stocks through making money rates here artificially low. The purpose behind its effort at that time was unquestionably one of high merit, but it gave the speculation element the opening which provided the foundation for the long spell of heavy market speculation that followed. A month ago, when loans were at their peak, loans for the account of "others" constituted no less than 58 per cent of the total, while those for out-of-town banks comprised 27 per cent, and loans for member banks' own account but 16 per cent. Today loans for "others" make up but 44 per cent, with loans by member banks for their own account now measuring 38 per cent of the aggregate.

TO facilitate the task of making adjustments and permitting houses to pay off on their loans or make new loans if necessary, the money market was kept open during the day. The money desk on the stock exchange was maintained in readiness to take care of any business of that order which might have developed, but its task was not a difficult one by any means. Beyond fixing the rate for renewals at 6 per cent, it had little to do apparently. Many brokers reporting little or no business in sight throughout the day.

Preparations for handling the month-end turnover had been pretty well completed ahead of time as usual. It was estimated that checks went out last night covering about $500,000,000 in corporation interest and dividend disbursements due today. Wall street was satisfied that the vast bulk of these distributions would ultimately find its way back to the market in the shape of re-investment demand, attracted by the many favorable opportunities now prevailing for the investment of funds in sound securities.

Call Money Withdrawn By Industries

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

MANY stories can be found in the brokers' loan statement made public yesterday. It reflects the closing out of thousands of accounts throughout the entire country. It shows that industrial organizations have made a pronounced change in their method of handling surplus funds. It contains good news for the bond trade. It gives evidence of the banking support of the market.

It was generally expected that the decline would be the most precipitate ever reported, but the enormous gain in loans made by New York banks for their own account was unexpected. While total loans slid off $1,096,000,000, the loans by New York banks gained $992,000,000. At the same time loans for out of town banks dropped $707,000,000, and loans for others dropped $1,380,000,000.

Withdraw Money

WHEN the big break was well under way, industrial corporations throughout the country began to withdraw their surplus funds from the call market. It will be remembered that it was funds from this source that provided for most of the expansion in loans during the bull market.

These corporations began placing funds on deposit with their local banks to help the institutions to take care of the exceptional demands for money occasioned by the break. Many customers of banks dipped into their safe deposit boxes and brought out hitherto unhypothecated securities so that they could raise additional margins. This put a temporary strain on the banks. This situation also explains the drop in loans made to brokers by New York banks for the accounts of out of town banks.

Bargain Hunters

BARGAIN hunters started to work on a big scale during the final days of the break, and the financing of their operations added to the drain on the resources of banks here and in other cities. It is quite likely that many of the corporations which withdrew money from the call market were doing bargain hunting on their own account.

The cut in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate of 5 per cent was generally anticipated and few expected call money to be attractive for some time. This undoubtedly led many corporations to make these withdrawals of cash with the ultimate intention of putting the surplus into bonds. Attractive bond yields and the possibility of profits in some issues gave impetus to the movement.

Bond Outlook Bright

THE future of the bond business has been made especially bright by the developments of the past three weeks. A good share of the corporation money withdrawn from the call market will eventually find its way into investments of this kind. Further than this the termination of the bull market has brought neglected bonds with their high yields back into public favor.

Until the stock market takes a very decided turn for the better most corporations will have to do their new financing by the sale of bonds or preferred stock, since it will be difficult to get stockholders to exercise rights. This will add to the bond supply.

Banking Support

THE replacement of call money withdrawn by corporations and out of town banking organizations forced the New York banks to step into the breach and to finance the market. The increase of $992,000,000 in loans by New York banks may also represent banking support thrown into the market during the worst periods of the break.

The great service performed by the Federal Reserve system during the past week cannot be over-emphasized. All of these sudden readjustments in the credit structure have been completed without any serious disturbance to the country's business, while in times past less violent market upsets had serious results.

CENTRAL BANKS IN ACCORD

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Reciprocal lowering of the bank rates on both sides of the Atlantic yesterday was seen here today as confirming opinion the worst of the market depression was over and that the monetary situation was approaching a more normal state. American exchange was slightly harder as a result of the move.

There was a feeling of additional confidence that the great central institutions of both continents were working closely together in matters affecting American and European finance.

DUBLIN, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The Irish bank rate was today reduced from 7 per cent to 6½ per cent.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 1. — The Netherlands bank discount rate has been reduced to 5 per cent from 5½ per cent.

Middelwest Capital Change Unaffected

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Martin J. Insull, president of the Midwest Utilities Company, states that the recent break in the stock market has in no way affected the company's plans of recapitalization, which will be completed on November 14, as previously announced.

EXPECT STOCK RALLY TO CONTINUE

Record Decrease in Brokers' Loans Brings Market More Cheerful Tone

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—A much more cheerful feeling prevails in the financial district because the recovery has strengthened many accounts which were threatened by the last drop. Most observers expect the rally to continue Monday as the final prices were so strong in leading issues yesterday.

However, they are advising customers to take advantage of further gains to reduce long holdings and place accounts in the strongest possible condition to withstand any new shock which might develop. The reduction in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank to 5 per cent was in line with general expectations particularly after the cut by the Bank of England which was announced early yesterday.

The record-breaking decrease of $1,096,000,000 in brokers' loans cheered the Street. While it was expected that a big reduction would be made, few looked for such a large cut in the figure.

A number of strong boxes were opened during the break in American Telephone. Most of this supply seemed to be for interests who had speculative positions in other stocks and were attempting to safeguard accounts to some extent. With this selling absorbed, the stock has been acting better because of the good yield which has always been obtained on telephone stock through the $9 a share annual cash dividend and various rights from time to time. The issue has attracted odd lot investors in larger numbers than most other issues on the board.

The offerings of Allied Chemical in the past two days have been taken by important interests, according to statements from students on the floor. Allied Chemical has been one of the big lenders in the call money market and it is possible that some support in the stock has come from within the organization. Downward scale buying orders are reported in the issue.

NEW OFFERINGS

There is considerable discussion of the new stock offerings which were made recently and quite a few market interests are of the opinion that the financial structure became top-heavy mainly because the floating supply of so many companies had been increased at a greater rate than could be absorbed in an ordinary market.

With enthusiasm rampant, such stock was taken care of, but when conditions were unsettled, it was the larger amount of shares to be handled which caused many of the unusually sharp breaks in various stocks. It is probable that some of the offerings which were planned between now and the end of the current year will be postponed at least temporarily.

Copper Demand Quiet, Prices Hold

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The phenomenal drop in the share market, which set in last Thursday, has not resulted in any precipitate drop in metal prices, Engineering and Mining Journal reports. Lead, tin, zinc, silver and quicksilver are slightly lower than they were in the week preceding, but the decline in each instance has been very small and in the case of lead and zinc has been brought about by weakness abroad bringing the London price below import parity.

Copper stands firm. Metal producers are not expecting much new business until the Wall Street debacle is over. Metal buying in general is for prompt shipment, a fact which adds to the fundamental soundness of the situation.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 2 points. Buying on relatively steady Liverpool cables and unfavorable weather features appeared mostly offset by southern selling and some local realizing or liquidation at the start. Offerings were light, however, while the buying continued and active months sold about 2 to 5 points net higher by the end of the first half hour with December advancing to 17.95 and March to 18.37. It was reported that there were trade buying orders in the market somewhat below the current prices.

Liverpool cables reported covering and continental buying which was said to have absorbed some liquidation and hedge selling in that market. Holidays in New Orleans, Havre and Bombay markets probably had a restricting effect on business.

Trading continued quiet later in the morning. Advances of some 5 to 7 points above yesterday's closing quotations met a little liquidation and some southern selling, but the offerings were light and reports that there were trade buying orders in the market for execution on the scale down led to some covering. At midday the market was steady with January selling around 18.07c and with active months showing net gains of 3 to 4 points.

EXPECT EXTRA ON GENERAL MOTORS

Street Believes Company Will Duplicate 30-Cent Payment Made in July

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Directors of General Motors Corporation will meet for dividend action on November 14, and it is expected that an extra dividend equal to at least the 30 cents extra paid on July 2 of this year will be authorized in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common stock.

Expectation in banking circles that such favorable action will be taken is interpreted as indicating that the management of the largest motor company is convinced of the soundness of the present automobile situation and its outlook. In these quarters it is pointed out that while the corporation has been liberal with its stockholders in the payment of dividends, the dividend policy has been fully justified by trade developments and the growth of the corporation's earning power.

ATTITUDE CONFIDENT

It is also pointed out that if any decidedly unfavorable condition existed, it would be apparent to the General Motors management, and would undoubtedly be reflected in a desire to conserve the corporation's cash by discontinuing the extra payments until the outlook became more favorable. Fact that such action is apparently not contemplated is undoubtedly the most encouraging basis for confidence that many of the uncertainties surrounding the outlook for the motor industry which have followed the decline in motor stocks are unwarranted by actual developments in the situation.

1930 PROSPECTS

Improvement in motor conditions is expected after the first of the year, but during the next 60 days further decline in output and earnings is in prospect as factories shut down for inventory and to prepare a number of new models to be exhibited at the annual motors shows early next year.

The sharp curtailment in the industry during recent months is considered a healthy sign for the future by leaders of the industry who point out that it will give the trade a chance to catch its breath after a prolonged period of record-breaking activity. It will enable dealers to move unsold stocks of cars and clear their salesrooms for new offerings for next year.

WORKING OFF STOCKS

Judging by the continued satisfactory activity in the retail trade, manufacturers expect that unsold stocks both in factory and dealers' hands will be at low point at the beginning of the new year and that there will be no carryover to handicap manufacturers in proceeding with their 1930 programs. The trade looks for a healthy market next year, although best opinion is that production for the industry as a whole will be at lower levels than during the current record-breaking year.

PROFITS VS. PRODUCTION

Conditions which have developed during the past few months are looked upon as the beginning of a readustment period to a more normal basis of automobile output in which the industry will plan with an eye more on profits than on record production. Financial statements of leading companies covering the first stages of this readjustment show a general decline in earnings which set in after midyear and carried profits below levels a year ago.

SEPTEMBER EXPORTS DOWN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—September automotive exports were valued at $35,184,245, a 7 per cent decline from the August figure of $37,932,530, but a gain over September a year ago when shipments were worth $34,162,711, according to the Department of Commerce.

Automotive shipments have shown a decided downward tendency the past few months and the general belief expressed early this year that the 1929 total would exceed 1928 by $100,000,000 has undergone revision. It is now expected to exceed last year by only $50,000,000 to $60,000,000.

Exports for the third quarter of this year total $122,475,778, nearly $7,000,000 below the amounts recorded for the corresponding period last year.

Young Spring Co. Earnings Increase

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The L. A. Young Spring and Wire Corporation reports increased sales and profits for the third quarter and for the nine months ending September 30. Net profits, after provision for estimated Federal taxes, for the nine months, totaled $2,076,210, equivalent to $5.03 on the 412,500 shares of common stock now outstanding. This compares with $1,569,379 for the corresponding period of 1928, equivalent to $3.80 a share on the same number of shares of common stock.

Net sales for the nine months showed an increase of over 26 per cent over the corresponding period of 1928. The total volume of business and net profits, after Federal taxes for the third quarter of this year, were more than 9 per cent greater than in the third quarter of 1928.

Week's Trading Makes Market History

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The market closed yesterday until next Monday in a cloud of dust.

The gong of the New York Stock Exchange rang down the curtain on trading which in the past four days has made history. Since Monday, the market had galloped up financial hills and down into financial valleys. But yesterday it continued its climb towards its place in the economic sun.

Opening at noon, a record volume of 2,500,000 shares changed hands in almost the first half hour of trading. Three hours later, when the floor closed officially, the total swept above 7,000,000 shares for the day, with the ticker running more than an hour behind.

This made approximately 44,000,000 shares dealt in since last Monday—a record expected to stand for years to come.

FARM PRICE INDEX UP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—At 140 per cent of pre-war level on October 15, the index of general level of farm prices was one point lower than on September 15, and three points higher than a year ago, the Department of Agriculture announced.

Seasonal declines in farm prices of meat animals and lower prices for cotton, corn, barley, wheat, wool, horses and chickens, contributed to decline in the index. These price reductions were partially offset, however, by seasonal advances in the farm prices of dairy and poultry products, and higher prices of oats, rye, hay, fruits and vegetables, cottonseed and flaxseed. On October 15, prices paid producers for flaxseed reached the highest level since July, 1920.

On October 15, grain prices were up 12 points from October, 1928. Fruits and vegetables up 54 points, poultry and poultry products up 13 points. Meat animal prices were 9 points lower, dairy products 2 points and cotton and cottonseed 6 points.

Live hog prices were 5 per cent lower and beef cattle 7 per cent lower.

The farm price of wheat on October 15, showed little change from that of previous month. Heavy marketing, large stocks and heavy Argentine shipments are factors which tended to depress wheat prices. The farm price of corn showed slightly less than the usual seasonal decline from September 15 to October 15, averaging about 7 per cent for the whole United States. An increase in the forecast of corn production for 1929 has been made.

Cuba Cane Sugar Net Shows Loss

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The preliminary report of the receiver of Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation and Eastern Cuba Corporation for the year ended September 30, shows net loss of $805,832 after interest, tax, depreciation, etc., as against net profits of $214,269 in the previous year.

Profit and loss surplus on September 30, totaled $5,152,583 compared with $7,513,781 on September 30, 1928.

National Transit Expanding Activity

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—In order to handle its greatly increased traffic, National Transit Company will place in partial operation its big pump station at East Kane in the near future.

American Chain Makes Good Showing

Among preferred stocks affording a better than average yield, with dividends seemingly well secured, is the 7 per cent senior issue of the American Chain Company, of which there are outstanding 109,468 shares. The stock has been selling at about 95 to yield somewhat less than 7.4 per cent.

Net earnings of the company for the first eight months this year amounted to $1,825,106, and, inasmuch as the last four months of the year usually yield about 40 per cent of the annual total, it is estimated the 1929 final figures will approximate $3,000,000. This would be equivalent to more than $27 a share on the preferred and to about $9 a share on the common.

This showing not only is reassuring for holders of the company's securities but is a strong testimonial to the management's ability to restore normal earning power after the unfavorable showing in 1928, when earnings fell to $410,843. Difficulties encountered in the expansion program last year appear to have been fully eliminated.

CLAUDE NEON NET UP

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Claude Neon reports net profit for nine months ended September 30, after all charges, including taxes, depreciation and amortization, of $550,297, equal to $2.72 a share on 202,000 shares of combined Arizona and Delaware Company shares outstanding, against $295,648, or $1.46 a share in full year of 1928. Net from operations in the third quarter was $175,818, or 87½ cents a share, against $149,050 in the second quarter this year and $101,586 in the first quarter.

The company declared a special dividend of 2 per cent in stock and between 35 and 40 cents a share in cash on common, both payable January 1 to record December 19. This dividend is the result of the absorption of electrical products of Oregon.

President Paul Howse explains the action as follows:

"By terms of the exchange of three shares of Claude Neon of Delaware for five of the Oregon company there will be available 6,000 shares of Claude Neon of Delaware available for distribution. On December 19 there will be about 215,000 shares of Claude Neon outstanding, hence the distribution of the 6,000 shares will give each stockholder prior to the merger with the Oregon company a special dividend of slightly over 2 per cent in stock. For this reason we are declaring the 2 per cent stock dividend and the fraction, amounting to between 35 and 40 cents a share, will be paid in cash."

Things I Never Knew Till Now

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.

THAT in the N. Y. Times studio a full length portrait of the Ziegfeld dancer, Harriet Hoctor, hangs between President and Mrs. Hoover.

That the H. G. in H. G. Wells' name stands for Herbert George.

That Mayor Walker savvies and speaks Yiddish fluently.

That when women Who Have A Way With Them pause to think what they can do to a heart they must die from leffing. At any rate, the heart is the strongest organ, and the power it exerts in a year is sufficient to lift a cruiser out of water.

THAT tourists are forbidden to frequent certain streets in the Pompeii ruins, which are under lock and key.

That every year China uses 4,000 tons of lilies as food, to make a nourishing soup.

That breaking a mirror doesn't mean you will have seven years bad luck. The superstition is a relic of the days when glass was so dear that a chunk large enough for a mirror would have cost a poor man many year's savings.

That thunder is generally heard nine miles away, but some of the big guns during the war were heard 150 miles away.

IT MAY BE TRUE

THAT the panhandlers in New York are reaping a harvest with the amusing line: "Boss, please gimme a dime, I was caught in the panic."

That when Peggy Joyce frequents cabarets she hides her $200,000 diamond ring, but wears her $500,000 pearls.

That the first revue in America was presented by Jesse Lasky on the site of the Fulton Theater. It was a typical French music hall and the offices now occupied by Anne Nichols was a hotel.

That native Hindu servants have a strange honor code. While the family is away, they never steal, fearing everlasting punishment in the hereafter. When the family is home, however, it is jake to steal anything.

That you can remove lint from anything with a dry sponge.

HEIGHT OF FAME

THAT the streets in Detroit christened Moran and Mack were named after the famous blackface comics, after all. Beg podden.

That Francine Larrimore played the first fortnight of the hit "Let Us Be Gay" for nothing, even buying her own costumes, with the understanding that if the show clicked, she was to rate $1,250 per week.

That the reason the Herald Tribune's masthead shows a clock timed 12 after 6 is to commemorate when its presses started.

That Mr. Ziegfeld demands a retraction over the line that he arbitrated or paid Geo. Gershwin any "Show Girl" royalties.

That John Howard Lawson who believed in art and the New Playwrights Theater last season, now trots a pair of Russian wolfhounds in Hollywood and is rated as one of the "swanky" scenarists.

That the Paris Prefect now bars women from the hot spots.

HOW THIS THING BEGAN

THAT the first Scotch gag goes back to 1577 when Queen Elizabeth's historian says: "Scots easing off hunger stood up to their necks in swamps absorbing nourishment through their pores."

That the better piano-sounding boards are made of spruce that grew at mountain tops—exposure to the most furious storms making the wood more resonant and toneful.

That the first oil well was struck at Titusville, Pa., in 1859.

That an ad writer for a soap firm lost his job for suggesting the slogan: "If you don't use our soap, for heaven's sake use our perfume!"

That Mrs. F. Ziegfeld has written an article for a British publication titled: "I'm Not Afraid of My Husband Dazzling Beauties!"

That people who act foolishly are not usually acting.

And that among other Harvard classic there is a recipe for making 200 gallons of potent beer for $2.40.

Three Men Injured, Leap From Speeder

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 1.—Three Erie section men were injured when they leaped from a speeder, about to be derailed, near the Eclipse Oil Works yesterday. All sustained cuts and bruises, but Thomas H. Hunter, 49, of Utica, was the most seriously hurt. He was taken to Franklin Hospital. The others, Harry Snyder and Reuben Doutt, were able to return home.

Two Men Arrested On Liquor Charges

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 1.—Albert Wells, South Brownsville and Michael Kalveck, Bellaire, O., were arrested at Allison, near here, on charges of violating the liquor laws. Police say they had four quarts in their possession. Arraigned yesterday the men were held for court and jailed in default of $1,000 bond each.

Washington County Has 10,000 Hunters

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—With approximately 8,000 licenses already issued and every mail bringing more, it is expected that 10,000, the largest on record, will be issued in Washington County this year.

Small game is reported as plentiful and several thousand aspiring nimrods were ready to take to the fields and woods today.

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

Industry Still Sound; Stock Gambling Never Is

Recent upheavals in the stock market cannot be taken as a reflection of business conditions generally throughout the country. That has been stressed in Washington and elsewhere in statements that the country is in a most satisfactory state, measured by the prosperity yardstick. Even the situation of the farmer, whose troubles have been the concern of our lawmakers, has improved.

There is a logical explanation for the whole thing. There has been too much gambling in stocks. And a gambler's appraisal of a stock is not based on economic laws but upon his own personal guess. That is, the more astute gambler's guess. The lambs who are periodically shorn by the professional traders in the market don't even guess. "What do you like?" they ask the barber, cigar salesman, elevator operator and Whozis. And such expert financial opinion is the base of a great deal of the margin stock trading of the inexperienced.

Is it any wonder they laid themselves wide open for a killing?

The securities of our sound, necessity-producing industries are good. As good today as they ever were. If not, our country isn't. Let's bring it home. Do you think that our railroads and gigantic industries and skyscrapers and the brains and muscle that operate them are not worth every dollar of real value that they represent? Well, these are what a piece of paper known as a share of stock symbolizes. An owner of such a share of stock is part owner of them. He is entitled to participate in their prosperity and to share in their earnings, paid to him in the form of dividends.

And that earning capacity, coupled with possibility of increased earnings, is the economic basis of the market value of stock. If you own a share of stock that pays you a good return, it is worth the basis of that return no matter what the quotation of the stock market, as affected by gambling mania may be. And if you do own such a share of stock, you are an investor and not a gambler. And no investor who has bought wisely need have any fear of the outcome of the insanity in Wall street.

Grundy Would Give Us Money-Ruled Government

Far and away the most useful witness that has yet appeared before the Senate committee investigating the lobby evil is Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania. He is a long-time veteran in the field of lobbying.

The main usefulness of Mr. Grundy's testimony is his candor. He outlined to the Senate committee the sort of government a lobbyist of his parts would set up. He would presume to rewrite the Constitution of the United States.

"The fathers of the country did the best they could under the circumstances," Mr. Grundy conceded. "But I think it was a mistake that each state was given two Senators."

Could this lobbyist have his way, representation in the Senate would not be based upon the sovereignty of the several states but upon the money bags of their wealthiest citizens.

Certain so-called "backward states of the South and West," this Pennsylvania lobbyist flatly declared, should be deprived of an equal voice in the Senate on tariff legislation because "they haven't any chips in the game."

Lobbyist Grundy was speaking with the utmost sincerity. He vouchsafed the opinion that it "was unfortunate" that Idaho was represented in the Senate by such a man as Senator Borah at a time when a tariff bill was under consideration.

Thus, through the window opened by the testimony of this chief of lobbyists and most active collector of campaign funds from tariff beneficiaries, the American people are afforded a glimpse of the sort of government lobbyists would set up if by their sapping expeditions they should succeed in overthrowing the government of the Constitution.

In the place of the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, which Abraham Lincoln proclaimed, the federal city would become the seat of government of the money power, by the money power and for the money power, which Lobbyist Grundy has so clearly portrayed and for which he so effectively plies his trade.

When the Hearst newspapers demanded that the Senate investigate the lobby evil, they knew whereof they spoke. And the impudent challenge of this audacious lobbyist from Pennsylvania proves that they spoke none too soon.

Modernizing Policemen

Experiment Would Be of Value to Society.

Two psychologists and two criminologists are attempting to establish a course of scientific training for potential police officers at the University of Chicago.

The experiment, over a long span of time, can be of tremendous value to society.

We take the trouble to train high-class young men for specialized careers in the Army and Navy. We demand special training for the fellow who takes care of the ills of hogs, dogs, horses, cattle and cats.

It is one of the misfortunes of our age that little or no effort has been made to elevate police work, as a career, to a more attractive level. There have been, and are, good police officers. But they have developed in spite of, and not because of, the hit-and-miss system.

Police careers are not attractive today. An honest, intelligent man's enthusiasm is too quickly chilled by the very injustice of the arrangement. Police work is too often paralyzed by politics. And the courts—particularly in Chicago—have exercised a ghastly influence.

But there are young men who have the rare combination of mental, physical and spiritual attributes for dignified careers in police work. They will be attracted to this field of service when it means more, in the eyes of the world, to be an honest, efficient police officer. The prerequisite of scientific training is a necessary stride toward that end.

Incidentally—Chicago has been an excellent training ground for ambitious young crooks. It is logical that Chicago take the lead in training young men to cope with them.

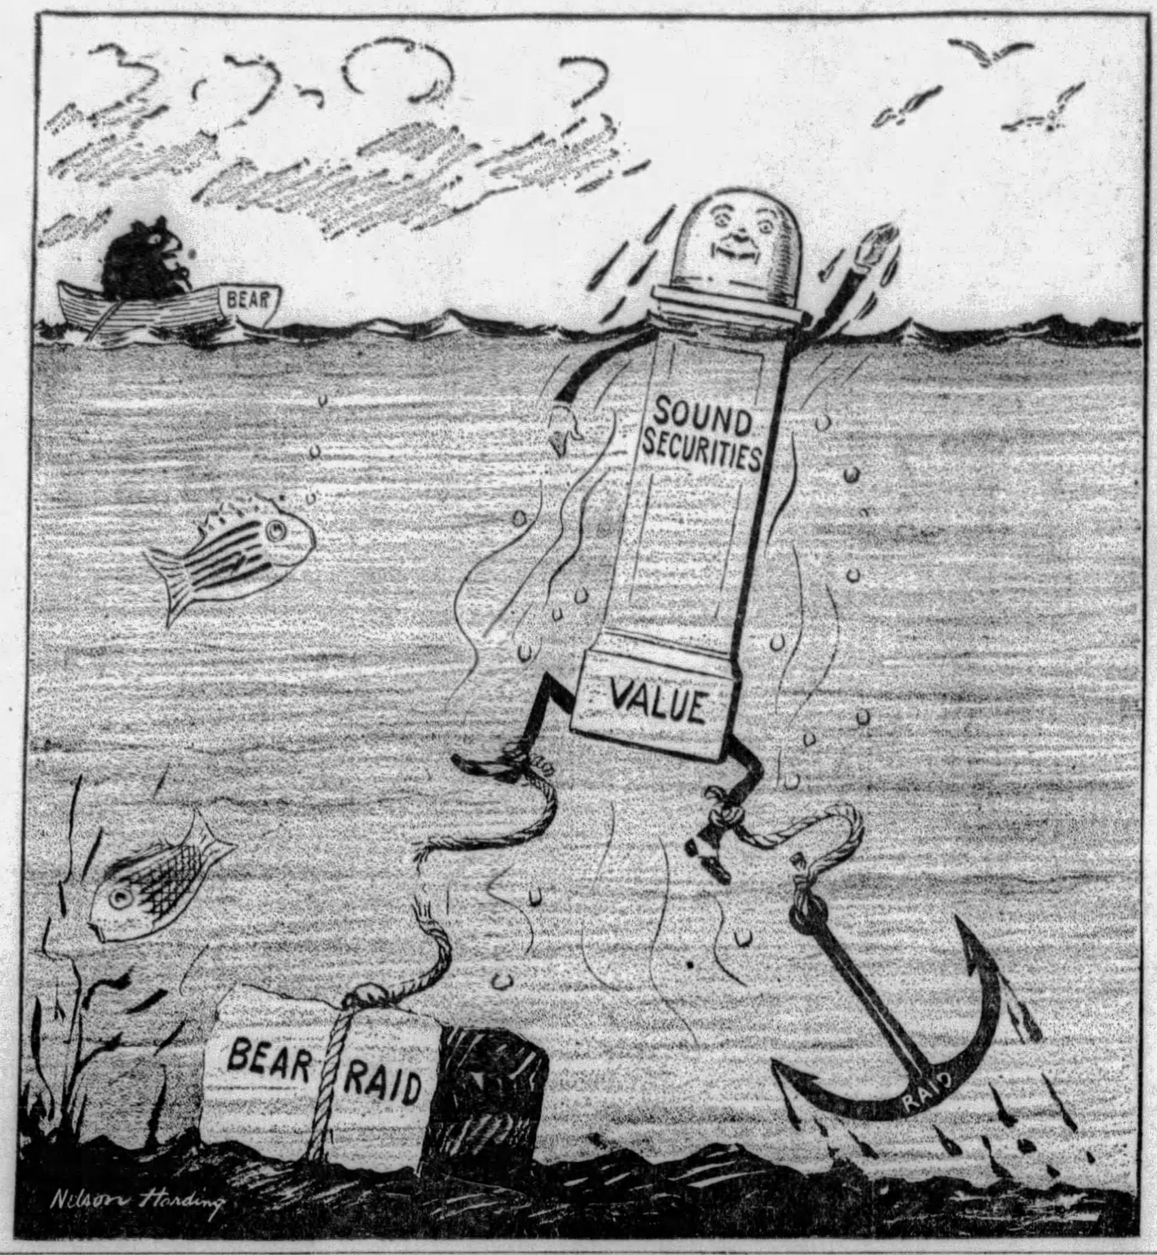
You Can't Keep A Good Stock Down!



"Bugs" Baer Says:

Bubbles in an Air Mind

NOW that General Motors has gone into the aviation racket, home, sweet installments, will be a place between two garages.

"Bugs" Baer

We would like to know how many garages a family must have before it's happy.

The garage is the most important room in the house. Compared with it your bungalow is merely an auxiliary tool chest.

Our flivver boudoir is a sunkissed doghouse of corrugated iron. We know it is the purest Greek architecture for it was built by a man named Dandelos.

The next door neighbor has a garage onto which he is now building an annex for his airplane. He will tear down his home to make a landing field.

Between landing fields and golf courses, the only place where you can pick daisies and buttercups is under glass in the Metropolitan Museum.

In five years the farmer who tries to plow up a field will be nailed as an enemy of aviation.

It's all right to be airminded. Very good. But why carry it too far and get vacuum-brained?

They've flown a plane over in Europe that carries 169 people. If they all start flying we intend to claim the title of the Lone Eagle of the Subway.

The way they gather around the old family fireside now is ultra-haphazard. The old man is sneaking a cigaret aboard a Zepp, granny is bouncing over the Rockies in a amphibian parachute; brother is going up Pike's Peak on a motorcycle, and sis is struggling for a silver flask in the rumble seat of a coast-to coast motor tour.

We are not only airminded but we are also detour-intellectual, gasoline-skulled and skid-wise.

We cannot call the pedestrian a thing of the past for he never gets past.

While trying to escape a muscular massage by a motor car, he gets side-swiped by a roving grade-crossing or is tendered a compilimentary fright by a low-flying stunt aviator.

When a man gets so airminded that he has to have a blow-out patch put on his head, it's time to consolidate the bubbles and start thinking.

We dread the time when professors will apply tire gauges to students' skulls to see how smart they are.

THE DREAMERS

By Herbert Kaufman

THEY are the architects of greatness. Their vision lies within their souls. They never see the mirages of Fact, but peer beyond the veils and mists of doubt and pierce the walls of unborn Time.

The World has accoladed them with jeer and sneer and gibe, for worlds are made of little men who take but never give—who share but never spare—who cheer a grudge and grudge a cheer.

Wherefore, the paths of progress have been sobs of blood dropped from their broken hearts.

Makers of empire, they have fought for bigger things than crowns and higher seats than thrones. Fanfare and pageant and the right to rule or will to love are not the fires which wrought their resolution into steel. Grief only streaks their hairs with silver, but has never grayed their hopes.

THEY are the Argonauts, the seekers of the priceless fleece—the Truth.

Through all the ages they have heard the voice of Destiny call to them from the unknown vasts. They dare uncharted seas, for they are makers of the charts. With only cloth of courage at their masts and with no compass save their dreams, they sail away undaunted for the far, blind shores.

Their brains have wrought all human miracles. In lace of stone their spires stab the Old World's skies and with their golden crosses kiss the sun.

Their tunnels plow the river bed and chain the islands to the Motherland.

Their wings of canvas beat the air and add the highways of the eagle to the human paths.

A God-hewn voice swells from a disc of glue and wells out through a throat of brass, caught sweet and whole, to last beyond the maker of the song, because a dreamer dreamt.

What would you have of fancy or of fact if hands were all with which men had to build?

YOUR homes are set upon the land a dreamer found. The pictures on its walls are visions from a dreamer's soul. A dreamer's pain wails from your violin.

They are the chosen few—the Blazers of the Way—who never wear Doubt's bandage on their eyes—who starve and chill and hurt, but hold to courage and to hope, because they know that there is always proof of truth for them who try—that only cowardice and lack of faith can keep the seeker from his chosen goal, but if his heart be strong and if he dream enough and dream it hard enough, he can attain, no matter where men failed before.

Walls crumble and empires fall. The tidal wave sweeps from the sea and tears a fortress from its rocks. The rotting nations drop from off Time's bough, and only things the dreamers make live on.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

YOU have your own notions about life . . . about the way things should be done . . . about what's true and what isn't.

You cherish these notions. You wrap yourself into them as into a warm blanket. You get mad if anyone tries to strip them away from you. You want to Have Things Settled, so life will be safe and easy to understand.

And yet, somehow it isn't. Life keeps right on pestering you—making you wonder—making you fear. You don't know what's the matter.

YOU, YOURSELF, ARE THE MATTER. YOU AND YOUR NOTIONS.

You have made a trap of your notions. That trap won't let you move. It won't let you think new thoughts or risk new experiments. Instead of making you comfortable your notions have made you a prisoner. You feel, miserably, that you are missing most of the Big Show. And you are!

If you want to live, keep yourself free from notions. Keep yourself moving! Keep yourself open to new ideas. Be ready to consider . . . be ready to doubt . . . be ready to discard old view points and accept new ones.

"INVITE DOUBT!"

"Invite doubt. Examine all your beliefs, all your theories, all your knowledge by inviting doubt . . . doubt is essential for the discovering and the understanding of the truth. If you merely accept without . . . doubt and its cruelty of examination, then what you have is not real . . . If your knowledge has not withstood the cruelty of doubt that knowledge . . . will be of no value . . . Most people are afraid of doubt, think that it is a crime, a sin; they put doubt away from their minds, and hence grow strong in their narrowness, in their pettiness . . . in their shelters which breed decay and comfort. Whereas, if you invite doubt into your heart and into your mind, and if you pursue that doubt logically into all the corridors, avenues and shades of the mind and heart, and relentlessly scrutinize and examine all things, then what remains will be of your own knowledge . . . ."

Invite doubt! Do not accept any fact or tradition until you have tested it by all the wisdom you possess and made it your own. Then, having made it your own, be just as willing to doubt once more and discard the old belief if a new and better truth presents itself. For that is the only way that you can keep on growing.

If the body did not change its tissues it would die very quickly. If the mind does not change its tissues it dies even more quickly. DOUBT IS THE GREAT CLEANSER . . . THE GREAT REJUVENATOR.

Never Enough of Beauty

NEVER enough of beauty for the eye
Which lingers hungrily on every scene
That can reveal new wonders in the sky,
New eloquence of meadows fresh and green.

Always men go intent upon the quest
For splendors such as flowered once in Greece,
Majestic loveliness that fills the breast
With peace transcending any earthly peace.

Never enough of beauty for the soul
Which on ethereal substance must be fed,
Demanding beauty for its way, its goal,
And taking beauty for its wine, its bread.

Never enough of beauty till at last
Into the Realm of Beauty it has passed.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

NATURALLY, when they are parts of a living body, the cells are disciplined, they do not wander about where they like, growing actively and reproducing themselves, as the cells in a culture do. An organ such as the brain or liver is like the city during working hours, a tissue-culture is like Regent's Park on a bank holiday, a spectacle of rather futile freedom.

H. G. Wells

The ordinary activities of organs are summations of the activities of their constituent cells; the pull of a muscle for example is in reality the synchronized effort of thousands of muscle cells, and bile is the pooled outpourings of countless liver-cells. Evidently this co-operation involves control.

No muscle would be of any use if its cells were allowed to contract independently whenever they liked; they wait, tense, and expectant, until the muscle is required to move, then they all join together in a hearty but disciplined pull. Even growth is a summation of cell-activities, for the increase in size of any part is due to the orderly growth and multiplication of its constituent cells "according to plan."

On one occasion (a long time ago) a physiologist obtained the heart of a criminal aged 35. He removed the heart 11 hours after the execution, and ran a suitable artificial fluid into it through the veins, to take the place of blood; the heart revived and began to beat again, and was then studied and experimented upon for a full three hours.

The heart of a cold-blooded animal, such as a tortoise, will live for weeks under such conditions. Similarly the mammalian kidney can be removed altogether and supplied with artificial blood through a glass tube tied into its artery; it will continue for hours to remove any undesirable matter from the fluid that runs through it. And so with other organs.

The indivisibility of the human body is then a spurious indivisibility, resulting from the fact that its cells are specialized, that the cells of a leg, for example, have come to rely on the cells of the heart for a supply of nourishing blood. On the other hand, the indivisibility of a cell is absolute, for the cell represents the simplest possible way in which animal tissue can be organized; without its essential parts the exchanges of energy, the complex interplay of chemical reactions that underly life, cannot continue.

The number of cells in the reader's body is staggering. In the blood of an average man there are 15 million cells in the blood alone; his brain system contains nearly 2,000 million; and the total number in the human body is over 1,000,000,000,000,000—a thousand billions (and English billions, not American ones). They serve the body-community in various ways and have various appropriately specialized forms.

Our cells are all alive, but we are not all cells.

Take the structure of gristle, or as the biologist terms it, hyaline cartilage. The cells do not lie in contact with others, but are separated by a stiff transparent substance. If a fragment of living cartilage be cultured, those cells that can escape will migrate out into the serum, but the matrix between the cells will not move or grow.

It is not alive, but an exudation made by the living cartilage cell in much the same way as spittle is made by the cells of the salivary glands. Nevertheless it is to this non-living substance that cartilage owes its stiffness and smoothness, the qualities that make it useful to the organism. Similarly with the other kinds of framework tissue.

Bone consists of small cells imbedded in a matrix which has been made rigid by the deposition in it of lime salts, and it is upon this matrix, exuded, or in biological language, secreted, by the bone-cells, that the strength of a bone depends; the binding connective tissue that permeates organs and holds them together consists of cells surrounded by a web of non-living fibers of great strength and elasticity that they have laid down; tendons and ligaments are much the same sort of thing, but more so—with a greater proportion of fibers, and smaller and fewer cells.

The connective-tissue cells are carpenters and build the non-living scaffolding that supports the body—but the parallel would be closer if the scaffolding made by human carpenters consisted of their consolidated sweat.

Finally, blood consists of cells floating in a non-living watery fluid, and the watery part sustains most of the transport duties of blood.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Thoughts while strolling: What's become of the strong man who used to stop a runaway horse with his fist? Berton Braley's slouch hat. Beatrice Hereford, the mimic. Barbers at the gallery entrance of the Metropolitan opera. Keating, the magician. And a new Broadway heart palpitator.

John Cuneo, a Chicago, Ill., boy, who made good in the city. The best orchestras now play in chop suey dinner places. Harry Acton's rosewood cane. Why do ventriloquists call their dummies Jerry? Ann Pennington is bobbed and hennaed. She was about the last holdout.

A lecture on fish culture. The lure of toy store windows for grown-ups. Stylishly dressed mannikins who peep through Fifty-seventh street windows. The aloofness of a fur-coated chauffeur. John Ringling prowling about a private art gallery. Charlie Journal, the night clubs' most celebrated head waiter.

"The Dunk and Dine"—a lunch-room. Michael Arlen's double, who clerks in a Madison avenue haberdashery. The grinning starter who cries: "Reuben's—that's all!" Many big hotels operate their own cafeterias under another name. Frank Crowninshield, the blue-blooded editor of Vanity Fair.

Willard Huntington Wright (S. S. Van Dine) even has a mystery novel beard. Hooray! a country sausage shop. Rarely see a shepherd's plaid suit any more. The enticing row of bookshops on East Fifty-ninth street. Shifty eyed crowds around garages.

Three airplanes over Columbus Circle. The lame movie doorman, once a bullfighter in Spain. Hooked in the hip. The biggest electric signs have been to ballyhoo chewing gum. Passengers hopping out of coast buses for a long stretch. The paw-paw season is over back home.

Those worldlings you see in evening clothes before sundown. Sidewalk ticket speculators who wear huge diamond rings looped around ties. Come-hither girl with a ready-dinner look. Mike Hogg and his bride. The man who made a fortune selling picture postcards, ready stamped.

Colored shirts with attached collars to match are being featured with starched white cuffs, which is whatever you think up.

An enterprising fellow who trained ushers in cinema cathedrals in the crisp military manner has been engaged to give the same soldierly click to bell boys and pages in a big new hotel. Parade rest. Palms up!

The great drawback to mastodonic inns is they are too much cut to a pattern. Everything is standardized and lacks the spontaneity which makes a hotel patron feel he is something more than a ticket and a number. There are still those who enjoy being greeted by name before the clerk glances at it on the register. Servants stand at attention with the fixity of figures and Wedgwood plates. They do not look at you but through you. All the "accommodations" are controlled by predatory concessionaires and such hotels have the fleeting rush of a union station.

As a former hotel clerk we often wonder what has become of that beaming and jovial drummer who bounded out of the hack and slid his valise across the hotel office from the front door to the desk. He was reputed to be rewarded with a staggering salary of $150 a month and expenses, and he graced the "drummer's table"—the one with the bowl of fruit. He was most always a great admirer of Elbert Hubbard.

About the toughest looking mugs in New York are the waiters in the hash houses along the water front. The majority are left-over barmen of the South and West street swinging-door saloons. They generally wear a three days' growth, a greasy apron and blue work shirt open at the throat and are armed with a fierce scowl. And they rule by the domineering might of the fist. If a customer puts up the slightest argument he is on the receiving end of a swing from the ankle as quick as that.

"Why," writes someone who seems interested," do you live in the roaring confusion of the Forty-second street district when there is so much peace and quiet a short ride away?"

I live near Grand Central to watch the trains come in.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

IT IS largely your own fault that so many little things annoy you.

You claim that you are in such a nervous state that you cannot endure such things as noise or interruption. Yet you must know of conditions in your experience where you performed work or rested or read while there were many noises about you.

But it was because you were so interested in the occupation of the moment or the hour that you were oblivious to outside disturbance.

If you were really interested in your work you would be able to control your emotions. You would not permit yourself to be disturbed. You would not think in terms of disturbance of plans or personal feelings.

As sure as you become enraged over disturbing influence just so surely you are not doing anything to master conditions.

You are unwilling to make an effort to control circumstances.

You let circumstances control you, and so fall far short of what you might accomplish if you were not too lazy to take the helm with a sure and strong arm in a storm.

You don't have brainstorms when in the presence of your superiors, but you control yourself, so why not control yourself when you are with your family?
